DEBT HINTED SETTLED FOR 10 P. C.

Today

They Want U. S. Markets.
A Chimpanzee Baby.
Wanted, Safe Fuel.
Mixed Races, Best.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

KING GEORGE has recited the speech prepared for him before representatives of the nations gathered at the economic conference in London. The French sent seven members of the cabinet, their ablest men. Correspondents predict there will be a united "debt movement by Britain and France against the United States." There is talk of "stabilizing the dollar somewhere near the value of the British pound," which a few months ago would have meant shaving one dollar and a half from the value of a five dollar bill. They now suggest a pound worth $4.30.

THESE THINGS are the least of our troubles. The fact is that the economic conference, so-called, is aimed at the protection tnat our tariff gives to American workers and manufacturers. If other countries can find their way into our markets, competing freely here, regardless of the different standards of living, they will have what they want.

DO NOT WORRY if your child happens NOT to be an infant prodigy. Frank Damrosch, who has studied many prodigies in his musical institute, says he "pities the prodigies," with few exceptions. Too early development often means a sudden cessation of development.

In schools were children of a race less highly developed study with children of a higher race, the latter are usually behind in their studies at six or seven years of age. Then they go ahead, and those that were leading go no farther mentally. Facts do not encourage the belief that "all men are created equal."

AN INTERESTING experiment has been made by Prof. W. N. Kellog and his wife, who took a seven and one-half months old female chimpanzee named Gua from Yale University, and for nine months studied that baby ape, comparing its progress with their own nine months old boy. The result is told in a book called "The Ape and the Child," published by Whittlesey House.

The baby monkey showed more intelligence, better memory than the human child, was more obedient, took medicine more willingly, helped to dress itself. The ape was also more jealous and violent, becoming furiously angry when children laughed or pointed at it.

BUT AT THE end of nine months, with the ape sixteen and a half months old and the child eighteen months, the latter had gone ahead of its monkey playmate. The ape at that age had learned about as much as it would ever know, the child had only BEGUN to learn.

There are among human beings differences as great as that between the Kellogs' child and Gua, the chimpanzee baby.

Some humans stop learning at ten, some at twenty, some at thirty, the majority before fifty, when real study and mental development should BEGIN. We are nearly all dried up mentally at ninety, most of us before seventy-five. When the earth is fully populated, and men and women live to be 150 and 200 years, people will devote the last fifty years of their lives to intensive study of the outside universe. Then we shall really have got away from our simian relatives and our provincial interest in this small earth.

AN AIRPLANE disaster in Chicago, nine killed, the crash followed by explosion and fire, emphasizes the importance of discovering or creating a non-explosive, non-inflammable airplane fuel. German scientists are working on devices making less dangerous the hydrogen gas that they use in dirigibles, for lack of safe helium, that is an American monopoly.

CERTAIN substances added to the hydrogen gas are said to have rendered it fifty per cent less inflammable already, and Germans hope for some mixture that will make it entirely safe.

MR. HITLER'S campaign of "race hygiene" includes a fight against miscegenation," or mixture of races. Nature, however, as Schopenhauer can tell them, attends to race mixtures. Any German student of history can show them that the successful races have been and are the MIXED races.

THE GREEKS, mixed with blue-eyed Celts from the North and a dozen other races; the Romans, with 50 races from all over Europe and Asia pouring into their peninsula; the French, mixture of Gauls; Germans, Latins; the British mixture, Saxon, Norman, Dane, Celt, this mixed American race, with Japan, the greatest racial mixture and the greatest power in Asia- all prove that mixing helps the human race.

INDIANA, naturally dry, voted heavily for repeal of prohibition, and now an Iowa straw vote shows 64 per cent for repeal, surprising certain fanatics that ought not to be surprised.

The rejection of prohibition, after too long experiment, is due to MOTHERS. They were told that prohibition would "empty the jails, put an end to crime, create a young generation ignorant of the taste of alcohol." They were TOLD that, but they have lived to see young boys and girls drunk, with alcohol the greatest problem of youth.

IT WILL encourage you to know that the "slump," with all the harm that it has done, has added to church membership. At the beginning of the year churches in the United States had 50,037,209 enrolled members, a new record. And while one-sixth of all the banks in the United States failed, only one church in 2,344 has closed its doors.

CITY'S FUNDS SUNK IN PET BANK

Kerr Says Director Demanded $600,000 To Save Self

More details of a political tieup in the pyramiding of city funds in a favored bank were revealed today.

It came from City Controller James P. Kerr, who told of how a man high in political councils, a manufacturer and a director of the Pennsylvania Trust Company, had demanded that the city deposit $600,000 more to prevent the closing of the bank in 1933.

This demand resulted in the city accepting individual notes to guarantee city deposits already in the bank, Controller Kerr told the Sun-Telegraph. He also said the demand has resulted in an individual furnishing $5,000 to pay for a private audit of the City Treasurer's office.

The fact that more than $1,000,000 of city funds is now on deposit in the Pennsylvania Trust Company, for which the principal security is a mass of individual notes, many being those of politicians, was revealed in the audit made public yesterday.

Controller Kerr said the city

HOME LOAN BILL BECOMES LAW

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt, in signing the home mortgage refinancing bill today, asked creditors to abstain from foreclosing proceedings until the legislation gets into operation.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt today signed the bill providing for a $2,000,000,000 refinancing of small home mortgages to put them on a lower interest rate.

The administration hopes to have the new law in active operation within a month.

It permits holders of mortgages on homes valued at $20,000 or less to exchange these for government bonds bearing an interest rate of 5 per cent.

A loan of 80 per cent of the value of the homes, with $14,000 as the maximum, is provided.

A three-year moratorium on interest payments is permitted.

Loans for back taxes are allowed. If the holders of mortgages can not exchange them for government paper, the law permits a cash loan to the home owner up to 40 per cent of the value of the mortgage and bearing 6 per cent interest.

Fifteen years is allowed for all repayments.

MERCURY DROPS TO 49 DEGREES

The temperature dropped to 49 at 7 a. m. to end the heat wave that had gripped Pittsburgh for almost a week.

It was a drop of 47 degrees from the peak of the heat wave, and a decline of 33 degrees from yesterday's high.

Today's low mark was within six degrees of the record of 43 for this date, established in 1875.

Today's forecast is for fair and continued cool weather. Tomorrow is to be warmer.

Hotel Record Sought Of Coyne, Fugassi, Muldowney

Federal prosecutors indivated today they have an idea election day activity in hotel rooms may be quite as important in determining who is elected as John Q. Voter's appearance at the polls.

At least they obtained an order in Federal Court, as a special grand jury investigation opened, requiring that certain hotel records be produced for scrutiny.

The order specified the court wants information regarding telephone calls made by County Republican Chairman William H. Coleman, Senator James J. Coyne, Congressman Michael J. Muldowney, John Fugassi, former police magistrate, and Edward Labowitz around election time last November.

The special grand jury is sitting to decide whether the charges of a woman artist—Mrs. Anne E.

Actress Gives Up Stage To Be Female 'Crusoe'

NEW YORK, June 13.—(INS.)—A feminine Robinson Crusoe who has been living for two years on an uninhabited island in the West Indies was discovered today.

She is Christine Compton, American actress, who was last seen on the New York stage in 1929.

She has been living alone on Boat Island, a rock sticking out of the sea near Tobago, off the coast of Trinidad.

For her food she had to row out to a trading steamer which passes every two weeks. Even bread would spoil in two days and she lived on canned food.

Once when the steamer missed she had only a jar of caviar between herself and starvation.

She built herself a house on a neck of land so narrow the seas often washed her floors.

There are snakes on the island, and inguanas, the most horrible looking lizards in creation, often crossed her threshold.

Today on the terrace of her son's penthouse apartment just off Park avenue she waved her hand at the towers of New York and said:

"All this means nothing to me. I am going back there. That's my home."

Arthritis sent Miss Compton to the West Indies. She went to Tobago and saw three islands in a bay. She fell in love with the beauty of the spot, said she was going to live there and made good. Now she's going back.

Macon Fights Headwinds On Cruise

FRANKFORT, Mich., June 13.—(INS.)—The dirigible Macon appeared to be having some difficulty with a strong headwind over Frankforth this afternoon.

Observers on the ground could note no damage to the great irship, but it was making practically no headway against the wind and had been virtually standing still off the shore over Lake Michigan for an hour.

Carrying 90 persons, the Macon early today soared over the World Fair buildings at Chicago and later flew to Milwaukee. It left Akron last night.

Ice Pick Stabs Cover Bodies; Stilleto's Brand on Cheeks

International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 13.—Apparent victims of underworld vengeance, the tortured bodies of three young men, their mouths sealed with adhesive tape, their hands and feet bound with wire, were found in a cheap upper East Side tenement flat early today.

All three had been stabbed time and again with ice picks, and their cheeks bore the stiletto slash marking the victims as "squealers."

Police were uncertain as to their identities. But from a hasty comparison of fingerprints taken from the bodies with those on file at headquarters, detectives said the trio may be Salvatore Tellnello, Carnello Callabrese and a man known as "Salte." All, detectives said, were Italians, and all had police records.

Residents of the building made the gruesome discovery after several tenants had complained to Mrs. Elsie Froud, custodian who rented the apartment last Saturday, of an offensive odor emanating from the apartment.

Accompanied by her husband, Mrs. Froud went to the apartment. The door was unlocked. Inside, they found one of the trio dead on the living room floor. An ice pick had ben driven through his head. In the bedroom, the other bodies were stretched on the bed. All bore dozens of stab wounds, inflicted by ice picks.

The three men, Mrs. Froud told police, rented the apartment last Saturday, giving her $6 as a down payment.

All three were well dressed, she said, and carried expensive luggage.

One of the men gave her his name, she said, "but it was in Italian and I forgot to write it down."

MASS. BALLOTS ON REPEAL

BOSTON, June 13.—(AP.)—It seemed today that only the greatest of upsets could prevent Massachusetts from being the eleventh consecutive state to go on record for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Repealists were confident that the final count of today's ballots would find Massachusetts' 45 delegates to the state convention all pledged to repeal of the Prohibition Amendment and prohibition spokesmen refrained from making any predictions of the outcome of the voting.

The states which already have voted in favor of repeal are Wyoming, Illinois, Indiana, New York, New Jersey, Michigan, Rhode Island, Delaware, Wisconsin and Nevada.

Chairman Joseph Maynard, of the Democratic State Committee, an active leader of repeal forces, predicted a sweeping victory in an election eve statement, and Gov. Joseph B. Ely appealed for the election of repeal candidates on moral and economic grounds.

Today repealists were predicting a victory by as large a majority as eight to one.

Bank Reform Measure Passed by House; Up to Senate

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(AP.)—After a conference with President Roosevelt, Democratic leaders returned to the Capitol today for a mighty effort toward reaching an agreement on the controversial legislation cutting allowances for war veterans.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(AP.)—Vice President Garner and the congressional Democratic leaders, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, and Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, undertook another conference with President Roosevelt today presumably on hazards to quick adjournment such as the veterans' compensation dispute.

High-ranking Senate Democrats conceded privately that they lacked the votes to approve the compromise of veterans' allowances sanctioned by the President, tthus forecasting further delay in reaching an agreement.

Meanwhile, the House this afternoon adopted the compromise Glass-Steagall bank reform-insurance deposit bill, sending it to the Senate where quick acceptance of the conference agreement also was expected by the leaders.

ROOSEVELT TO ACCEPT

That President Roosevelt will accept the revised measure is being taken for granted in view of the interest he took in formulation of the compromise after weeks of deadlock between conferes of the two Congressional branches.

Final acceptance of the bill in such a ready manner was expected in the House, but the outlook was uncertain in the Senate until midday, at which time proponents of more changes apparently gave in.

In the extreme effort to get adjournment last Saturday, friends of the legislation feared it would be crowded out, but in the several days since it was found possible

'Sleeping Beauty' Goes Under Knife

CHICAGO, June 13.—(AP.)—Miss Patricia Maguire, of suburban Oak Park, who has been asleep for more than 17 months during an attack of sleeping sickness, was back at her home today, apparently recovering from the effects of a surgical operation.

The operation was performed at a Chicago hospital yesterday for removal of part of a needle which broke off near her spine while being used in giving her a serum designed to combat the sleeping sickness.

FETE 'BLOWS IN' BLAST FURNACE

Like an armistice day for depression, bells tolled and factory whistles blew as Mayor James S. Crawford, of Duquesne, lit the first blast furnace in the Duquesne Works of the Carnegie Steel Company at 11 o'clock this morning, sending 100 men back to work for the first time in two years.

This and the "blowing in" yesterday of the Carnegie Company's Carrie Furnace at Rankin were the vanguard of the "prosperity procession" which is expected to include five additional furnaces at Duquesne within a short time, officials said.

The Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation announced resumption of its No. 3 blast furnace at Aliquippa. Additional work was

Chamberlain Report Delayed by 'Hitch' At Washington

LONDON, June 13.—(AP.)—Great Britain has settled Thursday's $79,950,000 war debt installment due the United States on a 10 per cent basis, according to a report today in well-informed World Economic Conference quarters.

These sources predicted that Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain would make an announcement along this line shortly in the House of Commons.

The Chancellor had been scheduled to make his statement before the House at 5:30 p. m., but after the members had waited for him for some time he appeared and announced that he would be unable to present the statement until 10 p. m. (5 p. m. Pittsburgh time.)

Chamberlain apologized to the House, saying:

"I am sorry to disappoint you still further because an unfortunate delay has occurred, and in consequence I shall not be in position to make a statement until about 10 o'clock."

It was known that the Chancellor's speech on the debts had been prepared but was being held up in connection with communications with Washington.

LONDON, June 13.—The British government today decided it will not continue to meet the terms of the American debt settlement in full. The decision was reached at an emergency session of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald's cabinet.

The session was held following receipt of a long diplomatic message from Washington in which President Roosevelt was reported to have signified his inability to accept Britain's offer to make a "token" payment on the debt instalment due Toursday.

It was understood the British government is drafting a new note

Life Hereafter Denied by Patients 'Raised From Dead' by Doctor

By LEIGH MATTESON
International News Service.

MILWAUKEE, June 13.—An extraordinary series of scientific efforts to find out if there is any life beyond this life and what, exactly, it feels like to be dead, were revealed here today at the second session of the annual American Medical Association convention.

About 100 persons who have gone into the "Great Beyond"—who have been medically, biologically, physically and legally "dead"—have been brought back to life and then systematically questioned about their experiences on that "other shore."

This was disclosed by Dr. Albert S. Hyman, of the Witkin Foundation for the Study and Prevention of Heart Disease, Beth Israel Hospital, New York.

Dr. Hyman himself raised these people from the "dead" with his recently devised "artificial pace maker" of the heart. In all the patients the heart had stopped beating for at least one minute, and in some cases "death," due to heart inaction, had lasted as long as 18 minutes.

The instrument that revives the dead is a huge needle with a slender tip which is thrust into a certain region of the heart when it has stopped finally as a result of disease or major surgical and accident shocks.

Clergymen who have been attending the patients during their "last" moments first began the questioning of the recovered patients. This gave Dr. Hyman the idea of continuing the questioning systematically, he said.

Among the recovered patients were members of all the major faiths in the United States. They were asked first:

"What is it like to be dead?"

In all cases, with no exceptions, the former "dead" individuals answered that they had not known they were dead and did not feel or remember anything about the experience, Dr. Hyman said.

They were then asked:

"Did you get even a glimpse of any other life, different from this?"

To this the answer also was "no," in all cases.

Dr Hyman said that various clergymen visited a number of the "ressurected" patients and got similar replies to like questions.

He said he plans to continue the systematic questioning of patients he manages to revive from "death."

PECORA TO RESUME QUIZ OF PRIVATE BANKERS JUNE 26

KUHN, LOEB CO., TO GO UNDER PROBE

Dillon, Read Also to Be Investigated By Committee

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The Senate Banking Committee's sensational investigations into the workings of the great finance houses of the nation will be resumed June 26, with Kuhn, Loeb & Co. the subject of the inquiry.

The seven-man sub-committee conducting the inquiries voted unanimously today to begin work again in spite of the Capital's torrid summer weather.

It is probable the investigation of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. will wind up the committee's work during the hot months.

Authority was obtained today by Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, to proceed with a similar investigation into Dillon, Read & Co., and the committee might decide to undertake this, too.

KAHN SUBPENED

Otto Kahn, head of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and two other partners have been subpenaed to appear. If the committee decides to continues with the Dillon-Read investigation, Clarence Dillon, head of the firm, will appear as the first witness. Several other Dillon-Read partners have been served subpenaes, too.

The Kuhn-Loeb and Dillon-Read inquiries will be conducted along lines similar to the investigation of the great international banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., just completed. Pecora will bring out the general operating picture of the big banking firms, showing how, through its many ramifications, its influence extends far beyond the banking field.

There is a chance that the Chase National Bank of New York and its investment affiliate, the Chase Securities Corporation, may come under the committee's scrutiny, but this was regarded as remote.

Meanwhile, the great international banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. came to the turning of the road today with Congress about to finally enact the administration's banking reform bill.

MORGAN PROBLEM

When President Roosevelt signs this bill, J. P. Morgan and his partners must choose between investment and commercial banking. They must give up deposits, which they accept as private bankers, or give up their tremendous hold on American industry, public utilities and railroads through interlocking directorates. They probably will step out of the commercial banking field in order to continue their tremendous international business in floating securities.

This decision will give a major victory to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., generally credited with having launched the legislation for a divorcement of commercial and investment banking. It was Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the board of Chase National Bank and a son-in-law of John D., who won President Roosevelt's support of such legislation months ago.

INDICT CULLUM ON TAX CHARGE

J. Barlow Cullum, former Pittsburgh business man and Sewickley socialite, was indicted today on charges of attempted evasion of income tax by a Federal grand jury. Cullum a few years ago was a director of a refractories company.

The government contends that Cullum owes $101,753.82 tax for 1928 and 1929. In these years he paid a total of $52,000.

Cullum reported income for 1928 of $199,570.40 when his net was $573,849.68 and for 1929 $176,247 when the correct figure was $266,400.53, according to the government.

He is now living on a farm near Berks County.

PROBE TO CHECK PHONE CALLS

Felix—that she was cheated out of the seat in Congress from the Thirty-second District are true, and also to look into the way a Congressman was elected in the Thirtieth District.

It is something new to have election fraud charges aired in United States District Court here. The common garden variety of vote quiz heretofore has blossomed in the state courts.

That this is to b a thoroughgoing investigation was indicated by the appointment of a special prosecutor—Earl F. Reed. Prosecutor Reed and United States Attorney Louis E. Graham produced a sensation right at the start by getting the order for hotel records from Judge Nelson McVicar.

Judge McVicar ordered officials of the William Penn Hotel to produce records of registration of guests, phone calls made by the aforementioned Republican leaders and followers and all other phone calls, rooms assigned to persons whether registered or not, and phone calls and occupancy of rooms 1620, 1621, 895, 897 and 899.

The order also required records of rooms in the hotel occupied by the Republican organization as campaign headquarters, and telephone calls made therefrom.

Dates on and about election day last November 8 were stipulated. The significance of the move was not brought out.

Had Mrs. Felix gone to Congress, she would have boosted the Democratic majority. She claims illegal things were done to seat her Republican opponent, Congressman Muldowney.

WITNESSES ABSENT

The victor in the Thirtieth District—Twing Brooks—is a Democrat. He defeated the Republican incumbent, Edmund F. Erk.

Judge McVicar's order today mentioned Erk. It asked the hotel to furnish records of the occupancy of rooms by Erk prior to the election.

The grand jurors had a look at the records of the First District, Third Ward, this morning. Vote check lists and the district ballot box was taken into the grand jury room.

Before they went out to lunch, the jurors heard about 50 witnesses, mostly voters who cast their ballots in the district.

One witness failed to appear this afternoon and an attachment was issued by Judge McVicar. He is Joseph Feinberg, 23 Congress

BANK TO OPEN IN WILKINSBURG

Plans for reorganizing the First National Bank, of Wilkinsburg, are before the Comptroller of the Currency in Washington, it became known today.

This bank failed to reopen after the bank holiday ordered by President Roosevelt and has been in charge of Martin J. Moore as conservator. About $4,000,000 is held by the bank.

Mr. Moore said the proposed new bank would not be known as the First National.

Bankruptcy Probe Appropriation Asked

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(INS.)—With the House Judiciary Committee authorized to conduct a sweeping investigation of bankruptcy practices in Federal Courts, Representative Celler (Dem.), of New York, today asked the Accounts Committee to approve a $5,000 appropriation for the inquiry.

While no special counsel would be engaged by the committee, the fund was asked to provide clerical and stenographic assistance.

FEDERAL WORK PLAN LAUNCHED

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(INS.)—The government's $3,300,000,000 construction relief program has already been launched by the Treasury.

Advertisement for bids on a number of projects to cost a total of $1,000,000 already have been announced, while projects to total $100,000,000 in cost are in final stages of preparation.

With the enactment of the construction program by Congress the Treasury will be ready to get off to a flying start and follow out the desire of Hugh S. Johnson, industrial control director, to get a large amount of money in use at once.

It was hoped the Treasury and other construction programs would have 1,000,000 men to work and that $1,000,000,000 would be under expenditure by October 1.

Ma Bear Scolds Cub, Hunter Reports

Ray Jones, Pittsburgh sportsman, brought a whopper of a bear story out of the hill country on the edge of Emporium, Pa., today.

An Associate Press dispatch, which preceded his arrival to his home at 3038 Pinehurst avenue, Dormont, ha dthis to say:

"Mrs. Bruin took two cubs out for a walk and everything went fine until they came to a stream. She started across, one of the cubs at her heel, but the other set up a howl. Decidedly peeved, Mrs. Bruin returned to her youngster, grabbed him and gave him a shaking."

to get together in a way to satisfy both sides of the arguments.

The House vote was 191 to 6 to accept the conference report.

Just before the measure was sent to the Senate, Chairman Steagall of the banking committee, told the house:

"Under this bill there won't be any more bank failures with depositors walking the streets in front of their closed banks, so long as people are able to get money at any other place in the United States.

"The people have been clamoring for this kind of legislation for years.

"Under the new deal they have been able to make their voices heard in Congress."

SENATE SENTIMENT

On the veterans' compensation fight, two of the administration's spokesmen told newspapermen:

"The sentiment of the Senate is overwhelmingly against the House compromise."

They were doubtful that the Cutting-Steiwer substitute for it could be beaten down.

Senator Byrnes (Dem.-, of South Carolina, in charge of the independent offices supply bill which carries the veterans' provisions, could not say when he would advise the Senate that its spokesmen and House conferees could not agree.

Nor would he say whether there would be any more discussions with the House conferees before he reports to the Senate that they are deadlocked and asks for instructions from his colleagues which probably will lead to a vote on the House plan.

A policy of cautious waiting to see what develops in the Senate was being urged by some of the leaders in the hope that they could muster enough votes to prevent too wide liberalization of veterans' benefits, considered certain to bring a veto.

Senate Debates Measure For Industrial Control

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(AP.)—Assailing elimination of provisions to prohibit price-fixing and combinations in restraint of trade, Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, today opened debate on the conference report on the administration's industry revival bill in the Senate.

Calling attention that the conferees retained that part of his amendment prohibiting monopolies and monopolistic practices, while striking out the bans against price-fixing combinations in restraint of trade, Borah said it was "difficult to know what was in the minds of the conferees." He added:

"It must be that they are of the opinion that price-fixing and combinations in restraint of trade are not monopolistic practices.

PROVIDES FOR CODES

"Any code framed by trade associations unde rthis bill, then, which may provide for combinations and price-fixing would not be a monopolistic practice. And when codes are thus framed, any individual pursuing an individual business may be fined for violating the provisions of the code."

Wagner (Dem.), of New York principal author of the bill, told Borah the bill "makes the declaration by law that there are to be no monopolies."

Borah said:

"It is my deliberate judgment that, whatever may be the purpose of the framers of this legislation, if we do not have strict provisions against price-fixing and combinations in restraint of trade, they will insidiously reach into these codes in spite of any supervision and eliminate small enterprise."

CITY CASH SUNK IN PET BANK, KERR SAYS

deposits in the bank now amount to $1,075,000, and were about $2,400,000 at the time of the removal of Roy D. Schooley from the City Treasurer's office. Only $220,000 in government bonds were up then as guaranty, Controller Kerr said, although the law requires the bank to post government security for the full amount, or corporation and industrial securities for not more than 75 per cent of their market value.

Controller Kerr said the demand had been made on R. W. Thompson, then City Treasurer, by a director of the bank. Thompson told the director to "go to hell" and the director immediately called him, the Controller said.

KERR WAS WORRIED

Concerning the interview with the banker, Kerr said:

"I told him the city already had too much money in the bank and, whether the bank should stay open or close, we wouldn't deposit any more.

"I was worried, and Sunday morning called J. C. Chaplin, president of the Colonial Trust Company, for advice. He told me to cal Mayor Kline, President of Council Herron, Treasurer Thompson, City Solicitor Waldschmidt, and the officers of the bank to my office for 2 o'clock that afternoon.

"Chaplin appeared. When the threat about closing was repeated, Chaplin told the Pennsylvania Trust Company director that if he didn't open on Monday morning, he would have him in jail on Monday afternoon.

"The upshot of the meeting was that the bank posted these notes as security, with the Colonial Trust Company named as trustee."

Controller Kerr said there was no way of getting any better surety out of the Pennsylvania Trust. The account is being liquidated as fast as possible, he said.

CAT OUT OF BAG

Controller Kerr said he should have made an audit after he took office, but that when he wanted to make the audit, City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley put him off, saying he was bucy collecting taxes.

He realized things were getting worse, he said, and wanted an audit but feare dto ask Council, as it would have "let the cat out of the bag." He finally got an individual to advance $5,000 and the audit was started, a few days after the Franklin Trust Company closed, he said.

City Solicitor A. A. Waldschmidt, for 10 years a director of the Pennsylvania Trust, said he never knew of the depositts either as a city or bank official. He said the deposits had been placed after competitive bidding in which the trust company offered 3.85 per cent, the highest bid in 1931.

Schooley, already indicted on charges of embezzlement and malfeasance in office in connection with city deposits in the Franklin Savings and Trust Company, disregarded the bond provision in this case also, Kerr said.

The law limiting deposits to $1,000,000 was also flouted, the audit report shows.

SOME NOTES UNSECURED

Compiled by Price, Waterhouse & Co., the audit gives the names of the makers of approximately 250 notes, some entirely unsecured and others backed by real estate or endorsers.

Herman Friedman, indicated on counts of conspiracy and fraudulent conversion in the Franklin bank case, is listed in the audit as the maker of an unsecured note for $40,000 dated March 13, 1933, and due today. His note was one of those accepted by the city as security for its deposit.

Among others whose notes were listed as security were Joe Engelsberg on a $5,000 demand note, Magistrate Leo Rothenberg on a $500 demand note, and Benjamin L. Steinberg, Assistant City Solicitor, on five notes totaling $10,855.

Since the general banking holiday, the Pennsylvania Trust Company has been operating under the Sordoni act, which allows no withdrawals on deposits made prior to March 1.

The city deposits, however, have been paid off steadily until, on April 24, the date of the audit, the deposit had been reduced to $1,104,196.

RECOMMEND INTEREST

The audit report also recommends that 6 per cent annual interest be charged on the unpaid checks of F. F. Nicola's Point Improvement Company, for which tax receipts were issued. The checks total $61,201.17.

Separate action is also recommended against the bonding companies covering David A. Rogers, Albert Brandner and John M. McKibbin, employes in the delinquent tax office, charged defalcations totaling more than $40,000. Schooley's bond was said to be insufficient to cover the subordinates.

The Board of Public Education is also advised by the auditors to file a claim against the Standard Accident Insurance Company of Detroit, surety for Schooley as school treasurer. While there is no shortage in the school funds, the auditors contend that school and city tax money were interchanged and that the city had to stand all of the loss, part of which was actually school tax.

FLAG DAY FETE SET IN GOTHAM

NEW YORK, June 13.—(Universal.)—Flag Day will be celebrated tomorrow by the Sons of the Revolution in the state of New York with a luncheon in Fraunces' Tavern and a parade to City Hall Park.

Gov. Talmadge, of Georgia, will install a stone from a Georgia battlefield at the base of the Liberty Pole.

Among the luncheon guests will be Mayor O'Brien, Judge John Rourke, of Savannah; Rear Admiral W. W. Phelps, representing the U. S. Navy; Col. H. Clay M. Supplee, representing the U. S. Army, and George A. Zabriskie, chairman of the Flag Day committee.

300 KILLINGS LAID TO NAZI REGIME

Violence Still Reigns In Germany, Says U. S. Investigator

International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 13.—(INS.)—Three hundred outright killings of Jews and at least 3,000 cases of serious physical molestation were charged against the Nazi government today by Michael Williams, semi-official investigator for the American Committee on Religious Rights and Minorities when he arrived on the Conte de Savoia from a tour of Germany.

Williams, editor of Commonweal and president of the Calvert Associates, is a member of the committee and was appointed to make a first hand investigation of the alleged persecutions of Jews in Germany.

After first pointing out that the visit of the committee was postponed, that he went to Germany as a private individual and that his opinions in no way represented that of the committee, Williams presented the results of his investigations.

A conservative estimate of the cases of physical violence and of deaths resulting from physical violence during the anti-Jewish demonstrations, he said, are about as follows:

Physical molestation serious enough to be noteworthy—at least 3,000.

Deaths ranging from outright killing to deaths resulting from shock produced by physical violence—at least 300.

He said:

"So far as the persecutions are concerned those in a position to know—and by these I mean newspaper correspondents and American consular officials—have agreed that in spite of reports of wholesale slaughtering which were quickly proven false and in spite of tremendous counter-propaganda of the Hitler regime, there was and continues to be a persecution of Jews."

AUSTRIA BALKS NAZI PLOT

VIENNA, June 13.—(INS.)—Police have obtained proof that Austrian Nazis, against whom the government has decreed severe restrictive measures, were plotting to burn down the Foreign Office, Minister of War Vaugoin disclosed today.

He told a meeting of the government party that several Nazis had been arrested near the Foreign Office building carrying flasks of glasoline.

The government issued a proclamation today declaring the Nazi party inimical to the state and prohibiting all civil servants to belong.

Measures of the Austrian government suppressing Nazis within its borders met with quick retaliation.

Officials government posters announcing all Nazi headquarters and expelling Nazi foreigners as a result of bombings and violence caused a series of counter demonstrations.

Austrians Raid Hitler Birthplace

BRAUNAU, Austria, June 13.—(AP.)—The house where Adolf Hitler was born was raided by the gendarmerie today and the door through which the infant Adolf first toddled into the public street was padlocked.

This action was taken not because Hitler was born there, but because Braunau Nazis make the house their headquarters and all such Nazi centers are being shut up by the authorities.

Banker Says Mitchell 'Cushioned' Market

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 13.—Hugh B. Baker, who resigned as president of the National City Company when Charles E. Mitchell resigned as chairman, testified today as a defense witness at the income tax evasion trial of his former banking confrere.

Baker corroborated Mitchell's testimony that he had put forth his personal fortune in October, 1929, to "cushion" the market for National City Bank stock to prevent "a sudden and disastrous crash."

Baker termed the tumultuous market of October 28, 1929, "a red letter day." He testified:

"Mitchell was away from the office all day. When he returned I told him our portfolio had been tremendously increased, and that 71,000 shares of National City Bank stock had been added and represented $32,000,000.

"He was tremendously disturbed as to how we would manage to finance that situation."

The following day, acting under instructions from Mitchell, Baker testified he bought 28,300 shares of the bank stock which he delivered to J. P. Morgan & Co., against a loan Mitchell had made by putting up all his personal securities.

No 'Nine O'Clock Town' For Actor-Mayor

MINNEAPOLIS, June 13.—(AP.)—Curfew shall not ring tonight, A. G. ("Buzz") Bainbridge told his voters' audience today as he trod the political stage (not theatrical) for the first time.

"And that's for the wags who have been calling Minneapolis a 9 o'clock town."

So said the city's new Mayor, the 47-year-old theatrical producer, who, as a youngster, ran away from home to join a circus. He added:

"Too long has Minneapolis been closed up tight, sending everyone home with the curfew. I want everyone to know they can come to Minneapolis and enjoy themselves as they do in other cities."

The explained that doesn't mean a wide open town, for law breaking won't be tolerated. But things will be at a happy medium between a "tight" town and an "open" one.

His triumph over the incumbent, Mayor William Anderson, in yesterday's municipal election was his political debut. He has made and aided others to make any number of theatrical debuts at his stock theater here, which boasts of the longest continuous stock run of any theater in the United States.

TUB DEATH ENDS 'PERFECT LOVE,' ELENORE MEHERIN SAYS

NOVELIST FINDS 'CRUEL DETAILS' ON CAMPUS

Reviews Gay Stanford Romance Spattered By Tragedy

(Editor's Note—David Lamson, handsome Stanford University Press executive, stands accused of the bludgeoning to death of his beautiful wife, Alene Thorpe Lamson, and on Thursday will have a preliminary hearing on a charge of murder. Herewith is the first of a series detailing the background of the campus bathtub murder mystery.)

By ELENORE MEHERIN
(Author "Chickie" and other popular novels).

SAN JOSE, Cal., June 13.—Under the tall trees of the Stanford Campus where the hills emanate peace and a scholarly quiet—where the very air breathes dignity and purpose, a young girl, Allene Thorpe, and a young boy, David Lamson, studied, achieved, loved and married. They were such upstanding, fine young people.

He was the idol of his class, with a flair for writing and dramatics. Only a lad in his teens when he first met Allene Thorpe, a dark-eyed, winsome stranger, flashing with brilliance and ambition. Both were good students; both were eager and beloved.

"A glorious romance," sighed old Stanford graduates as they stood on the steps of the Memorial Chapel and waved godspeed to Dave and Allene Lamson that golden noon of June 18, 1928.

'PERFECT' ROMANCE

For five years the legend of the perfect romance grew. The young Lamsons made their home in a rose-covered cottage in sequestered, peace-haunted Salvatierra street. Here, their many friends gathered.

And here, two years ago, a little girl was born to them. She is a most beautiful child.

Their happiness, apparently, was complete. They had their love—they had their personal success.

And the only comment ever made was this:

"He loves her too much."

Did any one ever see in David Lamson's now brooding, unhappy eyes a faint hint of the frightful deed he is accused of committing?

Did any one surmise that black hostility raged behind that sweet tranquil face of Allene Thorpe?

NO RUMORS BEORE

There are rumors now but every one has been stirred up in these dark two weeks. No word was ever said before.

That sunny morning of Decoration Day, as Dave Lamson worked in his garden, neighbors watched with warm, approving smiles.

At 10 o'clock came the shocking, sudden, unbelieavable shift in the Lamson fortunes.

A real estate agent, Mrs. L. M. Place, bringing clients who wished to rent the little home for the summer rang the bell, received no answer and sauntered to the backyard.

Here she saw the athletic figure of young Lamson. He was stripped to the waist and carelessly raking the bonfire. He said affably:

"Go back to the front door. I'll run in and tidy up a bit."

SCREAMS, BLOOD

But Mrs. Place had no suspicions. She waited with her clients. Unexpectedly—piercingly came a cry—a scream. Then frantic, rushing footsteps. The door was pulled open. Lamson, white as a ghost, shaking from head to foot and covered with blood, cried out at them:

"My God! My wife has been murdered!"

Why did he say "murdered?" That's another cruel detail.

There was a wild hour in the little rose-covered home. In the bathroom they found the pale, nude body of the beautiful girl, done frightfully to death.

She was sitting in the bathtub, her head dropped over the side and her long, shiny brown hair trailing the floor. One limp hand touched her husband's slipper.

The Sheriff says:

"He killed her—a deliberate, brutal murder."

Mrs. Brown, his nearest neighbor, says:

"David Lamson didn't kill her. He couldn't kill her."

In the bonfire under the brush lay a 10-inch pipe. They say it has blood stains. They say it is the death weapon and with this David Lamson, in flaming rage, struck and struck and struck upon his startled, terror-muted wife.

SCHWAB URGES BRIDGE MATCH BAN GERMANS

E. Hall Downes Sues Culbertson, Charges Contract 'Racket'

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP.)—The Bridge World announces that Charles M. Schwab, steelmaster, has requested that any invitation to Germany to participate in the international bridge tournament be withdrawn so long as there is discrimination against Jews in that country.

Schwab is the donor of a trophy for the tournament which is to be held July 17. His letter was made public last night.

Ely Culbertson is abroad promoting the international matches.

Another statement from Culbertson's office last night denied allegations in a suit filed by E. Hall Downes, Pittsburgh bridge teacher, to determine his right to teach the "approach force system" of bidding. Downes alleges his method was unlawfully appropriated by Culbertson.

The Culbertson statement called this contention "palpably absurd."

Downes had issued a statement saying he had "brought this suit against Mr. Culbertson because the time has come when he must be made to understand that no one man owns the game of contract bridge" and because "any effort that anyone may make to racketeer the game must be stopped."

Downes seeks an injunction restraining Culbertson and his magazine from advertising that they are the sole owners of the approach forcing system and that Downes is not authorized by them to teach it in his book.

MATTERN HOPS FROM SIBERIA FOR ALASKA

Globe-Circler Overdue At Nome—Detour Held Likely

MOSCOW, June 13.—(AP.)—Jimmie Mattern started for home today, braving headwinds on his takeoff from Khabarovsk, Siberia, for Nome, Alaska, one of the most arduous laps of his flight around the globe.

He started for American soil just 9 days 6 hours 54 minutes after leaving New York on the first solo attempt to circle the world. He left at 10:15 p. m. Monday, Moscow time (3:15 p. m. Pittsburgh time, Monday).

The Texan wanted to cross the Sea of Okhotsk and the Bering Sea without stopping, but latest weather reports were none too reassuring, and it was considered likely he would pause at Petropavlovsk, on the Kamchatka Peninsula northeast of Khabarovsk.

ST. PAUL ISLAND, Bering Sea, June 13.—(AP.)—Rain was falling here at 4:40 a. m. (Pacific standard time) and a light southeast wind was blowing at about the time Jimmie Mattern, 'round-the-world flier, was due here on his hop from Khabarovsk, Siberia.

Although a watch was maintained here through the night, no word of Mattern's progress was received.

NOME, Alaska, June 13.—(INS.)—No word had been received on the progress of James Mattern, Texas globe-circling aviator, today at 10:30 a. m. Pittsburgh time). At that hour he was more than 19 hours out of Khabarovsk, Siberia, and it had been expected he would make the hop in 17 hours.

Alaska airmen advanced two opinions for Mattern's delay. Possibly a mistake had been made in the time of his takoff, due to conflicting dates and time, or he was compelled to make detours because of low visibility over the Bering Sea.

The barometerw was dropping gradually today.

CALLS BUCKS BOTH GUILTY

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

BARNSTABLE, Mass., June 13.—Kenneth and Cyril Buck, brothers, were "equally guilty" in the kidnaping of Peggy McMath, 10-year old heiress, District Attorney William C. Crossley declared in his opening address to the jury in Barnstable County Court today. Crossley asserted:

"Cyril Buck was just as guilty of the crime kidnaping as Kenneth. It was a common enterprise. There was a concert of mentality. They aided and abetted each other throughout."

The district attorney's statements came as a surprise. Cyril Buck had claimed he was entirely innocent that he consented to act as intermediary for his brother solely for the purpose of seeing that Peggy was returned safely to her home.

REFUSE TO BAN BRIDE'S MA

BOSTON, June 13.—(AP.)—Superior Court Judge Stanley E. Qua yesterday denied a petition which would have restrained the socially prominent Mrs. Amelia H. Swain from attending the wedding of her daughter, Hester, next Friday.

In denying the petition Judge Qua said he was not certain he could bar Mrs. Swain, as one of the public, from entering the church where the wedding is to be held.

The petition was asked by Charles B. Swain, father of the girl, jointly with Miss Swain. She is to marry Hancock Dorr, Boston clubman, at the fashionable Church of the Advent.

HEIRESS WINS NEVADA DIVORCE

FALLON, Nev., June 13.—(INS.)—Mrs. Miriam Hostetter Young, New York and Pittsburgh social leader, today was free of her marital bonds.

Mrs. Young attracted considerable attention a week ago in Reno when she swore to complaints against her New York broker friend, Eugene A. Bowen, charging him with assault and battery.

Previous to their dispute, Bowen had announced he would marry Mrs. Young as soon as she was divorced—but she vigorously denied this.

Mrs. Young is a member of an old Pittsburgh family and one of the heirs to the fortune built up from the old Hostetter Medicine Company. She is the daughter of Mrs. Herbert Hostetter, of Pasadena, Cal., formerly of Pittsburgh.

Pinchot Loses Suit Over N. Y. Property

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP.)—A $5,319 judgment was entered yesterday against Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania; Amos R. E. Pinchot and Antoinette Eno Johnstone.

The verdict was awarded Miss J. W. Miller, a real estate agent, who claimed it as commission for leasing property here owned by the defendants.

MENJOU, WIFE PART AGAIN

HOLLYWOOD, June 13.—(Universal.)—Adolphe Menjou, debonair screen actor, and his wife, the former Kathryn Carver, actress and artists' model, have made up their minds that their "second guess" was the best one.

They simply cannot get along together.

Home again after a trip to New York, Menjou today was making his quarters at the family residence in Hollywood, while Mrs. Menjou was temporarily visiting at the home of friends.

In October, 1932, the Menjous separated after having been married more than four years, but were reunited a month later.

Who would file a suit for divorce was a subject for discussion by attorneys.

Four Hurt as Auto Skids, Overturns

Two of the injured, Frances Kurtz, 18, of the Morrowfield Apartments, and Frank Chamberlin, 19, also of the Morrowfield Apartments, were treated at Montefiore Hospital. The others, Mildred Lasday, 18, of 5415 Murray avenue, and Eleanor Goldman, 18, of the Morrowfield Apartments, were treated at the Homeopathic Hospital.

Joan Lowell 'Broke,' Turns Sea Hitch-Hiker

'Cradle of the Deep' Too Much for Feminine 'Salt'

By DOROTHY ROE
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, June 13.—Joan Lowell, that self-styled young salt whose book, "Cradle of the Deep," was hailed as a lot of salt water taffy, is back home and broke.

The round-the-world cruise which she started April 2 in her trusty 48-foot schooner Black Hawk ended in disaster in Caribbean waters, and the seafaring Joan left her father looking for a lost lifeboat and caught a ride back home on the Colombian liner Pastores.

Arriving yesterday in a coat of tan, white ducks and a black suede jacket with three old stripes, Cap'n Joan told a harrowing tale of life on the briny deep and expressed the devout hope that somebody would bail her out of the Pastores, where the price of her passage is still a subject of concern to both Miss Lowell and the ship's owners.

The prospective three-year round-the-world cruise lasted just 58 days, but Cap'n Joan is going to try again. Or so she says.

Here's what happened to the good ship Black Hawk after she sailed out of New York harbor with Joan, her father, a publicity man, an unemployed fireman, an ex-Marine and "Capt. Jack," the canine mascot. Let Joan tell it:

"We had tough luck all the way. Just out of New York we ran into the storm that wrecked the Akron, and Coast Guard boats flagged us back. And it was rough weather all the way.

"Off San Salvador our engine broke down and we ran into a dead calm. I came on deck to take the wheel at 4 a. m. and found our water tank had sprung a leak and was dry as a bone.

"Sawyer (the ex-Marine) was thrown down an engine room hatch when the boat rocked suddenly and rammed an oil can spout through his foot. He got blood poisoning and both he and dad became delirious from lack of water in the four-day calm.

"I flashed an S. O. S. with lights to a Norwegian ship that passed the fourth night, but when the captain found why I'd stopped him he ordered his men to throw me off. But I kept coming up the Jacob's ladder until they gave me a five-gallon can of water.

"Next day the calm lifted and we made San Salvador.

"I traded the natives all the clothes I had except what I have on for food and water. Then we headed for Kingston and we caught this bus."

Joan shocked the passengers of the Pastores by appearing in the dining salon barefooted, wearing white duck trousers. But did she care? She did not.

Somebody staked her to a bet in the ship's pool and she won $18. She says:

"I've still got it, and that's my stake until the ship sails Thursday. I hope somebody bails me out."

Randolph Petition Urges Plant Opening

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(AP.)—A petition signed by more than 700 former employes of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company at the Sabraton plant near Morgantown, urging reopening of the plant, was presented to President Roosevelt by Representative Randolph today.

Randolph said other units of the American Sheet and Tin Plate are operating now at more than normal capacity.

ITALIAN PLANES READY TO HOP

ORBETELLO, Italy, June 13.—(INS.)—Gen. Italo Balbo's fleet of 25 seaplanes probably will start their flight to Chicago tomorrow or Thursday, it appeared today, depending upon the arrival at Cartwright, Labrador, of the supply ships Alice and Senef.

At present the bay off Cartwright is blocked with ice, and the starting signal will not be given until the pack breaks.

ROME, June 13.—(Universal.)—Gen. Italo Balbo flew from Ostia yesterday to take over command of the air armada he will lead this week on a flight to Chicago. Addressing 115 pilots, radio operators and mechanics, the air minister said:

"I am proud to lead you to victory in the northern skies. I know the difficulties that face us. I know also that you are prepared and are brave. I am sure you will not be inferior to your destiny, which is the destiny of pioneers."

MISSING MOVIE ACTRESS FOUND

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 13.—(AP.)—Home after an absence of more than two days, Mary Dorne, stage and screen actress, rested today while her disappearance Saturday afternoon remained unexplained except on the grounds she suffered from amnesia.

Miss Dorne, wife of Eugene Walter, playwright, telephoned her husband from Santa Monica, a beach city a few miles west of here, yesterday that she had seen her picture and a story in a newspaper, and that instantly she recalled who she was. The family physician had told Walter that an operation Miss Dorne underwent a few years ago could have induced "locative amnesia."

Walter told police:

"She seemed to know little of what had happened to her, except that she had been wandering about Santa Monica."

Walter had not seen his wife since he left her on a downtown Los Angeles street corner Saturday.

'Mystery' Witness Links Yacht Murder Suspect

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., June 13.—(AP.)—A witness told Fairfield County officials today he had rowed a man answering the description of Frank Dreger, 61-year old confessed burglar, near the scene of the slaying of Benjamin P. Collings in Long Island Sound in September, 1931.

The witness, whose identity was withheld, appeared voluntarily at the Fairfield County Jail and asked to see Dreger, who yesterday was said by Mrs. Collings to resemble one of her husband's slayers.

Jail officials said the witness would confront Dreger later in the day.

Meanwhile, Assistant District Attorney Fred Munder, of Suffolk County, Long Island, N. Y., left for Stamford to question Mrs. Collings. He said he hoped to get a positive statement from her as to whether she believed Dreger was one of two "pirates" who slew her husband aboard the yacht "Penguin," abducted her and left her five-year-old daughter, Barbara, to drift aboard the yacht.

Munder spent more than an hour with Mrs. Collins at her Stamford home. She reiterated, Munder said, that Dreger bore a strong resemblance and was ready to confront the suspect again.

At the second meeting, Mrs. Collins will hear Dreger's voice as her counsel, William A. Kelley, expressed the opinion that a voice test might help refresh his client's memory.

Dreger, termed by Under Sheriff J. S. Dreyer, of Suffolk County, "one of the shrewdest criminals I have ever come in contact with," told Long Island officials last night he spent August and September of 1931 in New York City.

Tired of Business Men, Hutton Heiress Says

PARIS, June 13.—(INS.)—Barbara Hutton, heiress to the Woolworth millions, is marrying Prince Alexis Mdivani because she is tired of businessmen, she said in an exclusive interview today.

The dashing Barbara, explaining her love for the "secretary of the Georgian legation," said:

"All the American men I know are businessmen or want to be businessmen.

"Once they marry a girl, they wrap themselves up in business again."

Miss Hutton believes she will escape this sort of wifely martyrdom by marrying the prince.

She said:

"Alexis is amusing, smart and interesting.

"It won't be like marrying a foreigner at all, since he is a real cosmopolitan. It is mean of people to say that Alexis followed my millions around the world."

Miss Hutton declared she has known the prince for years but added that when they first met "I was just a kid.' Her father, Franklyn Hutton, is fond of the prince, she said.

She continued:

"People should not cast aspersions on Alexis' title. But that's just gossip. It will be fun being a princess. He has a right to be proud of his family, which has had its title for generations."

BRITAIN HAS SETTLED DEBT TO U.S. ON 10 PER CENT BASIS, LONDON SAYS

EXPOSE NEAR

Members of the House of Commons badgered government spokesmen for a statement on the debt situation, but Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council, held all questioners at bay.

He declared:

"There are very definite reasons why a statement cannot be made before tonight. The Chancellor of the Exchequer will explain when he starts to speak, and I think the Commons will probably understand."

Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain was scheduled to make public the government's decision on the $75,950,000 payment due Thursday.

Chamberlain will summarize Britain's recent communications to Washington on the subjects of the debts, as well as the American replies.

While members of the government resolutely refused to divulge full details of the latest message from Washington, there was reason to believe the Roosevelt administration has left the question open.

DEFINITE DECISION

But whatever transpires between now and June 15, definite decision, it was understood, had been taken not to renew payment under the terms of the original settlement negotiated by former Premier Stanley Baldwin.

The payment due this week amounts to $75,950,000. The cabinet's decision apparently means that for the first time since the debts were funded—with the exception of the period of grace extended by the United States under the Hoover moratorium—Britain will fail to make full payment.

In connection with the decision, it was recalled that when Britain paid over the last instalment of $95,500,000 last December, Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain served notice that Britain considered this the last payment that would be made under existing agreements.

It was his plan to apply the next payment, due June 15, on whatever new arrangement might be reached between debtor and creditor.

Trade Parley Recesses In Furor Over Debts

LONDON, June 13.—The World Economic Conference today ended its second day's session, during Secretary of State Hull and most of the American delegation absented themselves, with two major crises boiling up. Both involved the United States as a point of attack by other nations.

The first storm revolved about the war debts, which was precipitated into the conference by the addresses of delegates despite the fact that the subject was barred from the agenda. The other imbrogio concerned monetary matters.

LINEUP AGAINST U. S.

Delegates and observers, as the day proceeded, voiced the view that it was obvious that European blocs were being formed to force the hand of the United States on those questions so as to get immediate settlement of the war debt problem and to bring the American monetary viewpoint around to that of Europe.

Hull, scheduled as the first speaker today, did not appear and it was stated that preparation of his speech had been delayed and he could not speak before tomorrow.

Many delegates, however, expressed the view that the British war debt crisis might have had something to do with the delay, especially in view of the eagerly awaited announcement by Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain on the debts before the House of Commons tonight.

As the conference proceeded today no less than three speakers followed Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's lead of yesterday and dealth wit hthe forbidden subject of war debts.

AMERICA SCORED

Indeed, Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, of the Union of South Africa, bitterly assailed America, charging failure to co-operate with Europe in this matter. The trend of all the arguments was the same—a demand for immediate solution.

But that was not all. The Americans also found themselves facing a stone wall of opposition in currency matters. Both French and Italian speakers bitterly assailed depreciation.

American delegation headquarters had been hopeful that a grave monetary controversy migght be avoided by the selection of one of the United States delegates to head the important currency committee, but determined European opposition intervened.

Premier Daladier, of France, spoke when Secretary Hull failed to appear at the trade conference. His speech was short and direct, with a call for international collaboration. He declared:

"National governments too often oppose each other."

It is necessary on the contrary, he said, that harmony prevail in order to avoid an economic war, which would be bound to finish in the same fashion as in a war between armies—by a peril to civilization.

The French Premier denounced what he called a "blind rush for profits," and asserted it was necessary to expand into the international sphere accords between industries, such as steel, chemicals and the like which are now forming behind national walls.

France, he continued, favored a public works program as a means of mobilizing idle capital.

URGES STABILITY

Daladier said:

"We believe that first of all it is necessary to put an end to the money war and to instability, and give to commercial exchanges the indispensable guarantee of monetary security. The maintenance or re-establishment of free gold movements appears to us to be indispensable.

"How are you going to re-establish the circulation of goods and make economic agreements lasting if the measure of values depends upon caprice or hazard?"

Finance Minister Jung, of Italy, and Gen. Jan Christiaan Smuts, of the Union of South Africa, took the floor, and in substance reiterated Premier MacDonald's controversy-producing remarks of yesterday.

Jung, like the British Prime Minister, demanded immediate settlement of the debt question.

Gen. Smuts, in his straight-from-the-shoulder manner, declared that the debt issue was settled at the Lausanne conference and that that should be the end of it.

The conference reconvened at 3 p. m., but not a single American delegate was present at that time.

Just before resumption of the session it was stated in well-informed quarters that in the event of the great powers failing to arrive at concrete decisions, the Scanadinavian countries and Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg were prepared to carry out an arrangement made recently and take drastic independent action.

Another bit of unofficial conference news was that Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, was expected to propose a world pact for economic non-aggression.

U. S. Denounced, Lauded in Blunt Talks at Parley

LONDON, June 13.—(AP.)—Plain, blunt talking, which kept the delegates stirred, characterized today's burst of oratory at the economic conference. Striking phrases:

Premier Daladier, of France:

"Dragged together toward the abyss, the peoples of the world will find relief only in common action."

Finance Minister Jung, of Italy:

"Economic isolation means self-mutilation."

Gen. Smuts, of the Union of South Africa:

"The Lausanne conference a year ago placed grave responsibility where it belonged—On the shoulders of the United States. The United States failed to fall into line."

Viscount Ishii, of Japan:

"The good will and kind offices of President Roosevelt paved the way for solution of the world's vital questions."

Italy Forms Decision On Debt Issue

ROME, June 13.—(AP.)—The Fascist Grand Council in a midnight meeting reached an agreement, "to be made public at an opportune moment," on the war debt installment due the United States Thursday.

A communique early today said Premier Mussolini addressed the councilmen at some length. The debts question took up most of the time, but national and international affairs also were discussed.

Finance Minister Guido Jung in May made the last government pronouncement on debts when he said Italy could not pay. The June 15 payment totals $13,545,438.

Herriot Quits Fight For Debt Payment

PARIS, June 13.—(INS.)—An article appearing in l'Ere Nouvelle, mouthpiece of former Premier Herriot, was interpreted by political experts today as indicating abandonment by Herriot of his insistence that France must pay the United States at least a portion of the foreign debt.

The editorial was considered so important that the American embassy telephoned its contents to the American delegation to the London Economic Conference.

Heir, 21, Gets Control Of Spreckels Millions

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—(AP.)—With his mother's guardianship officially terminated, Adolph B. Spreckels, 21-year-old heir to a fortune made in sugar, assumed control yesterday of $2,656,000, his share of the $20,000,000 estate left by Adolph B. Spreckels in 1924.

The guardianship of Mrs. Alma Debrettville Spreckels was ended in court procedure. The youth married Mrs. Lois Quaintain Clark Deruyter, divorced wife of Jack Deruyter, New York clubman, last year.

NEW DEBT DEAL PONDERED BY ROOSEVELT

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Revised conditions on which Great Britain will be prepared to make a partial payment on the $75,950,000 British debt payment due this government Thursday, were presented informally at the State Department today by Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador.

In the hope of inducing the United States to accept this latest offer, it was preceded from London by what were regarded here as threats that Britain would default on the entire payment unless this government accepted the partial payment proposal.

The nature of the latest proposal, which was made informally to Acting Secretary of State Phillips, was held in secret pending its consideration by President Roosevelt.

Administration officials declared, however, that the President will reject it if it contains any strings that are likely to create a controversy in Congress.

The President, it was revealed, already has rejected the conditions on which the first offer of a part payment was made. These conditions provided that this government should recognize the partial payment as part of a final settlement with the balance postponed indenitely.

Ambassador May, of Belgium, and Minister Davilla, of Rumania, called at the State Department today seeking information as to the progress of the Anglo-American negotiaitons.

Ex-Radio Entertainer Hurt in Auto Crash

A former radio entertainer and two women were slightly injured yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding was sideswiped by a truck on route 66, near North Washington, Westmoreland County.

Ed Godfrey, 630 Kirtland street, who formerly conducted children's programs on Station KDKA, was the driver of the car. His daughter-in-law, Mrs. Norman Godfrey, 7106 Edgerton street, and his sister, Mrs. X. I. Millinger, 5213 Friendship avenue, were the passengers.

Glass Plant Fires Additional Furnaces

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 13.—Employment of additional men by the Hazel Atlas Glass Company here was indicated for this week with announcement that two new tanks would be put into operation at the No. 2 plant. A new tank was opened at the No. 1 plant over the week-end.

New Franco-Russian Trade Treaty Sought

LONDON, June 13.—(INS.)—The French and Soviet delegations to the World Economic Parley today were reported to be working out a new trade agreement.

Under the terms of the tentative proposal, France would be able to sell to Russia 400,000,000 francs (about $20,000,000 at current rate of exchange) worth of merchandise, the French government guaranteeing 70 per cent payment.

FRANCE URGES STABILIZATION

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT

International News Service.

LONDON, June 13.—France, last of the great world powers to cling to gold, placed her formal demand for stabilization of currencies before the World Economic Conference today.

The plea was made by Premier Edouard Daladier, who previously had told International News Service in an exclusive interview that tariff and other problems could not be tackled "until we know where the dollar stands."

Daladier said:

"First we must end the war of moneys and stabilize currency to give business an indispensable guarantee of financial stability.

"There must be maintenance or re-establishment of freedom of movement of gold.

"How can we re-establish the flow of merchandise or conclude lasting commercial accords if the measure of values is dependent upon caprice or chance?

"We cannot build with a yard of elastic tape."

Wabash Tunnel Hearing Delayed

L. W. Monteverde, chairman of the City Planning Commission, has asked that a hearing before City Council on the Wabash bridge and tunnel be delayed one week to June 22 because the commission has been unable to obtain a copy of the report of Ole Singstaad, New York engineer.

HULL BATTLES FOR MONETARY LEADERSHIP

LONDON, June 13.—(AP.)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who remained away from the World Economic Conference all day, left his hotel this afternoon after the conference session had adjourned and hurried to a meeting of the Steering Committee of the parley.

A battle which may do much to determine the extent of American participation in the conference proceeded behind the closed doors of the Steering Committee's room.

The French insisted that the chairmanship of the Monetary Committee should go to a gold standard country—presumably to their own finance minister, Georges Bonnet—and Hull was just as insistent that the original intention of naming James M. Cox, American delegate, be carried out.

The French asked Hull to take the leadership of the Economic Committee, but he refused, saying he would not be in London long enough. They then suggested that he might leave the leadership to Cox when he departed, but the Secretary of State demurred.

The Steering Committee adjourned without selecting the committee heads. The battle will be carried over until tomorrow.

London Aroused By Hull's Absence

LONDON, June 13.—(INS.)—London newspapers today made much of Secretary of State Hull's sudden postponement of his address before the World Economic Conference.

The Evening Standard published a front-page box listing the various explanations given for the postponement, including receipt of new instructions from Washington and the fact that Hull was supposedly tired.

Geneva Postpones Work Week Debate

GENEVA, Switzerland, June 13.—(AP.)—The International Labor Conference voted today to postpone the 40-hour week project. The question will be discussed again in 1934.

Trade Conference 'Thieves Kitchen' Red Paper Says

LONDON, June 13.—(AP.)—Newsboys selling the Daily Worker, a Communist organ, appeared outside the World Economic Conference building today bearing big advertising posters which read:

"King opens thieves' kitchen."

The paper's account of the conference was more mild than the poster, although Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald was scored on the ground that he had taken the stand that only "capitalist" solutions of the crisis were possible.

STABILIZATION PACT REACHED

LONDON, June 13.—(INS.)—Representatives of the central banks of Europe and the United States have reached a decision for immediate temporary stabilization of currencies, it was learned this afternoon.

Gov. George L. Harrison, of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, has referred the agreement to Washington for formal approval.

Enemy of Smoking Dies in Ohio at 71

XENIA, O., June 13.—(AP.)—William O. Custis, 71, treasurer of the National Anti-Cigaret Alliance, died at his home here today of pneumonia.

SLASH PLEDGED IN RELIEF

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 13.—(AP.)—The Greensburg taxpayers' League is assured by welfare officials that relief costs for Westmoreland County will be greatly reduced in the next six months.

A report concerning the county relief situation was to have been submitted by a league committee of investigation but was crowded off the program by talks of unemployed persons.

Fewer than 100 of the league's 1,100 members attended the meeting last night, which was addressed by Mayor Harry N. Yon and State Senator Ben H. Thomson.

UTILITY PROBE 'PASSES BUCK' IN WAR

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, June 13.—The Senate Utility Investigating Committee, of which Senator John J. McClure, of Delaware County, was chairman, today had turned over to the Senate Committee on Executive Nominations the duty of carrying on the battle between Gov. Pinchot and the Republican organization.

The committee, never possessing much virility, practically admitted it was strangled by the veto Gov. Pinchot applied to a resolution continuing the committee and appropriating $100,000 for its use. It offered a statement of extenuation, but it was a dying gasp and a passing of the buck. It did not make public the five-page report presented by its unpaid counsel, Franklin Spencer Edmonds.

Notice that the political war over utility affairs will be carried on was contained in the final paragraph of the statement, which said:

"If by his veto Gov. Pinchot expects to prevent a full hearing on these charges (against Dr. Clyde L. King, whose tenure as chairman of the Public Service Commission is now subject of court action) it is our judgment that he will find himself mistaken."

KING TO APPEAR

From a reliable source it was learned that the committee members believe King will continue in office. If he does, or if he does not, he will be summoned before the Senate committee on executive nominations in next legislative session and questioned as to why he believes a break arose between himself and his former friend, the Governor.

The organization senators thus hope to draw from King a story of intrigue which could not be introduced before the Supreme Court in the suit to determine whether King or C. Jay Goodnough, designated by Pinchot as chairman when he attempted to set King aside, is still chairman. Neither man now is on the payroll. The Supreme Court listened only to arguments on the law.

The senators hope to drag out a story of politics, which it is hinted will involve persons extremely close to the Governor in an attempt to use King and the Public Service Commission as a vehicle for paying political debts to Democrats who supported Pinchot in the recent legislative session. King balked, and this, organization Republicans declare, was responsible for the break between the Governor and his old friend.

But for this hope the story of the utility committee would be even sadder than it is. Up to now it has revealed little, because O. K. Eaton, of Pittsburgh, original counsel, was stopped through a row with McClure when he was on the verge of revelations.

ORGANIZATION DUD

The committee has fumbled and fiddled with its real purpose, an investigation of utilities and the Public Service Commission.

Politically it has been an organization dud, its feebleness rebounding to the Governor's benefit. So the job of making political fireworks is being turned over to the Committee on Executive Nominations, of which Senator Chauncey Parkinson, of Greene County, is chairman.

In a transparent effort to save its own fallen face, the committee instructed its present counsel to examine into the time the Governor took in vetoing the life-giving resolution—as if anything could have given life to this committee. It intimated in its statement of yesterday that maybe the Governor had waited more than the time allotted him under the law, and that resolution was effective without the executive signature.

The committee expects little from this stratagem. Even if its written position was right, there wouldn't be anything to do about it. This committee is dead, and every member realizes it—and is not sorry.

RESPONSIBLE FOR VETO

Yesterday in the statement the committee did charge that the Governor had publicly declared he would approve the resolution. That is a matter of record, and the subsequent veto is not to the Governor's credit in view of his original statement.

However, the entire episode has been political, a warfare over an issue between the Governor and the organization, and the Governor's dereliction will probably be forgotten by the public in view of the committee's futility.

The only chance for the organization is to get Dr. King before some committee such as that on executive nominations, and have him tell a story which he is anxious to release. Even that, however, probably will prove a dud for the organization, which is so unintelligent that the Governor always comes out on top. His opponents can "outdumb" him any day in the week.

About the Capitol it is reported that two members of the Public Service Commission, Pinchot appointees, who were asked to lay their bank records before the committee, were responsible for the gubernatorial veto.

Night Court Voted Clerk by Council

An additional position on the city payroll, clerk in Magistrate Leo Rothenberg's night court, has been authorized by City Council by a vote of six to two. The position pays $1,350 a year. P. J. McArdle and Robert Garland voted against it.

U. P.'S TO MARK 75TH BIRTHDAY HERE JUNE 28

Hundreds of United Presbyterians from all corners of the globe will meet here Wednesday, June 28, to Sunday, July 2, celebrating the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the United Presbyterian Church.

Final arrangements for the observance were completed last night at a meeting of the local committee and 14 sub-committees in Syria Mosque, where the anniversary sessions will be held.

The celebration will be in conjunction with the seventy-fifth General Assembly, which will convene in the First Church, Fifth avenue and Thackeray street. The Women's General Missionary Society will meet in the First Church, Union avenue, North Side, and the fortieth annual convention of the Young People's Christian Union will be held in Syria Mosque also.

The Rev. Dr. R. A. Hutchison, of Pittsburgh, secretary of the Board of American Missions, heads the general committee on arrangements. He is assisted by 14 other men and women selected from the church at large by the General Assembly of 1928 in St. Louis.

It was in Pittsburgh that the church was founded in 1858, through a merger of the Associate and Associate Reformed churches.

The church now has about 1,000 congregations, from Boston to Los Angeles, and 180,000 communicants. Its headquarters are in Pittsburgh. Missions are located in Egypt, Punjab, the Egyptian Sudan and Abyssinia.

The Rev. E. V. Condon, of Springdale, Pa., is chairman of the central local committee. Assisting him are Mrs. S. E. Baird, T. J. Gillespie, Miss Edith Dietrich, R. M. Trimble, J. L. Beatty, R. V. Johnson, William T. McKissock, Miss E. Margaret Taylor, Samuel Campbell, Mrs. William T. Lytle and Mrs. William Woodfin.

The Rev. Dr. C. S. Cleland, of Philadelphia, is moderator of the General Assembly.

McKeesport Bather Drowns in Stream

John Laughlin, 55, of 619 Atlantic avenue, McKeesport, was drowned while bathing in the Monongahela River at the foot of Lincoln street, Glassport, late yesterday. Efforts of Police Chief D. J. George and Sergt. Jack Lees to revive him were futile.

School Director for 17 Years and Can't Read

SCRANTON, Pa., June 13.—(AP.) — Michael Wolohowicz, who has served as a director of the Dickson City School Board for 17 years and who has filled the office of board treasurer for a long time, testified in court yesterday that he cannot read or write and that he never went to school a day in his life.

Wolohowicz was testifying in the action begun by taxpayers to oust six of the seven members of the Dickson City board. He said he could not read a word of the school code which he and other directors are charged with violating.

FIRE CHIEF ROW NEAR END

Peace seemed near in the controversy between the volunteer firemen and Borough Council of Dravosburg over selection of a fire chief. The naming by the firemen of George Snyder as chief and Phil McLaughlin as assistant and Council's immediate approval of the selections appeared to have satisfied all factions.

Controversy has raged since the dismissal by Council of Chief Charles Thomas for turning in a false alarm several weeks ago.

The end of the argument now depends upon the resignation of Fire Chief John Sargent, named by Council a week ago. Sargent has indicated his willingness to resign if a candidate satisfactory to both sides was named.

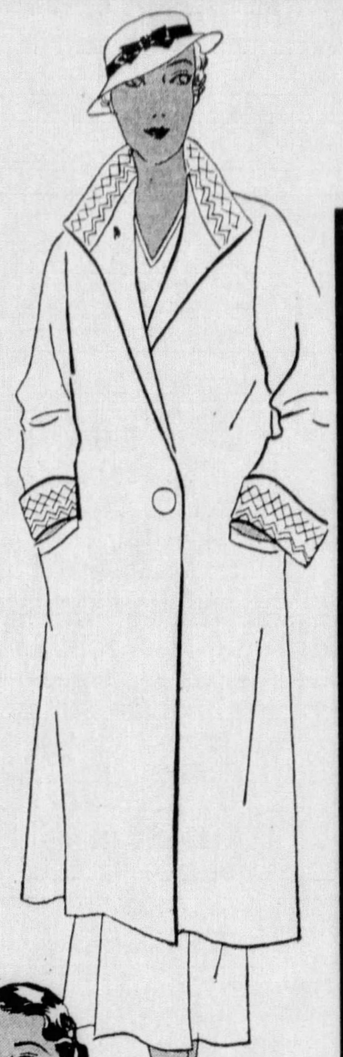
A Special for Women . . .

Swagger White Coats

$12.95



This is an interesting, specially priced group of new coats, in models that deftly adapt the swagger mode to women's figures.

Of soft, flattering fabrics—homespun weaves, wool matelasse and novelties; and they are lined throughout with white silk crepe. The styles are varied to include johnny collars, notched tailored collars and scarf neck-finishes. . . . Regular sizes 34 to 44, and half sizes 33½ to 43½.

Finer Sheers

For Afternoon Occasions

$29.75

When our Finer Dress Section sets out to present a fashion, be it ever such a popular one, it does the thing with distinction.

Uncommon effects acquired in this collection of flat chiffon frocks, are ruddy carnations on a brown ground, gay red poppies on black, a lightly traced lace pattern in white on porcelain blue, and dramatic black-and-white combinations.

The frocks, entirely of chiffon, or of chiffon combined with dyed laces, are in models that will be worn fetchingly with wide-brimmed parasol hats in the afternoon, and that will appear at informal twilight dinners.

NOTHING of a decorative nature ever exhibited in Pittsburgh has attracted more widespread, favorable interest than these 17 Irwin Rooms, the work of two of America's greatest decorators, Ernest R. Cooper and J. Stuart Clingman.

These artists were given carte blanche to create original room schemes for the modern home, designing their own furniture, floor coverings, draperies, and accessories. These designs were executed by the Robert W. Irwin Co. of Grand Rapids, Mich., noted makers of fine furniture, from which the rooms received their name.

Since they were opened, last August, more than 50,000 people have seen them with desire in their eyes, and the resolve to some day have such rooms themselves, when the opportunity offered.

Now the chance has come. The rooms are to be done over for early fall, and the present furnishings sold at 25% off.

Keep in mind that these rooms were furnished at the bottom of recent low furniture costs. With furniture prices advancing, the opportunities are much more than the 25% discount.

You may choose an entire room, or just such things as you want, down to a single piece. What glorious luck for June brides who are going housekeeping! What luck for everyone who likes genuinely beautiful and artistic things!

PROBERS TILT IN SWEATSHOP INQUIRY

SCRANTON, Pa., June 13. —(AP.)—Turning its spotlight on factory labor conditions in this city, the legislative committee investigating sweatshops resumes its inquiry today with at least two of its members openly at odds.

The dissension grew out of a statement by Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the Governor and a member of the committee, that Representative Roy W. Shreiner, Dauphin, had been active in killing legislation to provide old age pensions and a minimum wage scale.

Shreiner replied to the criticism yesterday in a letter to Mrs. Pinchot, telling her she was mistaken in referring to him as a "foe of humanitarian legislation." He wrote that he had voted for both old age pensions and the minimum wage bill. His letter says:

"I am not ashamed of my record during my first term in the House and wish in the future that you would kindly check the records before making any statements regarding my legislative activities."

The sweatshop committee held its first public hearings early last week in Philadelphia, taking testimony from women and girl workers who complained they were compelled to endure conditions which violate the state's labor laws. Employers were given separate hearings.

CUT IN RELIEF PROTESTED

A. K. Oliver, chairman, and John F. Casey, a member of the Allegheny County Relief Committee, will protest against the 20 per cent cut proposed in the state relief appropriation.

They will lodge their protest in Harrisburg, when the State Relief Board meets Thursday. The announced cut of 20 per cent for all state relief would effect the June relief expenditures here.

Oliver stated today that the present relief scale, which averages 90 cents a person, is barely adequate.

On the same premise, the League for Social Justice made public a letter today which had been sent to Grover C. Talbot, Speaker of the House; Frank K. Baldwin, Auditor General, and Charles A. Waters, State Treasurer; members of the State Emergency Relief Board who voted the 20 per cent cut May 21. Pointing out that new applications for relief were being received by the agencies daily, the league termed the cut "arbitrary and without justification."

The league added that while the reduction in cases was 7-10 of 1 per cent, staple foodstuffs have advanced 15 per cent in the last two months, saying:

"Approximately 75,000 families in Allegheny County must be fed. The 90 cents per person a week is meager enough. It cannot be reduced without serious consequences to health and morale."

BOSS GETS FINE FOR LONG HOURS

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—(AP.)—Testimony that women employes were not allowed 45 minutes for lunch and that three 15-year-old boys worked more than nine hours a day, yesterday cost Isadore Waldman $100.

Waldman is the manager for the American Reed Company. The complaint was made by inspectors for the State Department of Labor, who have been investigating alleged sweatshop conditions in Philadelphia.

Officials of two other firms also were fined.

URGES BAN ON CHILD LABOR

DETROIT, Mich., June 13.—(AP.)—Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Federal Children's Bureau, today urged taking children out of industry in an address before the Child Labor Committee meeting in connection with the National Council of Social Work.

She advocated adoption of the child labor amendment as a means to this end.

"What are children worth? There are reports of great bargains for those who are prepared to exploit them. Four years of hunger have prepared the ground for the growth of a new sweatshop evil."

She cited the report of a Pennsylvania investigation showing mediun earnings of boys and girls 14 and 15 years of age in the clothing industries to be $2.76 a week.

FETE 'BLOWS IN' BLAST FURNACE

provided men who have been employed under a "stagger" system. The corporation now has three furnaces at Aliquippa and two at Pittsburgh operating.

With resumption of operations, production at Duquesne will reach approximately 40 per cent of capacity, it was reported.

A second Duquesne furnace will be "blown in" next Tuesday, requiring the re-employment of a like number of workmen.

BIG LIGHT ORDER

Simultaneously with these developments it was learned that the Mesta Machine Company at Homestead is showing an improvement in production, reflecting the general industrial and commercial pickup. More men are being added to the payroll and prospects for new business are "bright," according to L. W. Mesta.

A large order including 10,000 interior lighting fixtures for buildings No. 1 and 9 of the Radio City group, Rockefeller Center, has been awarded the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. According to officials of the company, this is the first of approximately 20,000 fixtures to be required.

Production of this equipment will be confined to the Westinghouse light works in Cleveland, O., it was reported at the East Pittsburgh office.

SIX MILLS RESUME

Additional gains in trade revival include these developments:

Two new tanks to be put in operation by the Hazel-Atlas Glass Company in Washington, Pa.

Six mills of the Whitaker-Glessner plant of the Wheeling Steel Corporation, after idleness of two years, resume operations with 250 men at work.

Construction of a water softening and filtration plant at Ambridge with $100,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan to be started immediately.

The wool trade is brisk, according to the Lawrence County Wool Growers' Association with a 10 per cent increase in price.

Fifth open hearth furnace opened by the Pittsburgh Crucible Steel Company at Midland.

Pottery payrolls at East Liverpool reach $300,000 mark, highest in 12 months and 10 per cent over April.

Mrs. Francis Rudolph "I lost 40 lbs. in 6 weeks," writes Mrs. F. Rudolph, Trained Nurse, 4527 Lake Park Ave., Chicago, Ill. "I look 10 years younger, thanks to BonKora."

Lose Your FAT as these 4 Trained Nurses did

Quick, Safe Way

Eat Big Meals . . Fat Goes Quick—or No Cost

Trust a trained nurse to recognize the best way to lose her fat. Above we show the photographs of 4 of them whose professional knowledge showed them that BonKora is safe, harmless, pleasant and quick. Reduce as they did. Take BonKora.

One of them, Mrs. Francis Rudolph, Trained Nurse, 4527 Lake Park Ave., Chicago, Ill., writes: "Other remedies failed to reduce me. But I lost 40 pounds in 6 weeks taking BonKora. It improved my health too. I look 10 years younger than I did."

Doctor Tries It. Loses Weight

Dr. S. F. Blumenberg, head of the famous San Anselmo Sanatorium, San Anselmo, Marin County, Calif., says he lost 7 pounds in the first 10 days, taking BonKora. So he began to advise it for stout patients at his sanatorium.

Loses 70 lbs. in 14 Weeks

Mrs. F. W. Moran, 2349 Lake St., Kalamazoo, Mich., writes: "I took BonKora and lost 70 pounds in 14 weeks, or at the rate of 5 pounds a week. I used to weigh 210 lbs., now weigh only 140. My health has improved too."

Why You Lose Fat So Quick

BonKora treatment reduces fat new 3-stage way. Triple action, triple speed. It has reduced fat for people who say they had tried other methods in vain.

Just take a little BonKora daily to remove heavy wastes and moisture from fatty tissues and help body function normally. EAT BIG MEALS of delicious foods, as explained in BonKora package.

Reduce fat all over if you wish. Or, if you are just fat around waist, bust or hips, this fat goes first. When it is gone, you can stop if you don't want to reduce elsewhere.

Lose Fat. Look Years Younger

No dangerous drugs in BonKora. In fact, the treatment builds health while reducing fat the quickest way. Many say they look YEARS YOUNGER since they lost fat this healthful way.

So don't be fat any longer. Get a bottle of BonKora from druggist today. Read TEST OFFER below. You don't risk a penny.

Lose Fat, Gain Health. Take BonKora, the treatment used by nurses and men and women everywhere.

Pennsylvanians, Once Fat, Praise BonKora

What BonKora Treatment has done for these people it should do for you. These testimonials are genuine. They were written in gratitude by users of BonKora, delighted at quickly losing their ugly fat.

Nurse Loses 21 Lbs.

"After other remedies had disappointed me, I took BonKora and lost 21 pounds. Reduced hips 4 inches, waist 6 inches. Five friends are now taking BonKora since they saw what it did for me. I will also recommend it to all my stout patients, as I am a Registered Nurse." — Mrs. Grace Hughes, Trained Nurse, 17 N. Lindenwood St., West Philadelphia, Pa.

Lost 26 Pounds Quickly

"After using first bottle of BonKora I found I had lost 11 pounds. Not wishing to reduce too fast I then lessened the dose and then I lost at the rate of 4 to 5 pounds a week, reducing 26 pounds in all." — Mrs. H. Caulkins, 1423 Conlyn St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Mildness...fragrance...purity how real they are in Luckies!

Have you ever happened to wonder why "Toasting" is so important to Lucky Strikes? It's really on account of you. For "Toasting" plays a bigger part than you might think in making Luckies so mild and fragrant and pure. Remember, your cigarette comes in rather close personal contact with you, and if it weren't for "Toasting's" purifying heat, even Lucky Strike's choice tobaccos could scarcely be as mild, so pure. So you see what a big part "Toasting" has in making "Luckies Please!"

WATERS WARNS AGAINST LINKS WITH EUROPE

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—State Treasurer Charles A. Waters yesterday advised the graduates of St. Joseph's College to adopt a "definite nationalism and an abiding faith in the future of America" as their guide.

Waters, a graduate of St. Joseph's, compared conditions today with those of 20 years ago, when he finished his college course. After discussing the economic situation facing the world, he said:

"Personally, I believe our economic recovery is surer and will be more rapid if we proceed on the fundamental fact that we are a self-contained nation. I believe in the virtue of charity, but when applied to economics I also believe that charity begins at home. To my mind intense international co-operation will but delay the solution of our dilemma, for we have the answer right here within our own borders.

"Ninety per cent of what we produce we consume at home, only the remaining 10 per cent is shipped abroad. We lost our own great buying power for several reasons, but the most important one was that we became too deeply entangled with international trade and price levels.

"True we have a new deal, so far as national politics is concerned, but unlike 20 years ago everything else is subnormal. Foreign and domestic business is paralyzed.

"Unemployment is everywhere and it has reached a point in our own state where unemployment relief alone costs us today more than twice as much as it cost to run the whole government when I left college. I submit that these are problems worthy of the best mind of any college graduate if he is in doubt as to how he may employ his talents.

"Yesterday King George in London opened the World Economic Conference, where 66 nations, including our own, bring their woes to the conference table. There will be discussed principally the raising of world price levels, the remedying of the present sorry monetary systems of many countries, and the lowering of international trade barriers. These are vital questions. It may be easy to agree upon principles, but their application faces conflict among national interests. Personally, I believe our place is at home.

"Let us begin where we left off before the World War. Let us charge off our losses abroad to experience, if the only other alternative is that we must sink to the economic level of our debtors. We must first put our own house in order before bothering with our neighbors."

Parachute Jumper Bitten by Dog

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

California, Here I Column!

("Thos I Ner Kin Til Nu")

That the caption in the Trib recently, "Record Falls at Games of Scottish Clans," was very amusing—when you read the caption under the photo revealing Jules Finklestein of N. Y. U. winning.

That a chew dog isn't a dog. It's a sheep. (Oh, I heard it!)

That a certain guy is making the rounds of Ed Wynn's offices and others trying a trick to collect a "loan" until "Winchell gets back. He's a good friend of mine." (We have no friends like that, so don't be a chump.)

That St. Nichols and Santa Claus are the same in various tongues. But St. Nick once meant Satan. (The Devil you say?)

That Bach, the composer, was the pappy of 20 children, which you probably know. (A few chips off the old Bach?)

That the founders of Yale were 10 Harvard grads.

That Morton Skeedmore is a little confused, again. In reporting that he is fascinated by the atmosphere in Grand Central Station, he observes that the train-caller calls out "Harrisburg and Altoona!"

That the Englissh law once held that a mother was not kin to her child. (See "Tristam Shandy," Book IV, Chap. 29.)

That Lindbergh (Ga.), which is 65 miles north of Atlanta, has no airport. Prosperity is in S. Carolina. (It's a town, chump!)

That Bill Corum says the day the item appeared here (about what he is doing to promote cigarets for vets, whose allotments have been cut to two daily), he received 200,000 cartons! (Wheeeee!)

That there's a town in Indiana named Brooklyn. Its Mayor is Aaron Rosenberg, who was born in Brooklyn, N. Y.

That daylight saving was licked in Los Angeles because the movie firms were afraid that too many locals would go to the beach instead of cinema shows if twilight was late.

That Sam H. Harris is one of the few old timers consistently successful on Broadway. A. H. Woods hasn't had a hit since "Mary Dugan" (5 years ago) . . . Arthur Hopkins not since "Holiday" . . . Brock Pemberton not since "Strictly Dishonorable" . . . Chas. B. Dillingham not in years . . . Arthur Hammerstein, L. Lawrence Weber and Arch Selwyn ditto. The Shuberts had one hit—"Cynara."

That the respective radio editors of two newspapers in Washington, D. C., are named Julian Cutlip and Jim Chinn.

That a well-known bank in Chicago was recently changed into a night club! (Most of the bank fixtures remain.)

That Percy Crosby, whose delightful comic strip is among our favorites, is really "Skippy," according to his pals.

That the newest thing in movies, recently perfected, is a process that will serve the comedies best (You will see a human, a horse or anything chasing various parts of the body!)

That Marie Dressler never uses makeup as do all the others on the screen. (She had to, however, for "Dinner at 8.")

That the best beer in Hollywood is the "Carta Blanca" ($6.25 a case). It is imported from Mexico. American lager costs $3.75 a case.

That when Emil Jannings first came here he was guaranteed good beer, but all the influence at Washington couldn't promote it. "He's an actor, not an ambassador!" officials at the Capitol reminded. (Every two weeks his movie sponsors had to smuggle a truck load, about 150 cases, from Mexico. At $1 a pint.)

That the New York and Middle West subscribers who are going mad from the excessive heat and humidity now know why we hastened to the coast from it all! (You freeze here at night!)

That the one spot in New York where J. J. Walker's picture still has the feature spot is at Sardi's in Manhattan.

That at a meeting in the Hays office the trailer companies were warned that the picture trailers (shown in advance) would be censored because they offer scenes not in the flicker!

That George Givot's billing "The Greek Ambassador of Good Will" must not be used anymore. An order halting it recently came through and was traced to the Greek Embassy in Washington. (Apparently they no like being kidded.)

Story Awaits Miss Eilers In Studio

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, June 13.—Whenever Sally Eilers can tear herself away from London, Sol Wurtzel has a picture ready for her to step into at the Fox Hollywood studio.

It is Kathleen Norris' "Walls of Gold," a story about a Broadway playgirl who refuses to settle down until—well, what do you think?

The boy in the picture will be Norman Foster, who teamed very nicely with Sally in "State Fair." Norman is a Fox contract player, in case you didn't know. He has been loaned frequently to other studios, but now that Fox is getting back to its usual volume of production, you'll see him more on the lot.

Miss Eilers

From a half dozen people in England, you hear how popular Sally is and what a good time she's having. One of my scouts writes of seeing her and Harry Joe Brown dancing to the music of Bert Ambrose's new Mayfair band. Bebe and Ben Lyon were there the same night, also Thelma Todd and Dennis King, Jeannette MacDonald and Bob Ritchie. Hall Roach and others. It was like the Cocoanut Grove in Los Angeles.

* * *

From Claude Binyon comes the story of the wittiest motor cop.

Several days ago, the blonde and beautiful Mary Carlisle was flagged down for speeding. She smiled so winningly and talked so pleadingly that the officer finally put up his book of tickets. Just as she was about to drive away, he halted her. "Say," he inquired, "were you one of 'The Gold-Diggers of 1933'?"

Mary shook her head. The officer snapped:

"Well, you will be in '34."

* * *

If Connie Bennett had any plans to go out of town on her five weeks' vacation, she's given them up now. After months of attempts, a process-server finally has handed her the papers in that $30,000 commission suit brought by the Joyce-Selznick Agency.

Miss Bennett

The films are to get Mary McCormick at last. While Mae Murray was filing suit for divorce against Prince David M'Divani, the former Chicago opera star, who is married to brother Serge, was preparing to make her motion picture debut in Janet Gaynor's new picture, "Paddy the Next Best Thing." Both Miss McCormick and Director Harry Lachman of this film were proteges of Mary Garden. He persuaded her to take the role.

* * *

Some time this month, the marriage of Josephine Saenz and John Wayne will take place in the garden of Loretta Young's Bel Air home. Loretta will be bridesmaid. Incidentally, this young star has just bought the lot next to her property and is building a combination guest-house and play-room.

That large group of film stars in the Cocoanut Grove was Mike Levee's farewell party to Leslie Howard . . . George Raft and Marjorie King were dancing to Abe Lyman's music, too . . . A quick look-in at other gay spots disclosed Claudia Morgan and Barry Trivis, Marguerite Churchill and George O'Brien dining at Sardi's and Genevieve Tobin at the Miramar with Felix Chappelet . . . It's a skyway trip to New York for Vivienne Osborne . . . Randy Scott is another who'll travel by plane . . . Roscoe Karns has just written a check for the Natalie Keaton house in Camden drive. It has a swimming pool, a gymnasium and plenty of room for Roscoe, the wife and the two kids.

Miss Churchill

Natives Give Presents To Miss Del Rio

Dolores Del Rio and her husband, Cedric Gibbons are in Hollywood after a trip to Honolulu. Miss Del Rio returned with a number of presents given to her by natives with whom she had made friends while in the islands portraying the leading role in "The Bird of Paradise" last year. She is scheduled to go before the cameras soon for her first picture under a newly signed contract.

Joan Bennett Signed For 'Little Women'

Joan Bennett has been signed to play the role of "Amy" in Louisa M. Alcott's "Little Women." Katharine Hepburn will have the stellar part of "Jo;" Frances Dee has been cast as "Meg," and Helen Mack will portray "Beth." Paul Lukas, Eric Linden and John Davis Lodge have been engaged for the principal male roles.

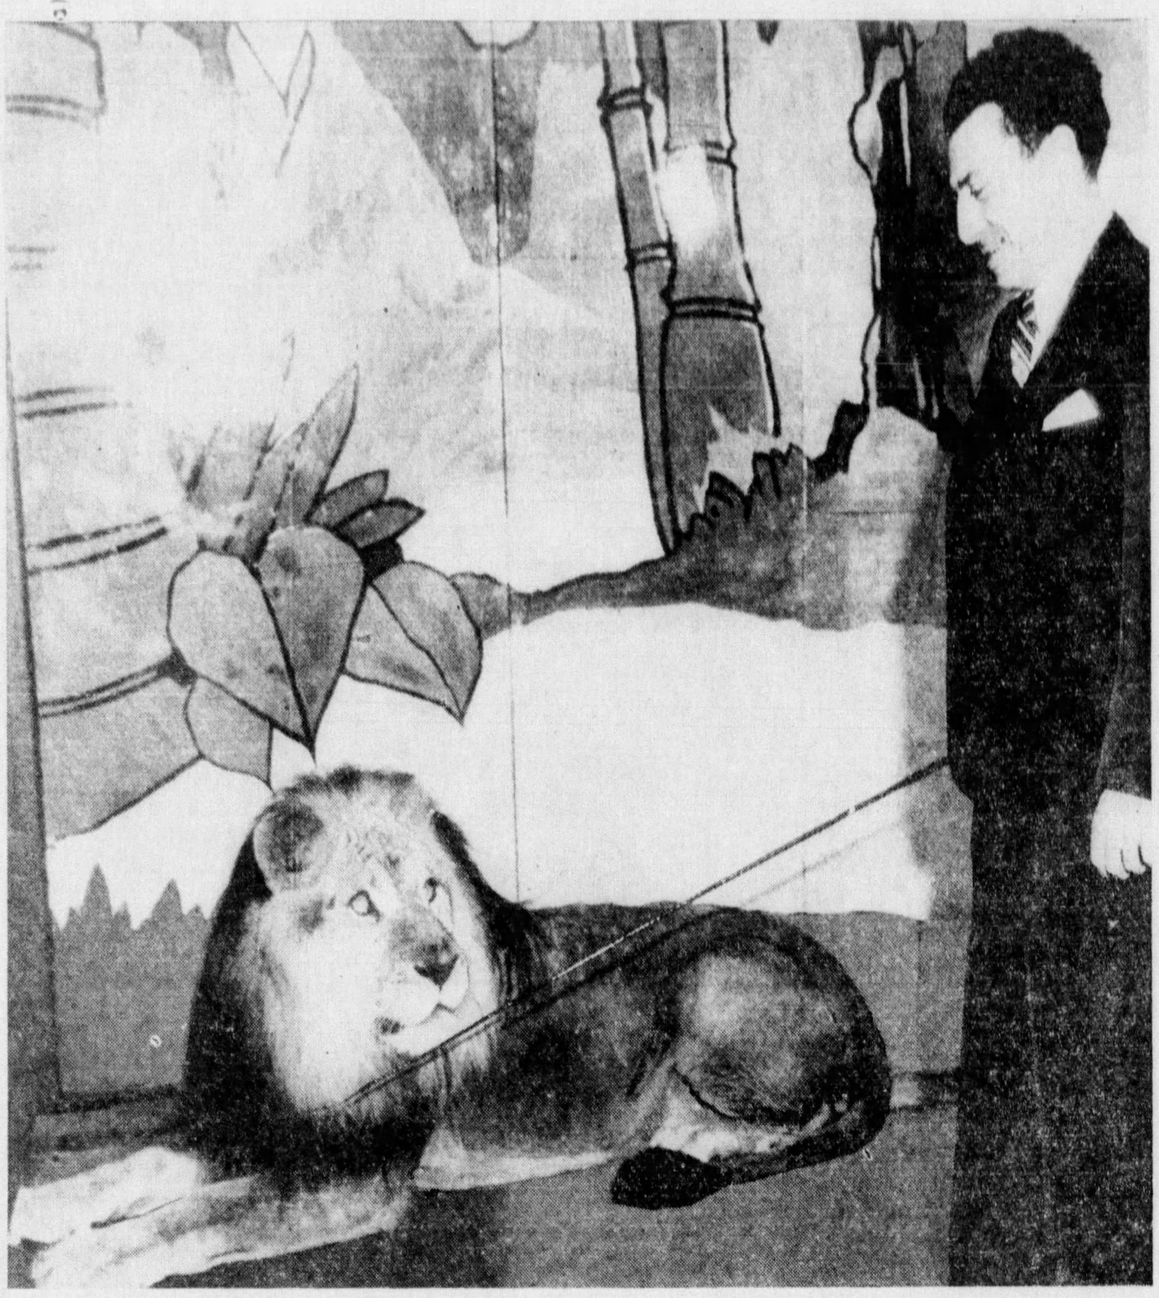
Walter Huston to Play Crooked Judge

Walter Huston's next role is to be that of the judge who accepts a bribe and goes to prison, in "Ann Vickers," screen version of a Sinclair Lewis novel that will star Ann Harding. She falls in love with Huston in his new role as the corrupt judge.

Another Cagney Signed For Picture

Bill Cagney, brother of Jimmy, has been signed for RKO pictures. He is said to bear a striking resemblance to his brother with a good many of the Cagney characteristics noticeable when he is before the camera.

'Vas You Dhere, Sharlie?'



"UND SO I TICKLED DHE METRO LION VID A VHIP," SAID THE BARON MUNCHAUSEN, ALIAS JACK PEARL

Her Name Not 'Myrna Loy'

The name of Myrna Loy has always conjured the exotic fragrance of incense braziers, visions of Oriental loveliness, bizarre pictures of the mystic East. And yet her name isn't Loy at all, but Williams—plain, unadulterated American Williams, of rugged Montana ranch stock. Now that she has escaped casting in exotic roles, Myrna is glad that somebody found her out at last.

"I was always afraid I would be found out and lose my exotic reputation," she said. "Now I'm happy that I got rid of it and can play straight, American leading-lady roles that give me an opportunity to do something more than smirk and look mysterious."

Miss Loy, who plays a leading part in "When Ladies Meet," the new Cosmopolitan production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, isn't slant-eyed or Oriental of cast. As a matter of fact, she is a distinctly American girl type with freckles to add wholesome charm. Her appearance as an Oriental dancer, she recalls, resulted in her first film role and her "typing" as an exotic creature.

Miss Skipworth Gets Four Film Jobs

Roles in four Paramount productions have been lined up for Alison Skipworth, indicating that she will be the busiest actress in Hollywood during the summer. Miss Skipworth will have the leading comedy role in "Torch Singer," with Claudette Colbert and Ricardo Cortez, and she will be seen again with George Raft in "Midnight Club," with W. C. Fields in "Tillie and Gus," and also will have a part in "Alice in Wonderland."

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

Thoughts On a Hot Day

I'M LAZY today. Dont' feel like doing anything. It's too hot. Think I'll just ramble along and write about nothing in particular. Which will make the column just about the same as all the other days.

Might as well start with the Schmeling-Baer fight. Although I like Schmeling a lot, I'm glad the fight turned out as it did. Glad for Dempsey's sake. Because Baer is going to be the champion of the world and he will do all his fighting for Jack. And Jack deserves all the success that can come his way.

He handled this fight in remarkable fashion. There was no detail too small for him to tackle personally. He even made friends by his system of ticket distribution, which is the first time in history that such a thing ever happened.

I notice, incidentally, that Baer is going to marry June Knight, of Broadway and points West. June worked with us in "Hot-Cha" and was well liked by everyone around the production. She and Baer should be rather happy for a time, which is about all anyone expects from a marriage between two people in the Broadway spotlight.

Just a word of caution, June. You've got to handle that big guy carefully. There'll be nobody around for a long time who'll be able to knock out Baer. Unless it's Baer himself . . .

And now what? Seems to me that it's getting hotter and hotter. Wonder how long it will be before all houses are built with cooling systems? We have all the equipment and there's no reason why it shouldn't be done. But it isn't.

Funny how much more severe the heat seems here than it does in other places. About four months ago, I was in Bangkok, Siam, and the average temperature ran to around 100 degrees. But I didn't mind it; at least it seems to me now that I didn't. When it's really hot, I think New York is the hottest place in the world.

And, speaking of Siam and prize fighting, I mustn't forget to speak to Jack Dempsey again about bringing over some of those Siamese fighters. Boxing, as it is conducted in Siam, is the most exciting sport you can possibly find. And a huge fortune awaits the promoter who can properly introduce the game in this country.

You haven't seen a fight until you see two of these Siamese lads go to it. They wear six-ounce gloves, and the centers of their bodies are completely encased by a specially constructed protector. Before a fight stars, both contestants do a short dance to Siamese music. And what a roar that dance would bring from a Broadway fight mob!

The only foul in Siamese boxing is kicking a man when he's down. They use their feet, their heads, their hands and their elbows. It's a combination of savate, wrestling and fighting as we know it. There is more action in one round of Siamese fighting than there is in a week of our kind.

And strangely enough, there are very few accidents. I attended the fights in Bangkok three night in a row and I grew so enthused about the game that I made a friend of the chief referee. It was he who told me that they have never had a fatality in the Siamese ring.

"That seems almost impossible," I told him. "I have now seen 10 or 12 bouts, and at least half of the losers have been carried away on stretchers."

He shrugged his shoulders.

"What's the difference," he returned, "as long as they don't die?"

Great philosophers, these Siamese. . . .

I suppose I should say a little something about Jerry Rogers, the showgirl who leaped 13 floors to her death the other morning. Her tragic story has been told a thousand times before. It will continue to be told as long as there is a Broadway on which to tell it.

I didn't know Jerry well of recent days. But she had been a good friend when she first landed in the chorus of Ziegfeld's "Rosalie." She was a decidedly pretty girl in those days, and there was a definite sweetness about her that made all the other girls like her. Strange, then, that she should leave a note stating that she had but one girl friend in the world.

But that's what the Broadway scheme of things does to people. You may be bitter, but you've got to take it. You've got to be able to live your own life and let the gossips say what they will. You've got to realize that nobody wants you to be happy on Broadway and that the only way to beat the game is to play it by yourself.

Some people can do that. Others can't. This poor kid was evidently one of those who couldn't. She left a note stating that she hated Broadway and most of the people upon it. She couldn't stand the gaff and the gossip. And her suicide was the result.

I didn't consider Jerry Rogers a stupid girl by any means. She was far from the dumb chorine type, and there was very evidently a certain amount of education in her background. Her home town was Williamsport, Pa., and she was another marcher in the parade of beauty contest winners. That's a sad parade, my friends. The marchers march everywhere but to happiness—yet it's a parade that never ends.

So Jerry tackled show business—and Broadway. She was introduced to night clubs and to the stuff that bubbles so prettily when it's poured into a glass. Better than anyone else, she knew that it was bad for her to drink too much. She grew moody, and then irresponsible. She went on the wagon a number of times. But never for a long time.

The months rolled by, and the girl found Broadway tougher and tougher to beat. She almost met death once before when she leaped from a speeding taxi after an emotional outburst. She was in the hospital a long time after that and, when she came out, she should have gone back to Williamsport forever.

But she didn't. She remained on Broadway and kept fighting a life that, with her temperament, didn't offer her a chance. Everywhere she turned, the odds were against her. Two more years flew by. She loved one man, but his ardor cooled. She fell deeply in love with another, but he was married. And the cup that cheers turned out to be the cup that jeers.

So the result was almost inevitable: 13 floors in a horrible plunge to death. Just another beautiful child who hated Broadway—but who couldn't go back to the home town.

They shipped her away yesterday, the poor kid. In the end, she had to go back home anyhow . . .

Boulder Dam Scene In Picture

Boulder Dam serves as a spectacular background for a sequence in "I Loved You Wednesday," in which Warner Baxter, Elissa Landi, Victor Jory, Miriam Jordan and Laura Hope Crews have the leading roles. Baxter has the role of an engineer, while Miss Landi is an exotic ballerina whose affections waver between a fascinating philanderer, portrayed by Jory, and Baxter.

Zasu Pitts in Cast With Rogers

For "Green Dice," the Will Rogers picture, which promises to be a new type of characterization for the star, Zasu Pitts has been signed. The latest addition to the cast is Florence Desmond, entertainer, who does impersonations of Hollywood stars. Frank Borzage, twice winner of awards for best pictures is to direct the screen version of the story by Anne Cameron.

Factory Agents Will Hold Picnic

Athletic events will feature the annual picnic of the Pittsburgh Association of Manufacturers' Representatives, Saturday at the Pines. Dinner and open-air dancing will conclude the program, in charge of C. A. Young.

Romance

Margaret Lindsay will be seen with William Powell in "Private Detective 62," romantic melodrama, when it comes to the Warner Theater screen Wednesday.

FLIER TO 'BOMB' CITY SATURDAY

Miss Helen Richey, McKeesport aviatrix, will "bomb" the city at noon Saturday with milk bottle caps, which will announce the Salvation Army's Red Shield Tag Day.

Funds collected will be used for the upkeep of the Fresh Air Camp in Westview, the Home and Hospital in Bellevue, the Placement and Personal Aid Bureau and the Home for Transient Women.

Lincoln District Picnic Thursday

The Lincoln district school and community picnic will be held at West View Park Thursday under the auspices of the Civic Club of Lincoln Avenue District.

Street cars, carrying the picnickers, will leave the Lincoln avenue district at 9:30 a. m. Prizes will be given to winners of various races at the park. O. C. Dixon is chairman of the picnic committee.

St. Lawrence High Classes Banquet

The annual junior-senior banquet of St. Lawrence High School was held at Fort Pitt Hotel last night with the parish priests as honored guests.

An address of welcome was given by Miss Mary Louise Tallon, president of the junior class. Miss Jean Eichenlaub, president of the senior class, spoke. Miss Anna Manz was toastmaster.

Players And Plays

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Ashton Stevens, drama critic of the Chicago American, suggests that portraits of players and playwrights decorate a new issue of United States currency. He would allot the denominations in this fashion: $50, Edwin Booth; $20, Katharine Cornell; $10, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne; $5, Ina Claire; $2, Eugene O'Neill; $1 bill, William Gillette, George M. Cohan or George S. Kaufman; silver $1, Ethel Barrymore; 50 cents, McIntyre and Heath; 25 cents, Phil Baker; 10 cents, Lenore Ulrich; 5 cents, Texas Guinan. He also has ideas about actors on new postage stamps, but it is well not to go into that, Ray Henderson remarks, since they have to take too many lickings as it is. Spain, according to Theater Arts Monthly, has anticipated Stevens' project by placing a portrait of the famous Spanish dramatist, Calderon, on its new 25-peseta notes.

Mary Boland, who will return to the screen in "Mama Loves Papa," was leading woman for John Drew for six years . . . Guthrie McClintic, after a three-months' inspection tour of European theaters, is in Chicago discussing next season's plans with his wife, Katharine Cornell,, who is there in "Alien Corn" . . . The largest budget in eight years, $12,000,000, will be spent by the Warners Brothers—First National studio in the production season about to open, with 60 features listed . . . Ted Healy, Jean Malin, Alice Brady and Franchot Tone will be in the Joan Crawford-Clark Gable picture, "Dancing Lady" . . . RKO is making a photoplay in which the central figure will be a newsreel cameraman, and now Columbia is to do one also.

SCHOOL HONORS THREE HERE

Three Pittsburghers were honored at Gettysburg College commencement exercises yesterday.

Wayne Robert Woods received the highest honors of the sophomore class and the Brewer prize in Greek. He is the soon of the Rev. Dr. Robert W. Woods, of Redeemer Lutheran Church, Homewood.

Francis Raleigh Dunbar, of Ingram, received the highest military honors in second-year work. The college awarded the doctor of divinity degree to the Rev. Henry H. Bagger, president of the Pittsburgh Synod of United Lutheran churches.

Bishop to Preside At Commencement

The Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of the Pittsburgh diocese, will preside at commencement exercises of the Catholic High School, 4720 Fifth avenue, tonight. Leo G. Griffith, head of the Catholic Boys' Welfare, will address the 186 students to receive diplomas.

The junior commencement was held yesterday.

Comedy

Ann Harding is starred in "When Ladies Meet," screen version of the Rachel Crothers comedy that will be seen Friday on the Penn screen.

ESTATE SUING FOR PROPERTY

Ethel S. Darlington and the Union Trust Company, executors of the estate of Harry Darlington, Jr., have begun ejectment proceedings to regain title to 14 acres of land in Glenfield. The property was given to the Fresh Air Society in 1894, to be used as a memorial to J. N. McCullough Darlington, Elizabeth Darlington and Mary Laughlin Darlington.

It is averred the land was never used for the purpose specified and that the society is no longer in existence. There was a stipulation in the original grant that in the event the property was not used for the purpose for which it was given, it was to revert to the Darlington heirs.

CHARGES MATE THREW CHAIR

Ann Betty Berry, of 914 West North avenue, who says her husband, Ernest M. Berry, was a superintendent for the Bethlehem Steel Company when she married him, has been granted a divorce by Judge Frank P. Patterson.

Mrs. Berry said her husband wanted money from her when he had not worked for four years. She testified:

"When I told him I did not have any, he threw a chair at me."

Berry, she testified, then left her, telling her that she would not see him again. They were married in 1926 and separated December 31, 1930.

Divorces also were granted to Thomas A. Brennen, Jr., from Ethel L. Brennen, Margaret McC. Shaw from William Shaw, Helen Pruitt Wainwright from the Rev. Alcova A. Wainwright, Leon S. Davis from Samuel A. Davis, Catherine O'Brien from William O'Brien, Thela Dickerman from Robert Dickerman, Annetta Ruth Reno from Ralph V. Reno, Ernest P. Cooper from Anna P. Cooper, Steve W. Anderson from Lena J. Anderson, Myrtle Rice from William H. Rice and to Raymond J. Schilling from Hazel A. Schilling.

Garden Party Set As Missionary Aid

A twilight garden party will be held at the home of Mrs. John P. Gangwisch, 1 Josephine street, Crafton, Thursday night. Proceeds will be used for the benefit of the missionary work of the New Century Band.

Audience Flees Movie as Cats, Mice Roar

ROME, June 13.—When cats and mice in a screen cartoon seemed to emit roars like lions, the audience was thrown into a panic. Twenty people were injured in a stampede for the exits.

The roars came from real lions, caged up behind the scenery waiting to perform in a vaudeville act. The audience knew of their presence and feared they had broken loose.

ANNOUNCE HEAD OF ST. FRANCIS

LORETTO, Pa., June 13.—(AP.)—The Very Rev. John E. J. Sullivan was appointed president of St. Francis College and Ecclesiastical Seminary yesterday.

The Rev. Sullivan, who succeeds the Very Rev. Raphael Breheny, is 38 and is a native of Grafton, Neb.

The Rev. Breheny, who had been president of the college for eight years, resigned because of chronic illness. The Rev. Sullivan, who has been rector of the school for eight years, was ordained in 1925 in Rome, Italy.

Grotto Fish Fry Set for Sunday

Islam Grotto will hold its annual fish fry and sports carnival Sunday at Turners Grove, Perrysville. George S. Youden is general chairman.

President of Council Harry A. Little, chairman of the boxing committee, announced a program of eight boxing bouts. The initiation of a class of candidates will be another feature.

CITIZEN PLEDGE FOR GRADUATES

Pledge of good citizenship will be taken by members of the graduating classes of Pittsburgh high schools at convocation exercises in Syria Mosque at 2:45 p. m. tomorrow.

Judge W. H. McNaugher will deliver the principal address. Dr. Ben G. Graham, Superintendent of Schools, will recognize the seniors as citizens.

Representatives of the senior high schools will be Robert Goehring, Allderdice; Joseph Reiser, Allegheny; Hubert Williamson, Carrick; Samuel Bodell, Fifth Avenue; Earl Gocke, Langley; Albert Smith, Oliver; Robert Platt, Peabody; Robert Morin, Perry; Edward Geiger, Schenley; Edward Elbs, South; Robert Buckley, South Hills; and Eugene Simons, Westinghouse.

You, too, can get clothes 4 or 5 shades whiter—EASILY

SAY GOODBYE to washboard and boiler! Here's a way to get clothes whiter than you ever dreamed!

Do not scrub. Forget about boiling. This way saves your strength—saves your hands—saves the clothes, too, and that saves money!

Just soak everything in creamy Rinso suds. Watch those suds get busy! See them soak away the dirt! Clothes come 4 or 5 shades whiter—colored things come bright and fresh as new. Clothes last 2 or 3 times longer this gentle "scrubless" way. Many women have saved $100—and more—by using Rinso.

The home-making experts of 316 leading newspapers—the makers of 40 famous washers—recommend Rinso.

Cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps—even in hardest water. Wonderful for dishes and all cleaning—so easy on the hands. Be sure to get Rinso at your grocer's today.

Hate Always Strikes Back Like a Boomerang

Supposing your husband came to you, told you he loved someone else—and asked for his freedom?

What would you do?

Would you hang onto him—insist on your "legal rights"—or let him go?

So far Marian has hung tight to her man, but now she is beginning to wonder. What is right? Which should she do?

What's your answer?

Dear Elsie:

The time has come when I can't stand it much longer, so I am asking your advice. Please tell me what to do.

I am a married woman, and for the past three years my husband has been asking me to give him his freedom—and a divorce—and for the past three years I have refused to do so.

For the whole three years all I've been hearing, morning, noon and night, is how much he loves another woman. Sometimes I wonder if he really does love her, or whether he is just trying to "do right by her." Whatever the reason is, he insists on wanting his freedom so he can marry this girl.

So far I have refused. I have told him that it wouldn't do any good for him to try to get a divorce himself, as I would fight and see that he never got one. I hate to think that he is willing to give me up for someone else.

He has left me several times to prove that he really doesn't want me, and thinking at the same time that I would give him a divorce, but every time he came back. (Of course I pestered him to, even while he was away.) I would think, when he came back, that it was because he missed me, but instead, he would start the same lecture about loving this other girl and wanting to be free to marry her.

DENIES HIS REQUEST

Every time I tell him I won't free him. But I can't stand going on like this. And now the question is, in my own mind, should I let him go, or should I keep on hanging onto him?

Sometimes I really feel that he may be happy with this girl and so, for that reason, I refuse to let him go. However, I am getting to the point where I am wondering about it. I need your advice. Please help me. What shall I do? MARIAN.

What'll you do?

Well, what is there to do, Sister, except to quit being a "dog in the manger," and let that husband of yours go his way? Then do it!

But you "don't want to give him up"? No? Well, think it over! Is he yours to "give up"? Do you have him now—except struggling on a leash, eager to see the last of you? Of course you haven't, and you know it! Then what good is it to you to hang on I'll tell you what good it is! It satisfies your spite at him for "falling out of love" with you, and nothing else!

TRAGIC FUTILITY

You're not hanging on to him because you think divorce is wrong, or because you really love him. You're hanging on to him because he has outraged your vanity, and you're out to punish him and the woman he loves—the woman who has dared be more attractive to him than you. So you're determined to destroyed their happiness if you can.

No, I'm not defending her or him. They may be entirely unworthy, a couple of tramps, for all I know. But I am trying to make you see the tragic futility of what you are doing to your own life by trying to wreck his.

Hate is a boomerang, Marian—always. If you try to break the other fellow's back, the stroke will always rebound and cut your own throat.

Come out of it! Get regular! If you have failed to make him happy, let him go. Then try to remake your own life into something worth while. It can be done—but never as long as you're poisoning yourself with spite.

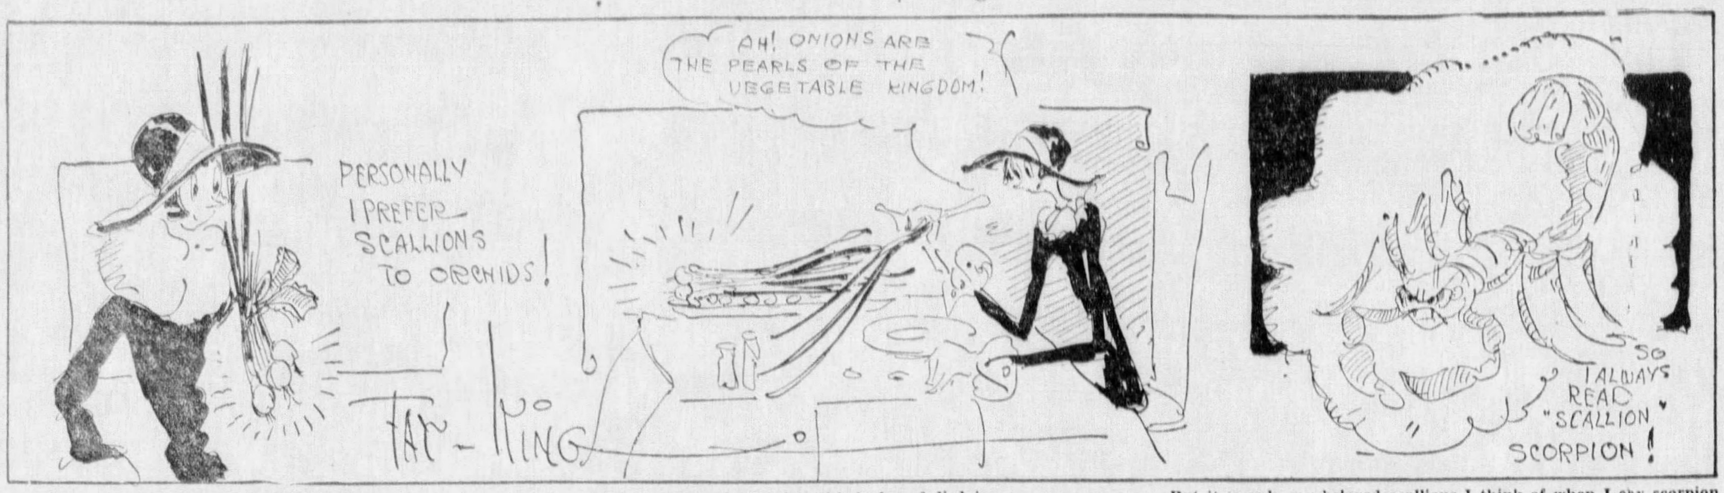
Walter Winchell, You Let Fay King's Scallions Alone!



By FAY KING

Walter Winchell, creator of customs and coiner of words, gives "orchids" to his heroes, and "scallions" to his zeros.

Now scallions are my favorite fruit and flower. It makes me sad to see them demoted to this badge of disdain.

For my own peace of mind, I always read W. W.'s scallion as scorpion. The scorpion has a poisonous sting. The dictionary's second definition is: "An instrument of chastisement; whip, a scourge." So you see it is even more appropriate for the purpose.

But it is only my beloved scallions I think of when I say scorpion. I could live all my life without orchids, but not without onions. So forgive me if I say scorpion to spare the scallion! (I'm not ambitious socially!)

Heart of a Wife

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Fearfully Makes a Bid for Freedom

If I had needed anything to augment the desperation which was mine at my plight, it was the sound of Nick's voice telling Jerry's henchmen that he had a "heavy date" which he was only waiting their departure to keep—"and how!"

There was something so carelessly gloating in those hateful inflections that I redoubled the frantic efforts I was making to free my hands from the knotted thong binding them to the fence post. But after a particular desperate tug had cut the thing deeper into my wrist, I became convinced that I was lacerating my flesh and my spirit to no avail, and that the only thing I could do was to wait quietly, conserving my strength, and keeping every faculty alert for the dreaded moment when Nick should come to release me.

There was a silence of perhaps half a minute after Nick's boast, I surmised that Jerry's henchmen were turning over his statements in their minds, weighing them as to the credence they could put in them. And conjecture became certainty when the man who had spoken before said with decision:

"Well! You're probably shooting the bull, but it's oke by us. If you wa'an't stalling about calling it a day we're willing to scram."

"That's oke by us, eh? Tony?"

GANGSTERS AGREE

Tony's answer was inaudible, to me, but evidently assenting, for Nick gave an emphatic "Oke, then," but quickly appended a warning:

"Look here! No chasing after the gal and her boy friend! We don't care what you do with the Big Squeeze."

Jerry's henchman consigned "the gal, the boy friend and the Big Squeeze" to eternity in pithy and picturesque profanity.

"Jerry's got his dough, and he should worry about anything else," he finished, and Nick's sardonic chuckle punctuated his final comment:

"Let's see you scram then. Just a sec. We'll get our rope while you're getting started. Tony, you scram over there and unfasten our rope while I get the old boat going."

"Who was your slave this time last year?" Tony uttered the venerable "wise crack" lumberingly, but Nick made the inevitable reply snappy.

"You were, so scram," and Tony obediently, if grumblingly, advanced toward the rope, while, with suddenly quickened pulses, I pressed my body against the fence, and put my head over the wires as far as I could.

OFFERS TONY MONEY

For the post to which Nick had shackled me was so near the place where he and Tony had fastened the end of the rope which had trapped the car from Jerry's, that I knew a whisper from me would reach Tony's ears. I also was sure that Nick, absorbed in the starting of the car, would not hear such a whisper, nor would he dream, knowing my fear of Tony, that I would appeal to him.

My one fear was that Tony, in his surprise at hearing my voice would utter some ejaculation, betraying my appeal. I waited, therefore until his head was bent above the rope, and then I said softly:

"One hundred dollars for you for one second's work. Don't lift your head, just say softly, 'I'm listening'."

Tony's body jerked violently, but he did not lift his head. And the next second, the words, "I'm listening," made me realize the sensations of a person in danger of drowning who has been thrown a life preserver.

"I'll give you $100, all I have on me, if you'll cut this strap and let me go. Nick will never know, and you don't want him wasting time with me, you know you don't, but hurry!"

Tony delayed his answer for another half-second that seemed an eternity, then his avid yet skeptical voice muttered:

"Show me the hundred!"

Correct Manners

Engagement Ring

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been a widow for over five years and I am now 28 years old and am contemplating getting married next month. I would like to know whether it is customary (or proper) to receive an engagement (diamond) ring? Perhaps some other token would be more fitting. If so, what would you suggest?

B.

The same type of engagement ring is proper and appropriate for the second engagement as for the first. Usually it is a solitaire diamond, as it is for the first engagement. But if the fiancee prefers some other kind of stone—an emerald, a ruby, a sapphire, or her birth stone—this is thoroughly proper too.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

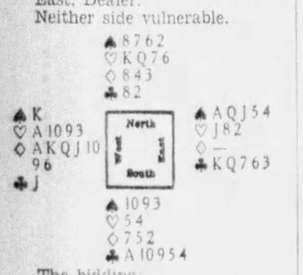
By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Don't Be Greedy

In a Duplicate game the other day I saw a Declarer who had reached the contract of six diamonds lose a hand which was laid down against any defense because he decided to play to make an overtrick as well as his contract. In Rubber play the value of an overtrick is so slight that no sane person will risk the safety of a contract on the chance of scoring 20 or 30 points more above the line, but in Duplicate play, with Howell master point scoring, the temptation to shoot for tops is so strong that otherwise good players frequently succumb, as did the player to whom I refer. The hand was:

East, Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.



The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	Pass	3 ◇	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♣	Pass	6 ◇	Pass
Pass	Pass

No one can quarrel particularly with the bidding. West's solid diamonds and the singleton King of East's first bid suit seemed to assure at least a play for six. Of course, seven is out of the question after East's minimum response to the four-no-trump Forcing bid.

The Opening lead was the heart King, which West, of course, won with the Ace. At this point it is obvious that West can assure the safety of the contract by the simple expedient of drawing the adverse trumps, entering Dummy by leading the King of spades and overtaking with the Ace, and discarding the club on another round of spades. West saw this, but decided that there were even better things in store, so elected to play for a pseudo-squeeze of his adversaries and thus perhaps secure an extra trick rather than accept the certain six which were in sight.

Upon the seven diamonds both North and South had to find four discards. The Declarer watched closely for the discard of a spade, but South held tight to the three he held to the ten-spot, and North, equally alert, retained the four to the 8. All of Dummy's clubs had been discarded, and thus the Declarer's eggs were all in one basket. He now led the King of spades, overtook with the Ace in Dummy, and cashed the Queen and Knave, but in the end he was compelled to concede North 2 tricks—the Queen of hearts and the 8 of spades.

It was a fitting reward for over-greediness. Safety, even in Duplicate play, is to be preferred to a line of play which jeopardizes a sure contract.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You hold:

♠ K 5 4 ♡ Q 10 4 3 2 ◇ 6 5 3 ♣ J 8

Neither side is vulnerable. Your partner has bid one club. What do you bid?

Answer: One heart. The hand contains about 1-plus honor-trick, and the shaded biddable heart suit should be bid.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

There Is Much Needless Fear of Heart Ailments

I sympathize with anybody who is warned that he has heart disease. To be told you have heart disease is certainly alarming and discouraging. The sufferer believes he will be the victim of a sudden and early death.

Dr. Copeland

Much of this worry is quite unnecessary. In most instances apprehension and fear are uncalled for, because the normal expectation of life will not be lessened.

Recent statistics accumulated by life insurance companies are remarkable. They show that the average span of life of a sufferer from so-called heart disease is often greater than that of the supposedly healthy person. This is easily explained. When a person knows he is handicapped by a weak heart, he will not subject himself to unnecessary and perhaps fatal strain.

There are many minor disturbances of the heart falsely called "heart disease." These minor disturbances are usually of a temporary nature. The function or work of the heart is not disturbed, and with proper rest and treatment the ailment disappears. But all too often these disorders are wrongfully accepted as permanent heart defects, causing great anxiety.

This is particularly true of the "temporary murmurs" of childhood. Nothing is more alarming to a mother than to be informed her child has a heart murmur. Many children have such heart murmurs of temporary character. They are not serious and usually disappear within a short time.

These heart murmurs are not the result of a permanent defect in the valves of the heart. They must be distinguished from organic murmurs. The latter are due to definite changes in the structure of the heart valves and muscles. They can usually be traced to a complication of some infectious disease, such as acute rheumatic fever, scarlet fever, pneumonia or diphtheria.

Another problem that often arises in connection with suspected heart disease, is the question of vague and discomforting pain around the heart. Many persons have pain in this region and erroneously assume they have heart disease. They suffer hours of mental anguish and many of them believe the pain is incurable. They avoid the doctor. They fear he will say their days are numbered and that they must lead the life of an invalid.

This is all foolishness.

BOROUGH AUDIT FACES FIGHT IN COURT

Notice of exceptions filed by two East Pittsburgh councilmen to an audit of the borough's books for 1932 has been served on all interested parties and the exceptants are waiting to have a trial date set.

Attorney James H. Brennan was to report to Common Pleas Court today that Councilmen Emil A. Stritmatter and C. J. Flasher, attacking items amounting to about $128,000 in the borough accounts, are ready to proceed.

The exceptions, filed a week ago, are another chapter in the quarrel that arose in East Pittsburgh's political circles over a borough administration led by President Frank Graham, of the borough's Council.

SECRETARY PAROLED

Earlier this year Borough Secretary Paul E. Orris pleaded guilty to defrauding the borough of more than $3,000 in salary items. He is now free on parole.

Some of Orris' transactions are among those to which exception is taken.

Largest item is some $82,644.80 in certificates of indebtedness discounted in an East Pittsburgh bank.

Stritmatter and Flasher, minority councilmen in East Pittsburgh, allege that these certificates were not valid, were never approved by the Borough Council or the Burgess.

An additional $27,375 borrowed by the borough was without authority of Council, they declare.

EXCEPTIONS TAKEN

Exceptants charge that $3,278 interest paid on the certificates was never properly authorized.

Although Orris was paid but $75 a month, exceptants declare he paid himself salary and other items amounting to more than $7,000 between January 4, 1932, and January 4, 1933, all of it excessive and much unauthorized.

Of the audit by James E. Ferry, George W. Wehrle and James F. Scalley, the exceptants says:

"It is, in reality, a financial statement of borough affairs instead of an audit."

TRAP 2 KIDNAP SUSPECTS

CHICAGO, June 13.—(INS.)—Trapped by police as they trailed Harry Levinson, wealthy diamond broker, to his home, two kidnaping suspects were under arrest today.

The pair identified themselves as Patrick Frayne, 32, and Chester Eckert, 28.

In their automobile detectives found two revolvers, two pairs of smoked glasses, adhesive tape and extra hats.

Globe-Trotting

—By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN—

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Good luck plays right into my hands.

Just when I got worried about all these requests to remove bee swarms, in comes a letter from Ted Mayer and James R. Dalton, R. F. D. 1, Box 228, Homestead, who volunteer to handle the bees.

I just sent them out to A. E. Trisky's and Elmer E. Frank's. There is no charge for the service. If you are bee-sieged, write or phone McKeesport 8054 and give your name and address.

* * *

That East Liberty young lady wishes to thank the red-haired man who pulled her out of the water at Deer Creek, Harmarville.

* * *

Director Lang and his staff work harder as it gets hotter to get the pools open. Today the Highland Park pool will be open and that's not all. If the Ormondy Pool on the South Side isn't open today it will be tomorrow. Likewise the Murray Pool in East Park, North Side, and the Leslie Pool at Forty-sixth street.

* * *

I can hear them now:

"That pesky Globe-Trotter again. In the winter it's how about roping streets off and now it's when do the pools open?"

Swell people though. They think of us.

* * *

The Globe-Trotter has mimeographed copies of Mr. Eby's talk on garden insects. Remember to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. It need only be a cent-and-a-half stamp. If you forgot the stamped envelope you'll get it anyway.

"LOWEST-PRICED 4 DOOR SEDAN* sounded Good to Me!"
*WITH SIX CYLINDERS

A CERTIFIED INTERVIEW WITH MR. V. C. ECHLIN, 799 GOLDEN GATE AVE., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

"We Need Reliable Cars... that Are Economical to Buy and Run"

MR. ECHLIN is not only an engineer... he makes automobile parts! So he knows automobile values ... and what a dollar ought to buy!

He'll tell you he bought Standard Plymouth for his salesmen because of "the many outstanding features that make for reliability and economy."

Floating Power engine mountings for instance... not only a smoother ride, but longer life from your engine. And hydraulic brakes... not only sure, but self-equalizing as well.

And Plymouth not only is the lowest-priced 6-cylinder 4-door sedan... but costs less to run because there is no needless dead weight!

Mr. Echlin played no favorites when he picked Plymouth. He bought to make his dollars count!

Why not follow his example? Look at all three low-priced cars... and buy the one that gives you most per dollar.

Priced as Low as the Lowest

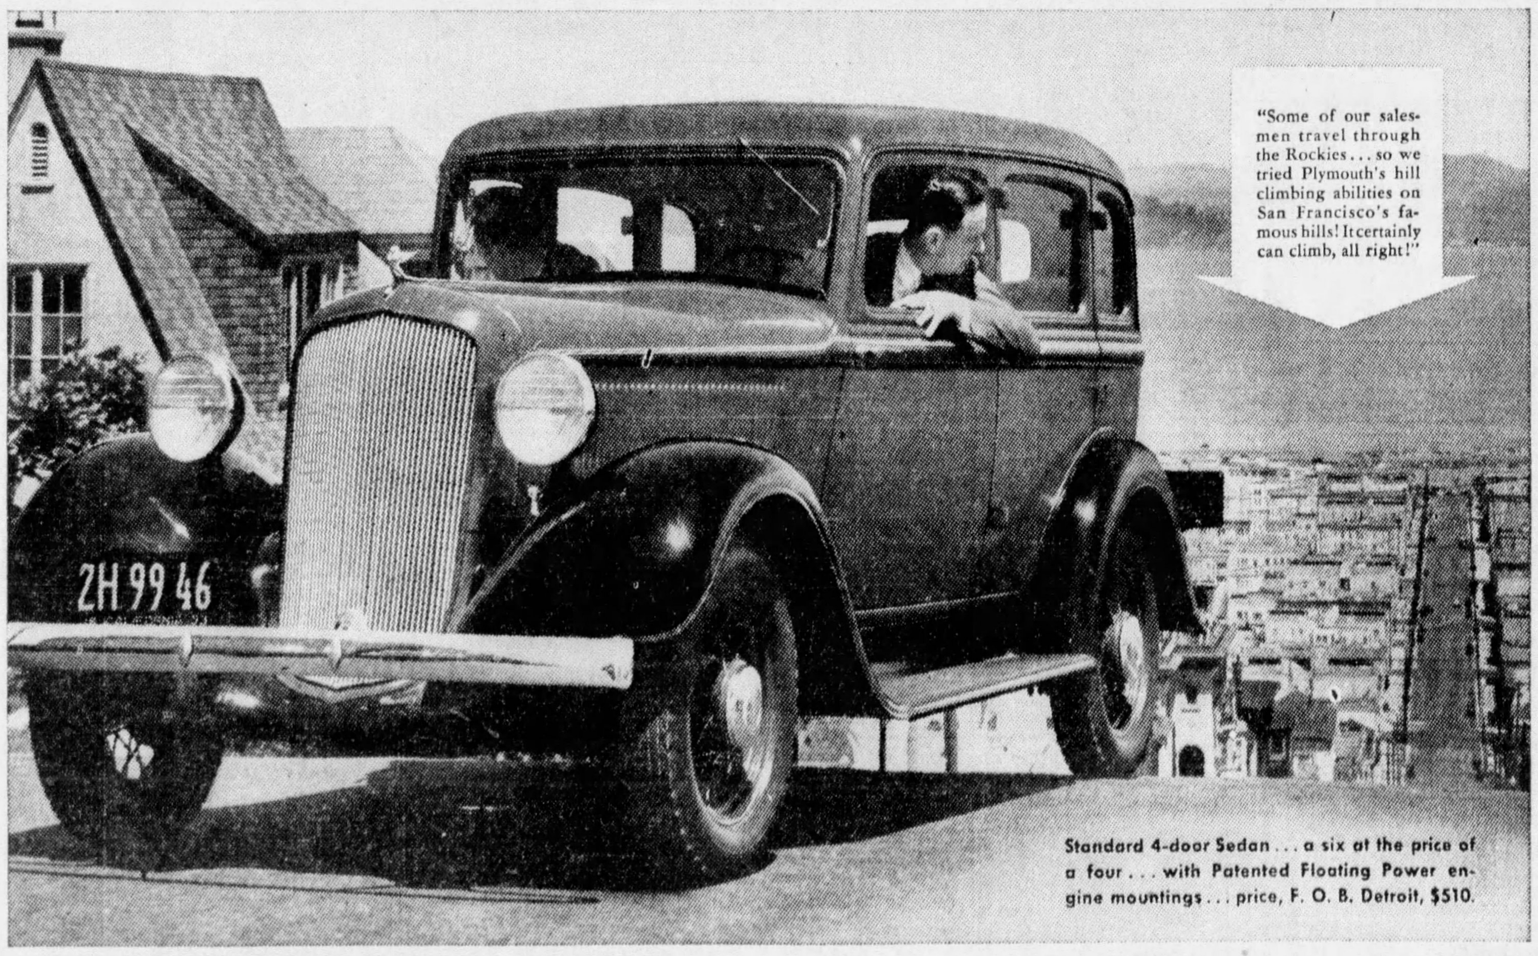
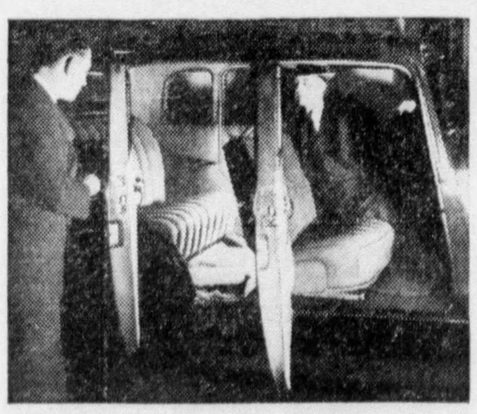
Standard Plymouth Six with Floating Power engine mountings, hydraulic brakes, safety-steel body, Duplate Safety Plate Glass optional at slight extra cost, 2-door sedan, $465; 4-door sedan, $510; rumble seat coupe, $485; business coupe, $445. All prices F.O.B. Factory, Detroit, and subject to change without notice. Low delivered prices.

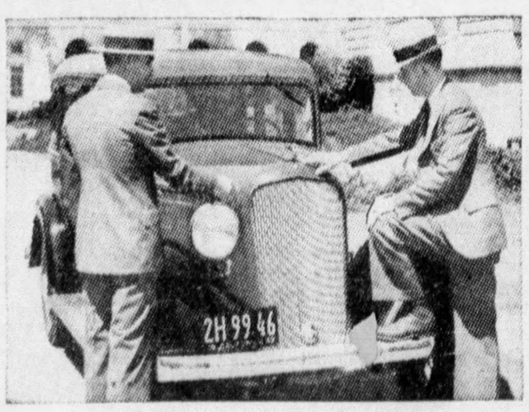
SEE PLYMOUTH AT CHRYSLER MOTORS BUILDING, CHICAGO CENTURY OF PROGRESS



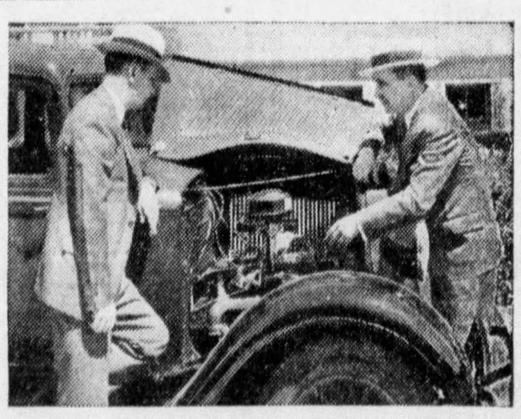
Standard 4-door Sedan... a six at the price of a four... with Patented Floating Power engine mountings... price, F. O. B. Detroit, $510.



"Room counts, too... we want our men to have comfort when they travel. The Standard is big inside."



"We can't forget about its looks, either! Plymouth has style and will make a good impression for us."



"But what sold us is what is under the hood. We are engineers; we bought Plymouth on its engineering."

Opera Stars Hold Radio Spotlight

With Paul Althouse, for 10 years leading tenor of Metropolitan Opera, welcoming Nino Martini to the Met ranks, presentation of the Columbia Medal "for distinguished contribution to the radio art" to the young CBS tenor takes tonight's etheral spotlight.

Martini, who makes his Metropolitan debut next fall, reversed the usual procedure of things by becoming the first radio artist to rate Met billing.

The broadcast, to be heard over CBS-WJAS at 9:30 p. m., is transmitted direct from the Italian liner, S. S. Conte di Savoia, during a party held in Martini's honor with a distinguished group of operatic and radio luminaries attending. Presentation of the medal by Henry A. Bellows, CBS vice president, and a musical program by Howard Barlow's Symphon Orchestra and Martini are highspots.

* * *

Gladys Swarthout

And while in the operatic vein, note that Gladys Swarthout, Metropolitan mezzo-soprano, foregoes the arias in her final radio recital of the season KDKA at 9—for "Night and Day" and "The Man I Love." While Kate Smith, going versatile to the nth degree, does "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from "Samson and Delilah," via WJAS at 8:30.

* * *

Politics also comes in for its share of radio time with Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, co-author of the Industry Control Bill, discussing the far-reaching legislation designed to give employment to millions of workers over WCAE at 10:30. Senator James P. Pope, of Idaho, speaking on "A Step Forward in International Relations," is listed on the same station at 11:15.

* * *

Your Government

Concluding the "You and Your Government" series on legislatures and legislative problems, Prof. Thomas H. Reed, of the University of Michigan, talks on "The Legislative Product of 1933"—KDKA at 7:15. A new series, titled "Constructive Economy in Government," starts June 20.

* * *

A talk on "The Few and the Many in Education," by Dr. George E. Vincent, former head of the Rockefeller Fundation and authority on current problems, is KDKA'S 4:45 bill.

Little Jackie Heller solos on Ben Bernie's NBC-WCAE broadcast at 9.

"Iolanthe," Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, inaugurates Light Opera Gems' new schedule on WJAS at 10:45.

The Pirates-Cards game at St. Louis is reported play-by-play over WWSW beginning at 5 p. m.

* * *

Flag Day Program

Three special Flag Day programs are billed for day-time listeners tomorrow, topped by ceremonies attending the opening of the restored Gadsby's Tavern, Alexandria, Va., with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt speaking, on WJAS at 4.

Monticello, Va., home of Thomas Jefferson, third president of the United States and author of the Declaration of Independence, is the pick-up point for an NBC-KDKA broadcast at 3:15.

On WCAE at 4, a New York program under the auspices of the Sons of the American Revolution is scheduled.

Junior Patrol on Air Tomorrow

Headed by Uncle Ted, pinch-hitting for Cartoonist Quin Hall; Junior, Snuggins and Spike, a group of embryo Junior Patrol artists observes Flag Day during the weekly Patrol broadcast over WCAE at 4:45 tomorrow. The complete program, directed by Miss Jane A. White, assistant curator of education at Carnegie Museum, is as follows:

Uncle Ted, Junior, Snuggins and Spike.
Junior Patrol—String Quartet.
Original Poems: "Queen Nature" and "The Idle Man of England."
Savel Kliachko.
Piano solo: "Andalouse" .....Pessard
Naomi Ellman.
Trumpet solod: "Onward Christian Soldiers."
Howard Beech.
Vocal solo: "Star-Spangled Banner."
Mary Louise Parker.
Vocal duet: "Grand Old Flag."
Mary Louise and Thomas Parker.
Piano solo—Miriam Horowitz.

Homeless Boys Hold South Park Picnic

Homeless boys being cared for by the boys' department of the Association for the Improvement of the Poor were holding an outing today at South Park. J. C. Dalzell, superintendent of the boys' bureau, was in charge.

Dick Liebert Tunes Help Boil Eggs

By AIRCASTER

Dick Liebert, the NBC organist, who left Pittsburgh and made good in New York, believes he has contributed something really new and useful to the National networks. During his morning program which begins at 8:30, he plays one number which is timed to consume exactly three minutes. Listening housewives are told by the announced to have their eggs ready to boil when the piece begins—and to be ready to take 'em out when the piece ends.

It is possible that Liebert will devise another number to last 15 seconds, during which listeners may hold their breath to cure hiccups.

What Price Allen?

Among the unusual items in the day's radio log is the fact that the sponsor of Will Rogers' late series, and Fred Allen, the comic, have called off all negotiations because the sponsor won't pay the Allen price.

There is also the item about the appointment of a Chicago member of the Federal Reserve System, whom the radio heads, and particularly the announcers, sincerely hope won't ever want to go on the air. His name is Szymczak.

I know that all the customers will want to unite with me in extending their sympathy to Milton J. Cross, as I do. Milton's little daughter, Lillian, 9 years old, died yesterday, after a long illness, following an operation for appendicitis.

Tomorrow, Flag Day, is the birthday of George Flag Hall, the popular Columbia maestro.

Globe-Trotter Time Changes

In deference to NBC and CBS broadcasts on WCAE and WJAS from 12 to 1 p. m. tomorrow, during which President Roosevelt is to receive the honorary degree of LL. D. from the Catholic University, the 12:15 p. m. broadcast of news by Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, has been cancelled.

His other broadcasts—9:05 a. m. on WCAE and 2:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m. on WCAE-WJAS—will be heard as usual.

Husband Pleased After Wife Lost BULKY FAT

Reduced 21 Pounds—Skin Clearer and Feels Much Better

"I've lost exactly 21 lbs. with 3 jars of Kruschen and am so happy to get rid of that bulky fat. My husband is very pleased with me. My skin is clearer and I feel so much better since I'm not so heavy on my feet. Friends say I look much better." Mrs. Norma Spickler, Maugansville, Md.

To get rid of double chins, bulging hips, ugly rolls of fat on waist and upper arms SAFELY and without discomfort—at the same time build up glorious health and acquire a clear skin, bright eyes, energy and vivaciousness—to look younger and feel it—take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast. To hasten results—simply cut down on pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, white bread, butter and cream.

One jar lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle at any drugstore the world over. Make sure you get Kruschen because it's SAFE. Money back if not joyfully satisfied.

In Mayfair
-With-
Patricia Pitt

If you want to know just what smart young folks are wearing on fashionable beaches this summer, you have to go no further than the little Sewickley Creek Swimming Pool a week from tonight at 8 o'clock.

Debs and post-debs will model the latest in bathing suits in a fashion show all for the benefit of the Sewickley Child Health Association. And a debutante of the past winter, blonde, vivacious Laura Childs, is in charge of the models.

Alumnae Luncheon

The spacious terraces and huge dining rooms at the Longue Vue Country Club were filled to overflowing yesterday, when the Briarcliff Alumnae Association held a bridge luncheon for the benefit of the Children's Home Society of Pennsylvania.

Nearly 500 guests attended the affair, and after the luncheon they played bridge on the terrace.

Gayly flowered crepes and figured cottons were the choice of most of the alumnae, and I noticed that instead of straw hats, most of them preferred white pique or linen.

Margaret Meanor and Louise Lippincott looked ever so smart. Margaret wore a dress of green-barred white linen and a tailored jacket of white linen and a white hat, and Louise wore white with a delphinium blue linen swagger coat having cartridge pleats at the shoulders.

Playing bridge at one of the tables were Jane Keally, in a black, red and white flowered crepe with a white linen hat; Mrs. Marion Heppenstall, in brown crepe, having full, pleated sleeves and a beige crepe hat; Caroline Heppenstall, in white crepe suit, having short, fagoted sleeves, and an ascot tie, and Eleanor Leidenroth, who wore blue silk jersey with a blue hat.

Seen at Tables

At another table I noticed Jane Hutchinson, wearing a Scotch plaid crepe in two shades of green, with Helen Bixler, in a blue and white dotted crepe frock. With them were Jane Harmeier, in candy pink crepe, and Sally Cooper, in flax blue crepe with a wide-brimmed blue crepe hat.

Motoring To Yale

The John J. Kennedys and their daughter Betty will be off—by motor—for Yale Friday. The Kennedys' son John, who was voted the most scholarly in his class, will be graduated next week. And in the fall he'll study in the Harvard Business School.

* * *

Helen Edmundson, who appeared in one of the Stage and Play Society productions late this past winter, has returned from Vassar where she went for commencement. Her class was graduated this year. Helen transferred from Wellesley to the fine arts department of Carnegie Tech. She'll attend the Mortar Board dance here today.

Marries on Parents' Silver Anniversary

On the twenty-fifth anniversary yesterday of her parents' wedding, Miss Eva Theresa Koepfrich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Koepfrich, of Woodland avenue, North Side, became the bride of John Kusner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephan Kusner, of the North Side.

The ceremony took place yesterday at 9 o'clock in St. Leo's Roman Catholic Church, with the Rev. George Leichs officiating before an altar banked with garden flowers and cibotium ferns.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore white satin, having long sleeves of rose point lace and a tulle veil, cascading from a cap of rose point lace, seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried bride's roses showered with lilies of the valley.

Miss Marie V. Schon, of Squirrel Hill, as maid of honor, wore white organdie and a white picture hat, trimmed in blue, and carried an arm bouquet of garden flowers.

Mrs. Catherine Neugebauer, sister of the bride, and Miss Margaret Kusner, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaids, wore similar gowns with their white hats trimmed in pink, and carried garden flowers.

Loretta Koepfrich, sister of the bride, and Agnes Kusner, sister of the bridegroom, as flower girls, wore pink organdie dresses and white hats with pink and blue ribbon trimming, and carried Colonial bouquets.

Louis Neugebauer was best man and Charles Kusner, brother of the bridegroom, and William Wolf were ushers.

The bride's mother wore flax blue crepe with a hat to match, and a corsage of pink roses.

A wedding breakfast in the Koepfrich home followed. After an eastern wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Kusner will be at home in Evandale street, North Side.

Swissvale Girl Weds Mt. Lebanon Man

Mr. and Mrs. John Powers, of Miriam street, Swissvale, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Catherine Leone Powers, to Eugene A. Fleming, of Mt. Lebanon, which took place June 6 in St. Anselm's Roman Catholic Church, Swissvale.

Council House Is Scene Of Much Bridge Activity

Council House of Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women is the scene of much bridge activity these days, the big cool rooms and comfortable verandas affording a pleasant setting for the numerous affairs.

Mrs. B. J. Hannegan is hostess for a bundle day card party which is dated for next Tuesday. On her committee are Mrs. J. J. Studeny, Mrs. James C. Carey, Mrs. Harry Eibel, Mrs. Richard Flatley and Mrs. Clara Harbison. The sale of goods received as the price of admission to the affair is set for June 29 at Council House garage.

Mrs. John Murray heads the committee in charge of this week's Saturday afternoon card party. Among her assistants are Mrs. A. A. Gordon, Mrs. John A. Cronin, Mrs. James C. Campbell and Mrs. L. L. Hawley.

Council's Bridge Club No. 2 will entertain with a bridge party at Spear's, Penn avenue, on Friday afternoon, June 23, under the chairmanship of Mrs. L. J. Feinaugle, Mrs. Harry A. Silverman, Mrs. Francis Bell, Mrs. Anna Vollbrecht, Mrs. Frank Kane, Mrs. W. S. Gallagher and Mrs. W. J. Waldman are her aides.

East Liberty Review Card Party Monday

East Liberty Review No. 1, Women's Benefit Association, will have a card party at 21 Collins avenue, on next Monday.

Bradford Woods Children Vying for Flower Garden Awards

MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Both children and grown-ups in Bradford Woods are watching with keen interest the progress of the flower gardens for which the Women's Civic Club furnished the seeds. Packages of seeds were given to the children of the community and in home gardens 10 feet square, the youngsters are raising flowers which will be judged by the club women late in the summer. Ribbons will be awarded for the most artistic effect. Mrs. William Martin is supervising this activity of the club.

Another interest which will claim the attention of the club members this summer will be diving and swimming classes for children which are to be sponsored by the club at Windwood Pool under the chairmanship of Mrs. James Leighton and Mrs. Herman Myers.

On Thursday afternoon at Mrs. J. L. Hannon's home, the club officers will be hostesses for a regular meeting at which there's to be a garden pageant by the young people of the community and a history of the club by Mrs. James Smith. Annual reports will be heard during the business session.

Voters of Swissvale Sponsor Bridge Party

The Swissvale League of Women Voters is having a bridge this afternoon at Spear's, Penn avenue. Mrs. W. F. Babcock, Mrs. George Seitz, Mrs. Allan S. Koch and Mrs. J. A. McClain are hostesses for the afternoon, assisted by Mrs. Sara Tomlinson.

Mrs. Davis to Be Honored At Reception Tomorrow

Mrs. Barnett Davis, honorary president of the Jewish Home for Babies, will be honored at a luncheon at the home, Breckenridge street, tomorrow. Later a tablet will be dedicated to Mrs. Davis in recognition of her service to the home. Mrs. S. I. Lebeau is chairman in charge for the day.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

THIS YEAR FINDS LINEN 'IT' AND WORN THE CLOCK 'ROUND

YOU'LL SEE it in town. You'll see it in the country. You'll see it on the 5:19 and meeting the 5:19. You'll see it in the country club, playing golf, playing tennis, on the beach. "It" is linen this year (with apologies to Clara Bow).

* * *

BUT NOT only will you see it all day long, linen is invading the dance floor. When the first white pique evening dress burst on a startled world a year or two ago, women thought it was a freak and treated is as such. But since then, the logic of the idea has made itself felt. Cottons which had never before been seen after dark, suddenly blossomed out at dances and parties. The latest recruit is linen. In some ways it's the nicest of them all, because it has so much character. Its weaves are as varied as can be. It dyes any color perfectly. It is sufficiently maleable so that it can be handled intricately, sufficiently stiff so it stays put. It no longer musses in the frantic way it used to.

* * *

* * *

JEWELLED CLIPS at the neckline and the belt invite you to supplement the costume with masses of jewelled bracelets and that in itself is an innovation. It used to be thought that jewels were taboo with cottons. But now they're very much all right. The V of the neck in the back is very V indeed, cut daringly low, the front is more conservative.

* * *

ON THE right is linen in bright yellow, dashing with sun tan, decorated with narturtium colored accents. The neck is higher with a square collar in the front continuing into flaps along the V back, tying with tricky strings here and there. The wide, wide belt of coral colored suede also ties in places to continu the scheme. The skirt is fuller and less formal in line than the skirt of the white dress. You'll want to dance miles in it. And you can put it in the tub the next morning.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Slippery Rock State Teachers' College, and her husband is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh.

Allegheny Forest Gets 4,815 Acres

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(AP.)—Purchase of 4,815 acres of land adjoining the Allegheny National Forest in Pennsylvania as an addition to the government forest land was announced today. The purchase price was $17,061.

Miss Alma Rosina Jones Weds Wilbur Kennedy

Miss Alma Rosina Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Jones, of Crafton boulevard, became the bride of Wilbur Rockwell Kennedy, son of Mrs. Lyda Kennedy, of Mars, Pa., on Friday, in the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Crafton. Officiating was the Rev. Harry Allen Price.

The bride wore her mother's wedding gown of white chiffon and lace with narrow ruffles on the bodice, and double puffed sleeves. Her veil of tulle cascaded from a cap of tulle, caught with orange blossoms, over the full court train of the gown. She carried white roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Alice Glosser, the maid of honor, a cousin of the bride, wore pale green organdie having a jacket, and she carried tea roses. Mrs. Stella McKibben, a sister of the bridegroom, in tea rose pink organdie, and Miss Alpha Jane Black, cousin of the bride, in orchid organdie, were bridesmaids, and carried tea roses.

The bride's mother chose orchid crepe and the mother of the bridegroom wore blue crepe.

Paul Wohlgemuth served as best man, and ushers included John Louden, Frank R. Keller, Wilford Miller and Charles Howard Jones, a brother of the bride. Doyle Schwab played the wedding music.

There was a reception in the Jones home after the ceremony for 60 guests. The house was decorated with white and pink roses and orange blossoms.

M'LEAN PAPER GOES TO MEYER

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(AP.)—The Washington Post, long the property of the celebrated McLean family, now belongs to Eugene Meyer, who, until a month ago, was governor of the Federal Reserve Board.

Meyer announced his sole ownership last night after a District of Columbia court had ratified formally the auction sale of the property to a previously unidentified bidder for $825,000.

Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, estranged wife of the former publisher, tried to buy the Post for her sons, but was outbid even though she sought to pawn the famous Hope diamond to get enough cash.

Yesterday she announced she would start a new paper, the Enquirer, for the boys to publish in the capital.

Carnegie Monday Club Year Ends With Program

Another club closed its books for the season yesterday afternoon when members of the Monday Club of Carnegie met at Mrs. D. J. Walter's home in Washington avenue for an enjoyable program. Robert Johns, baritone, accompanied by Mrs. Johns, sang, and Karl Emerson Williams gave a number of readings. There was tea afterward.

"Convince Yourself!"

You—with the Help of Camay can Win your Beauty Contest

Every day you're in a Beauty Contest. Surely you want to be pretty—and just as surely a Camay complexion can help!

What's the latest beauty news? It's all about Soap—about the modern beauty soap that works wonders for the skin of every girl smart enough to use it.

Camay, the Soap of Beautiful Women, is virtually a "cosmetic" soap. The first cake you use gives convincing, tangible proof that Camay can improve your skin.

"CONVINCE YOURSELF"

Never, since the earliest days of making soap has there been a finer, gentler soap than Camay.

Pure—creamy-white, Camay comes naturally by its famous name, the Soap of Beautiful Women.

Smart and modern in its new green and yellow package—fresh in protecting Cellophane—the product of infinite care—a perfect soap!

"Camay's perfume and its creamy lather endeared it to me from the very first cake I used," said the girl who posed for this picture.

"I like Camay because my eyes tell me it's pure, and my skin tells me it's mild," said a mere chit of a girl fresh from school.

A young radio performer said: "Camay is so gentle—I'm utterly devoted to it!"

Camay is a grand soap—a 1933 soap—as modern as it is beneficial to your skin!

Convince yourself! Keep up with the trend! Use Camay. You'll see—your friends will see—the improvement in your skin. Then graceful attentions will be given you—men will admire your charm.

For all through life you're in a Beauty Contest. And your Camay complexion can help you win!

CITY WILL JOIN IN TRIBUTE TO FLAG

Flag Day, the one hundred and fifty-sixth anniversary of the adoption of the stars and stripes, will be observed throughout the country tomorrow.

One of the most colorful tributes will be paid during the morning on Flag Staff Hill, Schenley Park, by the Pittsburgh Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution.

Part of the exercises will include the firing of a 21-gun salute by the One Hundred and Seventh Field Artillery. Col. C. T. Bundy will be in command.

Three Elks lodges will hold celebrations. Sheraden Lodge No. 949 will observe the day in Kennywood Park as part of the Sheraden community outing. Judge Ralph H. Smith will be the principal speaker. Boy Scouts will take part in the exercises.

Knoxville Elks Lodge No. 1193 will sponsor a community celebration on the lawn adjoining their temple at Suncrest and Brownsville road and Carnegie Lodge No. 831 will hold services on Carnegie Library grounds in the evening.

A Flag Day luncheon by the Retail Credit Men's Association at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday will be addressed by Judges Ralph Smith and Benjamin Lencher. Their speeches will be broadcast over WCAE at 1 p. m.

NEW YORK TAX DECISION NEAR

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP.)—Critics who turned a backfire on Mayor John P. O'Brien's auto tax plan waited eagerly today to see how much the scorching had shriveled it.

Officially, pending an executive meeting of the Board of Estimate today, the plan was unchanged. It would levy on resident car owners a tax equal to the state registration fee—$12.50 for a medium-weight car—and out-of-town motorists would have to pay tolls over the East and Harlem River bridges.

CITIZENS BUILD BEN AVON PARK

The citizens of Ben Avon now have a park—a natural park in the woods.

Twenty taxpayers, working out taxes, have beautified a tract of woods near Walnut street, between the Avalon and Ben Avon street car bridges.

The park will be developed gradually, officials said. Three ovens have already been erected as well as tables and benches.

WAR DECLARED ON BUS LINE

BEAVER, Pa., June 13.—"War" has been declared on the Nevin Bus Company by the Beaver Falls Station, state highway patrol, which charges the company refuses to register buses properly and uses license plates issued to other buses.

John S. Hamilton, a Pittsburgh driver, was fined $25 and costs after his bus, Pittsburgh-bound with 35 passengers, had been stopped and delayed several hours Saturday night. Officials of the bus line declared they would appeal the case to Harrisburg. Hamilton was arrested by Pvt. J. J. Schaup.

Corp. H. B. Frazier, in command of the sub-station, said today company officials had been warned and their drivers arrested on many occasions.

Women, Children Killed in Rioting

MORELIA, Mexico, June 13.—(INS.)—Police were on alarm footing at Zitacuaro today following a political clash in which eight persons were killed and more than 100 wounded.

Th rival factions fought all over the town, causing the local military garrison to go into action. The soldiers fired into the mob, with the result that women and children were listed among the dead.

Young Men's Club In Drill Tonight

A turnout of the entire community is expected by Director Peter Dimperio when St. Antheny's Young Men's Club presents a drill, athletic exhibition and fireworks display at Burgwin Park, Hazelwood, tonight.

The club, which includes 60 young men, all unemployed, was organized by Dimperio two months ago. They financed the purchase of their uniforms by holding a series of entertainments. The group is sponsored by St. Anthony's Senior Men's Club.

Sunday Sale Brings First Beer Arrest

HARRISBURG, June 13.—(INS.)—One of the first arrests made under the 1933 Pennsylvania beverage law was on record in Dauphin County today with a charge of selling 3.2 beer without a license lodged against Gordon M. Nickle, store proprietor of nearby Penbrook. It is alleged he sold beer to a state trooper on a Sunday. Nickle was released in bail for an aldermanic hearing.

SQUIRES BEGIN JAIL TERMS

Two former justices of the peace and two former constables today began serving terms of one year each in the county jail.

Sentences were imposed by Judge Samuel H. Gardner upon their pleas of guilty to cheating the county out of about $10,000 through collecting costs on fictitious cases.

Former Justice Walter I. Wickline and Constable Albert O. Stret, of McKees Rocks, and former Justice Fred W. Roll and Constable John M. Fiebig, of Glenfield, are the prisoners. Judge Gardner said that if substantial restitution is made he will consider paroling them after they have served one-third of their sentences.

Former Justice T. H. Steck, of Aleppo Township, similarly charged, has not been apprehended, and Fiebig, who pleaded guilty to conspiring with Steck, as well as with Roll, to collect fictitious costs, was not sentenced on this charge.

YOUNG DRIVERS LEAST SAFE

Drivers from 16 to 20 years of age are involved in more automobile accidents than any of the other classifications in the report of the highway safety committee of the Pittsburgh Motor Club. Drivers 20 to 29 years old are 30 per cent worse than average, while drivers froom 30 to 39 are 3.6 per cent better than average.

Without considering the number of miles driven and conditions of cars and highways women appear to be safer drivers than men. Only one woman in 3,558 becomes involved in a fatal accident, the report shows.

THREE KILLED BY LIGHTNING

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 13. — (AP.) — Uprooted trees washed-out streets and tangled wires remain as evidence of the terrific storm which lashed the Huntington area, killing three men.

Albert Newman and Earl Aikens sought shelter under a tree near Ironton, O., and were killed by lightning that shattered the tree.

Hubbard Roy Dameron, 19, was killed across the river near Grayson, Ky., seeking shelter in a pumping station which was struck by lightning.

PROSECUTION TRAINS GUNS ON CAVANAUGH

POLITICS

Farley's Warning Against G. O. P. Not Idle Talk

—By MARK SHIELDS—

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley, when he told Western Pennsylvania Democrats that the national party no longer would stand for the conniving of the past through which Democrats had acquiesced in the selection of Republican officials, meant exactly what he said.

Mr. Shields

The national chairman was aware at the time not only of the situation in Allegheny County, but had been informed of practices elsewhere in the state, practices which were not to the prestige of Democratic leaders, but very much to their profit.

Every recent appointment of a Democrat in Pennsylvania and every future appointment, has been made, or is being made on the pledge that the recipient will foreswear his former relationship with Republicans and try to become a real Democrat. That applies to Allegheny County Chairman David L. Lawrence, named as collector of internal revenue; to former County Commissioner James Houlahen, an ally of the late Republican County Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong, named collector of the port; to Thomas O'Donnell, son of John O'Donnell, to be named postmaster of Philadelphia.

* * *

Farley Well Informed On Situation Here

It applies to all, and unless they have signed the pledge to be Democrats and not left-handed Republicans, they are out of luck.

Mr. Farley, it develops, had made a study of the Pennsylvania Democracy. It is now known he had been informed of the developments of the last County Commission campaign in Allegheny County, when Mr. Lawrence, Commissioner William D. Mansfield, Senator James J. Coyne and former Mayor Charles H. Kline, all Republicans, were in conference during the campaign, and endeavored to so work things that Lawrence and Mansfield would be elected, defeating the effort of independent Republicans to name Commissioners Charles C. McGovern and C. M. Barr.

Mr. Farley was appraised that a part of that bargain was that Lawrence should vote with Mansfield, rather than with either McGovern or Barr in the organization of the county board, and that Mansfield should become chairman. The fact that the combine failed, and that Barr, McGovern and Mansfield were elected, despite the efforts of the Republican organization on behalf of Lawrence, is beside the point.

The principle remains, and it was that which Farley was hitting in his Pittsburgh speech. It was meant for all of Pennsylvania and Mr. Farley knew when Mr. Houlahan, from his position at the speakers' table, applauded the sentiment, he was doing so wholeheartedly if repentantly—at least for the moment.

* * *

Building a Party, Not a Faction

Farley is trying to build a party, not a faction. He is not concerned about past records if there can be future pledges which will be lived up to—and he is going to keep an eye on the twilight patriots. Farley, it is known, is concerned about the manner in which the Guffey-Lawrence force in Democratic politics in the state is keeping appointments within its immediate circle. He is willing that the Roosevelt originals shall be favored over those who favored Al Smith or some other Democrat as the presidential nominee of 1932. He is not just sure that success lies along the present exclusive lines.

But he is taking a chance, and woe to the gentleman who falls down. There will be a quick answer to this is in the Pittsburgh mayoralty, as Mr. Farley knows.

This situation is not peculiar to Pittsburgh. It applies with even greater force to Philadelphia where John O'Donnell, the city chairman, has been a little playmate of William S. Vare, the Republican boss. It applies to Montgomery County, where there have been suspicions that Charles D. McAvoy, chairman of the Democratic delegation to the last national convention, has not been averse to playing the game with Charles Johnson, the Republican nestor of the same county.

It applies to the hard coal region, where Congressman Paddy Bolan is suspected of having played the Republican game no longer than two years ago.

* * *

Break With Vare, Farley's Demand

A condition of the naming of O'Donnell's son as postmaster of Philadelphia is that the father shall retire as Democratic city chairman, and shall sever his connection with Vare. The senior O'Donnell has agreed, but if in the next election for County Commissioner he plays the Vare game it will be too bad for the younger member of the family.

In the anthracite region, John Malinkowski is to be appointed collector of revenue over High Brady, a Bolan designee. Bolan is outside the breastworks, penalized for alleged Republican sympathies. Apparently he was not able to square himself, as were some others.

And McAvoy is to become United States attorney for the eastern district, having given pledges that he will engage in no more flirtation with the Republican Mr. Johnson.

Meanwhile, Mr. Farley will watch events. His speech in Pittsburgh was no blunder. It was no praise—without inside information—of Democratic leaders who had been guilty of just what Mr. Farley decried. It was a serving of notice and a warning of probation.

Wins Son in Court

A father and his motherless son as they left Judge Reid's court to make their home together in Whitaker after the court had refused a writ of habeas corpus asked by the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Barbara Pennkova, who testified that the dying mother had asked her to rear the baby. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

SHRUB DEALERS MUST MOVE

Mt. Lebanon's police chief, William J. Kane, has been ordered by Township Commissioners to see that two tree nurseries—one in Cochran road and the other in Washington road—discontinue business.

The commissioners contended the two concerns were selling shrubs in areas with residential zonings.

Protests also were heard from residents of Mt. Lebanon and Dormont over the proposed change of zoning classifications of the McFarland road-Memorial drive intersection, changing the region from residential to commercial, at the request of Fred K. Becker.

MARKET PLANS 3 TUNNELS

An ordinance granting the right to build tunnels under Diamond street, Cherry and Lemon ways to connect with the new Smithfield Markets, Inc., proposed by Edgar J. Kaufmann, has been introduced in City Council.

The tunnels would be used for foot traffic and for the transportation of merchandise. One would connect the Kaufmann Department Store, another the Pittsburgher Hotel and a third with property of the Investment Land Company, extending to Fourth avenue.

Foster Mother Freed On Bail

Mrs. Mary McCarthy, of Highland avenue, West View, held for court in connection with the alleged chaining of a 2-year-old Juvenile Court ward, was free today in $1,000 bond.

The child was punished because she couldn't pronounce the word "Father" in saying a prayer at the table, according to testimony of two sisters, also wards in the McCarthy home, at the hearing before Alderman T. A. Flanigan.

16th Ward Schools Holding Outing

Citizens of the Sixteenth Ward are sponsoring an outing for school children today at Kennywood Park. Schools picnicking are Bane, Brashear, Wickersham, Morse, Spring Lane and Becks Run.

On the committee are Henry Dittmer, R. B. Wood, James Haney, Bernard J. McGuire, J. R. Miller, George D. Thomas, N. T. McCoy, Louis W. Leibert and John J. Faust. The Forbes School also is picnicking today. Principal Joseph McDermott is in charge.

CIVIL WAR VETS HOLD STATE REUNION

Fading G. A. R. Ranks Enlist Over 100 For Meet Here

More than 100 members of the fast fading ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic had convened in Pittsburgh today for the sixty-seventh annual state encampment in the William Penn Hotel.

Five affiliated groups, four of them women's auxiliaries, also were meeting in convention. These included the Woman's Relief Corps, Ladies of the G. A. R., Auxiliary to Sons of Union Veterans, Daughters of Union Veterans and Sons of Union Veterans.

Today's general program included opening of all sessions of allied organizations. The sons of Union Veterans and its auxiliary held their meetings in the Fort Pitt Hotel. The other organizations met in the William Penn.

A luncheon to the Civil War veterans was being held under the joint auspices of the City Post, American Legion, and Bayard Atwood Post, V. F. W., at the Chamber of Commerce. The Sons of Union Veterans and its auxiliary were to hold their annual banquet tonight at the Fort Pitt Hotel.

The reception to the state department G. A. R. commander and staff also will be held this evening. Commander Jacob Farrow, of Philadelphia, was unable to be present because of illness. Senior Vice Commander Jacob Urich, of Harrisburg; Junior Vice Commander John W. Williams, of Etna, and assistant to the adjutant, Samuel P. Town, of Philadelphia, however, were on hand.

Comrade E. E. Rozell, 88, who is ready with a poem for every occasion, has written a bit of verse for the present encampment.

First Forest Squad Arrives Here Friday

The first contingent of the Civilian Conservation Corps assigned to Allegheny County for reforestation work in the county parks will leave Fort Meade, Maryland, Thursday night, arriving here Friday morning, according to word today from Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone.

One company of five assigned to Pennsylvania will start work in North Park. All of the companies are composed of Pennsylvania recruits.

DELIVERY TRUCK FLATTENED IN A COLLISION WITH A PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD TRAIN

HURT IN FALL FROM TRUCK

Harold Burgess, 44, of 638 Suisman street, suffered cuts on the head when he fell from the rear of a truck at River avenue and Federal street last night, police said. He was taken to Allegheny General Hospital.

John Benson, 62, of 137 Park way, Homestead, suffered bruises when he was struck by an automobile in Eighth avenue, near West street, Homestead, last night. He was taken to Homestead Hospital.

Victim of a woman hit-and-run driver, Richard Ferguson, 8, of Vandergrift, was in West Penn Hospital today with a fractured skull, hospital authorities reported. The woman was being sought by police.

Two Airmen Killed In War Maneuvers

BOISE, Idaho, June 13.—(AP.)—Flight Lieuts. George B. Hallett and Whitney Close of the 116th Observation Squadron from Felts Field, Spokane, Wash., were killed when their planes crashed today during maneuvers with the Idaho National Guard.

Observers said the two planes were making an attack dive on a group of national guardsmen in simulation of war-time conditions when the craft locked wings. Both nosed down and struck the ground about 200 yards apart. Neither plane burned.

Hope Parley Fixes Prices, Then Pays 'Em

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Prime Minister MacDonald started the London conference by ringing a gong.

Mac pressed a button that gonged the bell. That was the signal for the delegates to choose their partners.

It's a monetary and economic parley. They want to discover who pays who and now to postpone it.

The gong gives the delegates the choice of talking or shadow boxing.

This thing will be all right if they don't come to any more of these gentlemen's agreements.

One of those things would start trouble anywhere.

The only person who gets any profit out of a gentleman's agreement is the last guy they saw with the gold fountain pen.

Here's hoping they get somewhere, fix prices and pay them. In the meantime, the world will keep busy on the slump to end slumps.

HELPS MOTHER IN DIVORCE

Her husband had a habit of borrowing money from her parents and not paying it back, Estelle W. Holton, Melwood street, testified before Judge Ambrose B. Reid in asking a divorce from William S. Holton.

The libellant also complained that her parents had to buy her clothes. A daughter of the estranged couple told the court she saw her father strike her mother twice, one time in the chest. Mrs. Holton also claimed that Holton used abusive language to her.

The Holtons were married August 8, 1913. Mrs. Holton charged her husband with indignities.

Lutheran Reunion 'Specials' Arranged

Special trains will carry members of the Lutheran churches and Sunday schools of Western Pennsylvania to their annual outing and reunion at Idlewild Park, Ligonier, July 20. A baseball game between clergymen and laymen will be a feature. W. K. Hodgkinson is president of the association in charge.

Duquesne Woman Found Dead in Cellar

Mrs. Elizabeth Moffatt, 66, of 617 Richford street, Duquesne, was found hanged by a bathing suit in the basement of her home this morning, police reported.

A son, Raymond Moffatt, told police Mrs. Moffatt had been grieving over the death of her husband recently.

TAX 'JUGGLING' ORDERED, SAYS WITNESS

Sub-Assessor Tells Of Threat to Keep Mum

The alleged plot to "fix" the jury trying a group of Homestead politicians was neatly disposed of today and the trial finally got under way with the prosecution guns aimed at Burgess John Cavanaugh, Homestead political boss.

Cavanaugh not only directed the tax-assessment juggling of which he and five others are accused, but, according to the first witness, he warned:

"We don't want anyone to know about this. If it is told, you will be fired without notice."

The witness was Fred A. Wolf, a sub-assessor, of Homestead.

LIST ORDERED

Wolf testified that another defendant, C. J. McBride, former secretary of the Board of Tax Revision, had ordered him to bring the assessment list for Homestead's Fourth and Fifth wards to the Borough Building.

Present were five of the defendants, Cavanaugh, McBride, Councilman Jesse Honse and Martin Delaney and Port Eckles, superintendent of Homestead schools, Wolf said. The sixth defendant is William Dee, a sub assessor.

Wolf testified that Eighth avenue assessments were raised from Hays to McClure streets, but that McBride had left, asserting he would have nothing to do with the procedure.

Later, at the Courthouse downtown, Cavanaugh raised the assessments for the Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh Wards, Wolf charged.

CHANGES CHARGED

Some measurements were changed so that the boosts would be blamed on the assessors, Wolf said, and he showed the jury changes made in the county records in which his own figures had been altered.

The jury was shown also a photograph of a stable at 341 East Seventh avenue, Homestead, which on the assessment lists had been erroneously recorded as destroyed.

The alleged jury-fixing plot blew up when Juror Arthur R. Sundberg denied before Judge W. Heber Dithrich and District Attorney Andrew T. Park that he had been "fixed" by Melvin Mervis, a neighbor of McBride's.

Mervis, too, denied, as charged by a county investigator, that he had boasted yesterday in the Courthouse of "fixing" the juror.

Nevertheless, Sundberg was dropped as a juror for Mrs. Catherine Kieser, of 231 Amabelle street, Nineteenth Ward.

Conservator Asked For Michigan Bank

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., June 13.—(AP.)—Pending reorganization by the comptroller of the currency, the Old-Merchants National Bank did not open for business today. The board of directors has asked that the comptroller of the currency appoint a conservator to take charge while reorganization is under way.

The last statement of the bank showed capital stock, surplus and undivided profit of $2,797,804. Total deposits are listed at $11,332,844.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 13.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

King George spoke over the radio yesterday morning. It was 5 o'clock out here (I was just going to work). Why don't this world's conference fix it so that whenever anybody does anything, it will be the same hour all over. You will say, "Silly, they can't do that." They can just as easy as they can agree on anything else. Different nations have different problems, just Will Rogers like different nations have the sunshine on 'em at different times. So when they fix how many guns each one is to have, how much foreign goods each one shall consume, and how much each one's money is worth, why at that same time fix so it's 5 o'clock in the morning everywhere at once.

Yours, WILL

COSTS OF FOOD SCANNED BY HOUSEWIVES

"Why not? Who says it can't be done? Don't expect too much to eat! Plenty to serve and lots left over for supper!

These are some of the comments made by housewives after studying the question: "Can four persons be served a well-balanced appetizing dinner menu at a cost not to exceed $1.50?"

This problem has been made the basis of a contest in which the Sun-Telegraph will pay $100 weekly in cash prizes for the best menus submitted. The first prize in the list is $25 in cash. Every housewife in the reading area of the Sun-Telegraph is invited to participate in this contest.

From reports received by the Prudence Penny Prize Dinner Menu Contest Editor, the retail markets and groceries were deluged with shoppers yesterday—the majority of them making a survey of prices on meats, vegetables and other essentials for a well-balanced dinner, and nearly all with the idea of submitting prize menus in the Sun-Telegraph contest.

All of the prize menus will be printed in the Sun-Telegraph with many others submitted in the contest. These will be well worth clipping and saving. The entries for the first week's contest must be submitted before next Tuesday night at midnight. In another part of today's Sun-Telegraph there is a display announcement giving additional information and complete rules and prize list.

The judges are Mrs. Oliver J. Haller, president of the Congress of Women's Clubs of Western Pennsylvania; Mrs. Mary T. Horan, president of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women, and Mrs. Cyrus Trompetter, chairman of the home economics committee of the Pittsburgh section, Council of Jewish Women.

HAMMOND BUYS TWO PAPERS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 13.—(INS.)—Control of the Memphis Commercial-Appeal and the Evening Appeal today was taken over by James Hammond, Detroit newspaper publisher, as president of the Tennessee Company.

Sale of the paper to the Tennessee Company was ordered by Federal Judge Joseph W. Molyneaux, of Minneapolis, on petition of receivers of the Minnesota and Ontario Paper Company.

Common stock of the Memphis Commercial Appeal Publishing Company, Inc., was sold for $300,000 to the Tennessee Company, which will assume the corporation's $625,874 indebtedness to the paper company.

Hammond, a native of Tolu, Ky., entered the newspaper field in 1932 as publisher of the Detroit Times after a career as banker and as a department store executive in New York and Pittsburgh.

5 Youths Arrested In Blanket Theft

Five Negro youths were arrested by North Side police early today after residents of the West Park district, near Monterey street, complained that blankets and pillows being used for outdoor sleeping had been stolen.

The youths had several blankets and pillows when arrested, which two of the residents identified as their property, according to police.

Sewickley Bank Gets U. S. Charter

A charter has been issued to the First National Bank in Sewickley by the Comptroller of Currency, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington. The new bank is successor to the First National Bank of Sewickley and has a capital of $100,000.

Musmanno to Speak In 7th Ward Friday

County Judge M. A. Musmanno will address the Seventh Ward Community Club on the work of the Legislature Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock in the Shakespeare School, Shady avenue and Aurelia street.

LARGE ESTATE GOES TO KIN

Edith G. Raymond, of Sewickley, who died June 8, by her will probated yesterday, left an estate valued at $265,000, principally to her children.

She bequeathed in trust to her son, Albert Greenleaf Raymond, $30,000 for life, to be disposed of by him by will, and the residue in trust to her daughter, Jessica Raymond Darlington, who also is given the right to dispose of it by will.

The will stipulated that before these bequests are carried out two sisters of the deceased, Kate Greenleaf and Bertha Greenleaf, are each to receive $5,000 and two other sisters, Mrs. Anna G. Baldwin and Margaret G. Hale, $1,000 each. Mrs. Raymond also leaves $5,000 to her husband's sister, Mrs. Alice M. Raymond, and $1,000 to her son-in-law, Frank Darlington, of Shields. The Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company is executor and trustee.

2 Picnickers Killed, 17 Hurt in Crash

MOBILE, Ala., June 13.—(AP.)—Two persons were killed and 17 were injured near here today in a collision of an automobile and a truck loaded with young folk on an outing.

Miss Dorothy Isham, 16, of Grand Bay, in whose honor the picnic was given, and Elmer Shirley, of Bayou La Batre, were badly crushed and died a few minutes after the crash.

SHE ATE ALL-BRAN TWELVE YEARS WITH FINE RESULTS

Delicious Cereal Relieves Constipation

Read this very enthusiastic letter:

"Something like eleven or twelve years ago, I began eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. When I started, it was called simply Kellogg's Bran, and I believe it was one of the first products of the kind on the market.

"My friends often laugh at my fondness for ALL-BRAN. It gives such a clean taste in the mouth, and I do not feel satisfied until I have had my ALL-BRAN.

"If the Kellogg Company should ever stop manufacturing ALL-BRAN, here is one who would be greatly disappointed."—Miss Amy Person, University Park, Iowa.

Science says that ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regularity. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. How much safer than taking patent medicines—often harmful. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily for most types of constipation. For serious cases, try it three times daily. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Sold in the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

$350,000 FEE SUIT ENTERS FOURTH DAY

As the hearing of a $350,000 counsel fee claim, brought by Attourney John M. Freeman, of the law firm of Watson & Freeman, in connection with the settlement involving 21,000 shares of Diamond Alkali Company stock, moved into its fourth day today, Judge James R. Macfarlane had before him these two assertions:

1—Attorney Albert C. Hirsch, member of the firm of Watson & Freeman, testified he discovered the directors of the company made a gift of $50,000 to Mrs. Ida Flaccus Evans, widow of Thomas R. Evans, shortly after his death in 1931.

2—Howard Evans, plaintiff in the original suit in equity against the company, was informed a month after the death of his brother, T. R. Evans, that the latter had defrauded him in a stock transaction.

In the original bill of complaint, for which was substituted a stipulation, according to Hirsch, it was claimed that the making of the $50,000 gift to Mrs. Evans was "illegal and an improper abstraction of the funds" of the company.

Howard Evans, Freeman testified, learned from W. M. Robinson, a director of the Diamond Alkali Company, that his brother had received 7,000 shares of Diamond Investment Company stock. At the time he received the stock, Freeman declared, he had said he had "to take care of his brother, Howard."

An inventory of the estate of T. R. Evans, according to Hirsch, showed that common stock in the Diamond Alkali Company was assessed at more than $68 a share in 1931, whereas it was declared worthless in a reorganization plan of the concern given out two years previous.

BUILDING MEN HEAR KINTNER

Dr. S. M. Kintner, vice president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, will deliver the keynote address at the opening session of the twenty-sixth annual convention of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers in the William Penn Hotel next week.

H. B. Kirkpatrick, general chairman, will preside at the first gathering and the Rev. Dr. C. E. Macartney, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will deliver the invocation.

Many reservations for booth space at the annual exhibition of building materials and equipment have been received, according to word from E. W. Rinder, of Chicago, who will be in charge of the operating devices exhibit.

Miners, Operators Agree on Wages

ATHENS, O., June 13.—(AP.)—Without waiting for action by an arbitration board, miners and operators of the Hocking Valley bituminous coal fields agreed upon a wage scale last night at a joint meeting at Nelsonville.

The scale, virtually the same as has been in effect for the last year, will pay 33 cents a ton for loaders and $3.28 for laborers.

AIMEE'S DAVID DENIES MOVIE

LOS ANGELES, June 13.—(Universal.)—"I have written no scenario, I haven't tried to sell any scenario and I haven't been in Hollywood—I've been at Elsinore!"

Thus quote David Hutton last night from the parsonage at Angelus Temple, denying recent rumors concerning his activities during the past week.

Apropos of the recent turmoil at the temple, his only statement was:

"Rheba Crawford, Miss Jordan and I are going to work together for the advance of the temple work until Sister Aimee returns home."

Miss Harriet Jordan, manager of the temple in Aimee's absence, said today that Mrs. Rheba Crawford Splivalo, state welfare director who has been preaching occasionally at the institution, would "probably continue in her present capacity until sister's return next fall."

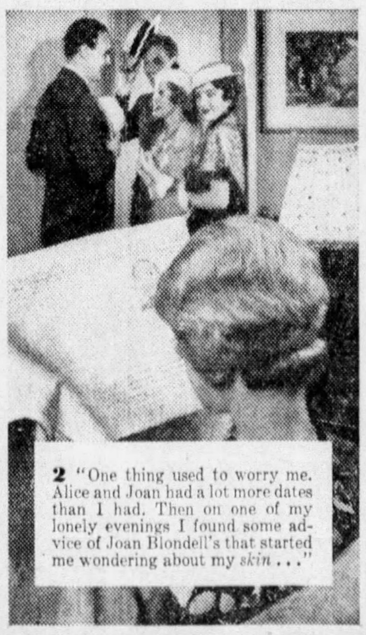
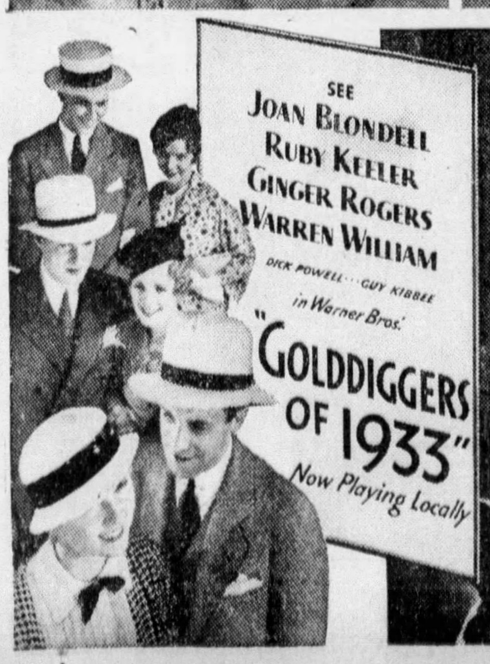
"A Screen Star's Secret helped me so—"

1 "We three girls have always been the best of friends, though we do argue about the movies. My favorite is Joan Blondell, while Alice just adores Ruby Keeler, and Joan likes Ginger Rogers best. You couldn't change our opinions for the world!"

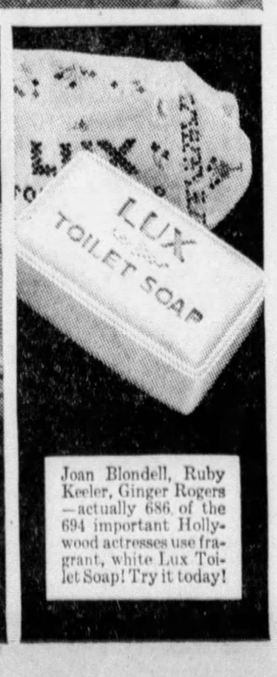


2 "One thing used to worry me. Alice and Joan had a lot more dates than I had. Then on one of my lonely evenings I found some advice of Joan Blondell's that started me wondering about my skin . . ."

3 "After two months of using Lux Toilet Soap regularly, as Joan Blondell advised, my skin looked so much smoother and softer! Other people began to notice it, too . . ."



4 "The other night we went to a movie (we go in sizes now!) and saw our three favorites all in the same picture! All through the show I was thinking how much I owe Joan Blondell. You can bet I'm glad I followed her advice!"



Joan Blondell, Ruby Keeler, Ginger Rogers—actually 686 of the 694 important Hollywood actresses use fragrant, white Lux Toilet Soap! Try it today!

FANS THRILL AT COMEBACK EFFORT OF CORSAIRS

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Panthers' Athletics Boom. Boyle Carey's Own Pick.
Phils Baffle Schumacher. High Rank for Equipoise.
Cronin's Hitting Unhurt. Petrolle Blames Weight.

GREAT GAINS BY PITT IN NINE YEARS

FAR FROM HAVING shown any falling-off in recent years, student interest in collegiate athletics has been steadily and rapidly on the increase. At least, that is notably true of the University of Pittsburgh. Comparative figures covering student activities at the Oakland institution in competitive sports with other colleges from 1924 to 1933 show a tremendous growth, and demonstrate most convincingly that Panther athletes now are in a healthier state and flourishing on a broader scale than ever before in the history of the school.

W. Don Harrison

In nine years, the total number of Pitt students participating in competitive intercollegiate athletics has increased from 249 to 635. That's a jump of 155 per cent. And whereas in 1924 the total number of intercollegiate contests in which Pitt took part was only 46, during the last year it was 121. That's an increase of about 165 per cent. And aside from the 121 occasions of intercollegiate competition, and the 635 student athletes who took part, there is to be considered the participation of many others in intramural sports, and in addition 4,000 high school students, with their coaches, attended the Panther clinics and tournaments.

The remarkable progress and expansion of athletics at Pitt is a tribute to the leadership of W. Don Harrison, athletic director at the university, under whose regime the great advance has been made. The steady growth in all branches of college sports, and the general healthy condition, reflect great credit on Director Harrison and his organization. It is doubtful if any college in the country has taken greater strides forward during the last nine years.

MUCH HAS BEEN said and written about the great increase in baseball attendance during the years preceding the depression, but as a matter of fact the records show that practically as many people attended the major league games of 25 years ago as pass through the turnstiles now for a season.

Prices were considerably lower then, of course, and not so much money came in at the box office. But in 1908, the National League games attracted 3,634,764 people, and 3,600,960 paid to see the contests in the American. Those figures are not far from the best attendance marks for recent years.

IN SPITE OF the great record he is placing to his credit in other directions, there is one job that has proved too much for Hal Schumacher, just as it has troubled other fine pitchers. That is, beating the Phillies in their own bandbox park.

Schumacher tried on two occasions, once in 1931 and once last year, and he has yet to succeed in lasting two innings. On the other hand, a slabmate, Fred Fitzsimmons, finds the Phils rather soft. Already this season he has beaten them three times. Even on his own grounds in New York, Schumacher can't cope with the Quakers. He faced them there Sunday and was knocked out in the fourth inning.

THE EXPERTS WHO said that the burden of managing the Washington club was beginning to ruin Joe Cronin as a hitter evidently did not know the stout heart that beats behind Joe's blouse. It is true that Cronin was in a rut for a time, like many other good batsmen in the majors this year, but his answer to those who figured that he had lost his punch under the managerial strain was to come back with a big drive during his club's home stay. He pounded all kinds of pitching to make 33 hits in 74 times at bat for the husky average of .446, pulling his season's mark well above .300 again and demonstrating that he still is one of the most dangerous swatters in the big loops. In 41 of his 77 trips to the plate he found runners on the bases, and 27 times he drove them in. And he's keeping it up on the road. Cronin's fielding, too, is picking up. Something of a showing, all around, for a man who has the burden of managing a team, batting in the clean-up notch and playing the hardest position on the field.

Ralph Boyle

WHILE RALPH BOYLE failed to stay up in two previous major league chances with the Braves and the Senators, Max Carey believes he is ripe to succeed this time in the Brooklyn outfield. Carey personally watched the work of both Boyle and Julius Solters, Pittsburgher in the Baltimore gardens before selecting the former.

Last season, Boyle hit .314 in 153 games for the Orioles, and this year he had a batting mark of .370 at the time of his purchase. He is 23, and throws and bats left-handed. Carey was unwilling to part with Del Bissonette, and wanted to use another player in the deal, but Baltimore insisted on Bissonette in addition to cash, and the hard-luck first baseman had to be sacrificed.

THE PURCHASE OF Boyle does not mean that Carey no longer is interested in replacements. Even if the former Oriole makes good, the Brooklyn manager will endeavor to get further new hitting strength to bolster what has been one of the most disappointing clubs in the majors.

Max still is hopeful of being able to swing a trade with a National League outfit before the deadline is reached Thursday night. Besides, he has scouts inspecting outfield and first-base material in the Pacific Coast League and the Southern Association.

SINCE HIS EASY victory in the Suburban Handicap, when he carried 132 pounds and ran away from his opponents, turf experts are more strongly than ever of the opinion that C. V. Whitney's Equipoise is not only the greatest racehorse of the present day, but one of the best of all time. That makes three consecutive wins for Equipoise this year, as he had previously captured the Chesapeake and the Metropolitan. His latest pick-up of $7,250 brings the total earnings of his career to $285,550. No race that the Whitney champion ever ran in any year was more impressive than his performance in the Suburban, when he did the mile and a quarter in 2:02 under his heavy impost on a track that was not at its best. He will make his next start in the Brooklyn Handicap and then go to Chicago to challenge the West.

UNDER THE HEADING of unusual gifts to sports celebrities, it might be mentioned that the Cork Athletic Club, of San Francisco, has presented to Slip Madigan, football coach at St. Mary's, a chip of the Blarney Stone in recognition of his talents as an orator.

Madigan had just given one of his famous talks to the club. Slip, who played guard under Knute Rockne at Notre Dame in his days as an active gridder and who has since become one of the country's outstanding coaches, has a reputation as a speaker that rivals his renown in football.

NO NATION IS prouder of its achievements in sports or more careful to see that its prizes won in athletic competition with representatives of other parts of the world do not go astray than Great Britain.

Jack Hurley

The latest evidence of British pride and caution in that direction is contained in the assignment of 22 Scotland Yard detectives to guard an exhibition of international sports trophies. The collection is valued at $2,000,000. And an American meany rises to ask if it includes a vertical heavyweight fighter.

IN EXPLAINING HIS change of views about Billy Petrolle's future, his decision to encourage Billy in a return to the ring in quest of the welterweight title after once urging him to retire, Manager Jack Hurley says Petrolle convinced him that his defeats at the hands of Tony Canzoneri and Barney Ross had been due only to the weakening effects of making weight. "Making 135 pounds for Canzoneri almost ruined Billy," says Hurley. "He would have licked the lightweight champion at catchweights, but after peeling off those last few pounds he didn't have anything left. While the limit for the Ross bout was three pounds higher, Petrolle had to strain himself to make even 138, and he was not at his best, by any means. But in the welterweight class it will be different. The limit of 147 pounds is only catchweights for Billy and I think that under those new conditions he will prove that he is far from being done."

BUCS RESUME SERIES WITH ST. LOUIS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The feeling among many Pirate followers today was somewhat to this effect: If the Buccas cop one of the two remaining games in St. Louis this afternoon and tomorrow they will have grabbed three out of four in a series which may prove to be of special importance in another great pennant race.

In any event, George Gibson's club has shown a fighting spirit becoming to any outfit having pennant ambitions.

Paens of praise over Sunday's accomplishment of the Oaklanders still were being sung on Pittsburgh's streets and highways today. The Pirates have been standouts in a many a thrilling feat since the bell rang in Cincinnati two months ago, but the winning of the first game of Sunday's doubleheader with the Redbirds sounded a new high note of enthusiasm among the district's baseball lovers, and the fact that the Buccos were able to follow through with a second victory on top of their 10-run drive gave spice to the whole afternoon.

FANS PRAISE BUCS

Go where you will about town and you will hear this exclamation:

"Wasn't that a great thing those Pirates did in the ninth inning of the first game Sunday!"

It was a great thing in many respects. Consider, if you will, the hardship of the 600-mile ride to St. Louis on a sweltering night. A Pullman car on a hot night is just about the height of discomfort, yet the Buccos, after they had fought it out in an oppressive game with the Reds at Forbes Field, had to stay in the hot sleepers for something like 14 hours. Then they rushed out to the ball orchard and staged their masterpiece. The next fellow who questions the courage of our boys after such a showing should be given a big Bronx cheer.

Hundreds of fans are interested in the Sunday ejection of Capt. Pie Traynor, who was chased by Umpire Quigley early in the second scrap. It develops that the ridiculous rule concerning the throwing of a glove was invoked to eject the field leader of the Bucs. On many occasions an angry player will resort to profane language and will not be ordered from the field—but let an athlete of clean speech make a move which displays a natural escape for his feelings and he is banished. Perhaps the rule-makers wish an aggressive and hustling player to bow to or otherwise congratulate an official when he thinks he has "booted" one.

THIRD CLASH TODAY

ST. LOUIS, June 13.—George Gibson and his Pirates were eager to continue their drive on the Cardinals as they prepared for the third battle of the series this afternoon. Steve Swetonic, who blanked the Reds last Friday at Forbes Field, was Gibby's mound selection for the third game. Manager Street may call upon Tex Carleton to face the Pittsburghers.

The Buccos surely dealt the Cards a heavy blow in the dual bill of Sunday. The members of the local club are still stunned over the 10-run festival staged by the visitors in the ninth inning of the first game. The Buccos, on the other hand, are loaded with pepper. They will leave St. Louis tomorrow for Chicago, where they will take on the Cubs twice before returning home.

BUCS WIN EXHIBITION

The Pirates journeyed to Springfield, Ill., yesterday for an exhibition tussle with Springfield and won, 6 to 3. The Pirates put on a four-run attack in the eighth inning that put the ball game on ice.

Manager George Gibson used four pitchers and 20 players in all, including Hon[illegible] Wagner, who answered the pleas of the fans by playing first base in the ninth inning. The score of Buccos collected an even dozen hits, while

Rometo May Coach W. & J. Freshmen

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 13.—Al Rometo, sturdy little football halfback and wrestling captain who graduated from W. & J. this month, may return to his alma mater next fall as freshman football coach.

School authorities are informally considering offering a fellowship to Rometo, which would enable him to return to school to study for his masters degree in education in exchange for his services as football tutor of freshmen.

W. & J. today announced the granting of additional sports letters as follows:

Track — McCarrell, Cobern, Leppert and Manager Christine; tennis—J. Thomson, Hess and Manager Frank Spriggs.

Hal Schumacher Gets Degree at St. Lawrence

CANTON, N. Y., June 13.—(AP.)—It was "Hal Schumacher Day" in this village when the former St. Lawrence University mound star, now a pitcher for the New York Giants received his bachelor of science degree and then pitched the first two innings of an exhibition game between the Giants and the Larries while 8,000 fans looked on.

Little Jockey James, Dead at 20, Hit High and Low Within Year

By BILL CORUM
International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 13.—There is nothing stranger in this life than the death that puts a period to it. We are thinking of little Gene James, who drowned in Lake Michigan Sunday.

He was only 20, but I'm afraid his future was behind him. Last year he won the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness on Bradley's Burgoo King, making in one week in commissions and bets close to $20,000. Then he grew first careless and indifferent about his riding and finally too lazy. I have no way of knowing for sure, but I imagine most of the $20,000 was gone when they lifted his body out of the lake.

ALWAYS WITH CROWD

On the day of the American Derby, a week ago last Saturday, he was in the press box with Leonard Sacks and after the race we sat together and discussed the rides the various jockeys had put up. Before the race was over, in fact, he was complaining that Jockey Humphreys was making too much early use of Head Play.

Then that night he was at Sam Cole's place on North Michigan and the following day he was on the train with us, coming here for the Baer-Schmeling fight.

JOCKEY EUGENE JAMES

It was while we sat there reviewing the fight with Jack Dempsey Hype Igoe and the rest of the gang that he told how he had run his last $4 up to $84 in the last two races at Belmont the previous day.

ENDS UP IN LAKE

He was well pleased with himself over that and about as happy and carefree a kid as one would wish to see. If anybody had tried to tell him, or any of the rest of us, that 48 hours later almost to the hour they would be dragging his body out of Lake Michigan, 700 miles away, he would have been laughed out of the room.

Yet it happened. Another reminder that the most uncertain thing in life is life itself. Poor little kid. In four years he came from a corner newsstand in Louisville into the big money, and in one more year after that his number was up and his race was run. He rode fast, but not far.

MAX TO MARRY FILM BEAUTY

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP.)—Blushing furiously, Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion, who was knocked out by Max Baer last Thursday night, announced he was sailing for Germany tomorrow night to marry Annie Ondra, blonde film star of his homeland.

For two years he has been denying vigirously that Miss Ondra was his fiancee. Yesterday, to the very men to whom his denials had been most vigorous, the quiet young German warrior was forced not only to confess, but to tell in details of the courtship.

Max Machon, his trainer, made his predicament worse by insisting that the fighter, who lives an ideal outdoor life both here and abroad, fell in love with Miss Ondra just seeing her in motion pictures in Germany. They will be married some time in July.

HALDY CHOSEN UNION COACH

By JULIUS LEVIN

Ben Haldy, a graduate of Westminster College, has been chosen to succeed W. H. (Foxy) Miller as football and baseball coach at Turtle Creek Union High School, it was learned today.

Ben Haldy

Miller resigned as athletic director after serving 12 years because of a big reduction in salary. The Turtle Creek - Wilmerding School Board at its meeting on Friday appointed Haldy to fill the vacancy.

Haldy, who starred at fullback at Turtle Creek Union in 1925 and 1926, will assume his duties on August 15, it was announced by Principal W. W. Lantz.

The Turtle Creen Union High basketball squad will be under the direction of Prof. Paul Shultz, teacher of physics and science at the school. Shultz was coach of the crack Wilmerding Y. M. C. A. basketball team last winter.

Haldy, following his graduation from Turtle Creek Union, entered Bucknell University. He played two years there and then transferred to Westminster College, where he starred in football.

Last year Haldy was coach at East Brady High School. He lives in Chalfont Borough, just outside of East Pittsburgh.

Two star scholastic pitchers, Spence Woodill, of Westinghouse, and George Fowle, of South Hills, were to hook up today in the first game of the playoff series for the City League baseball crown. The game was being played on the Westinghouse Field.

The second game of the series will be played Friday at Olympia Park, home diamond of the Tunnelites.

Brookline will meet the winner of the East End-Central district for the city grade school championship next week. Brookline entered the final round yesterday by defeating Conroy, 11 to 4. The game was played on the Langley High School Field.

Lemington advanced to the final round in the Central-East End district by defeating Fort Pitt, 9-8. Forbes will meet Lemington for the district title.

CY LETZELTER GRADUATES

Cyril J. (Cy) Letzelter, of Martins Ferry, O., former Carnegie Tech football star, is being graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point today with high honors, standing twentieth in a class of 350.

Letzelter played for Tech in 1926, '27 and '28. He was the president of his graduating class here in 1929 and then entered West Point.

In two games against Notre Dame, while playing for the Tartans, Letzelter scored a total of 19 points. He scored a touchdown and kicked a try-for-point against the Irish in 1926 and in 1928 scored two touchdowns.

WRESTLING RESULTS

At St. Paul—Jim Londos, 200, threw Ray Richards, 200, 29 minutes.

At New York—Jim Browning, 220, defeated Joe Savoldi, 202, decision, 1:28.5.

At Camden—Ernie Dusek, 201, defeated Dick Daviscourt, 200, two falls to one.

CUBS FIND REDS REAL JINX IN FLAG RACE

Believe It Or Not — By Ripley

(Reg. by U. S. Patent Office)

(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE HOMELESS FLEET—Since the Treaty of Trianon deprived her of Fiume, her only seaport, Hungary has been a country without a harbor of her own. Yet there is a fleet of Hungarian freight ships roaming the Seven Seas, and, while they pursue their peaceful calling, flying the Hungarian tricolor, there is no harbor in the world which they may call their own. One of the ships of the "homeless fleet" dropped anchor at an American port recently. Here, as everywhere, the sight of an unfamiliar flag induced sympathetic press comment on the modern knights-errant of the sea. MUSICAL ECHOES—In striking a note, vibration will call forth a string of complementary or harmonic notes, which blend into a single sound. The complementary sounds determine the timbre and quality of the principal or fundamental note. The higher the fundamental, the less numerous will be the hypertones. And, conversely, the graver the fundamental, the more numerous the complementary. In the case of C, the number of harmonic sounds will be 15.

RHINELANDERS BEAT BRUINS SEVEN TIMES

Associated Press.

The Indian sign the Cincinnati Reds hold on the champion Chicago Cubs is one of baseball's minor mysteries, but, whatever the reasons, the Reds are taking full advantage of it to remain within striking distance of a first-division berth in the National League.

The Cubs can hold their own, at least, with any other outfit in the loop, but they roll over and play dead just about every time the Reds take the field against them. The two clubs have played nine games so far this season, and Cincinnati, picked as sure cellar finisher, has won seven of them.

These victories have kept the Reds in a threatening position, so that today, with an even break in 52 games, they are in fifth place.

It was the same old story yesterday as Cincinnati rallied for four runs in the seventh and upset Charley Grimm's club 6-5. Chicago seemed to have the game clinched with a 5-2 lead at the end of six innings, but in the seventh, two passes, singles by Chick Hafey and Joe Morrissey and Boots Grantham's base-clearing triple drove Pat Malone to the showers and gave the Reds the verdict.

Meanwhile another National League mystery, the collapse of the Brooklyn Dodgers, went unexplained as Max Carey's men dropped a 7-4 decision to the Phillies and fell into seventh place.

All other National League clubs were idle while the only American League struggle of the day saw the Chicago White Sox drop a 3-1 decision to the St. Louis Browns and fall into fourth place, a few percentage points behind the Philadelphia Athletics.

CAREY TO QUIT AT GARDEN, REPORT

NEW YORK, June 13.—(INS.)—William F. Carey today refused to deny or affirm reports that he had tendered his resignation as president and general manager of Madison Square Garden effective after June 29, the date of the Carnera-Sharkey heavyweight championship fight.

Carey, however, flatly denied the rumor that he will go to California to take an executive post in the film industry. He said:

"That report started when I was seen in public and at luncheons with friends of mine who are movie executives, but at no time during my visit to California did I carry on any business dealings with these executives regarding a position for myself."

John Kilpatrick, once a famous football player at Yale and more recently Carey's assistant at the Garden, was named as Carey's successor in the report current earlier today.

Edgewood Golfer Scores First Ace

A. R. Young, of the Edgewood Country Club, became a full fledged member of the Hole-In-One Club yesterday when he sank his tee shot on the 174-yard No. 5 hole.

In the pro-amateur event at Greensburg yesterday, Ted Luther, pro at Valley Heights, and J. C. Jamison, Greensburg amateur, led the field with a 65. J. M. Jamison and Paul (Toots) Erath, Edgewood pro, finished second with 67.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Say, that annual game in Washington where the Republican and Democratic Congressmen play each other is the darnedest thing you ever saw. First, the Republicans won't start the game till they've got a quorum of 16 pitchers. Then the Democrats try to make the umpire change his decision by showing him Article XI in Cushing's Manual of Parliamentary Procedure.

Next the Republicans object to the Democrats' batting order and demand a roll call. Then the Democrats hold a conference to see if Roosevelt will let 'em pass a heavy G. O. P. slugger without a veto. The Republicans then claim a Texas leaguer is unconstitutional and it's referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Then Speaker Rainey brings word from the White House that the President wants this game adjourned after the sixth inning. Finally the score is audited at 116 to 89, with four Congressmen paired. And then the score is thrown out by unanimous objection. And those are the same guys that run this nation.

COCHRANS FACE BIG TEST IN THOMAS NINE

A brace of games in the City League holds the interest of the sandlotters this evening. At Dean Field the J. L. Thomas nine clashes with the Ottie Cochran club in a game that should pack in the fans.

At Brentwood, Leo Mackey and his Whitaker club take on the Gillespies.

In last evening City League frays, the Books defeated Homewood, 5 to 4, and the Gillespies walloped the Cochrans, 7 to 3.

The Homestead Grays split even in a double bill, beating the Jehovics, of Hazelwood, 8 to 0, and then losing the fourth and final game of the league series with the Baltimore Black Sox in a night game at Greenlee Field, 8 to 6. Lefty Williams pitched a no-hit game against the Johnies.

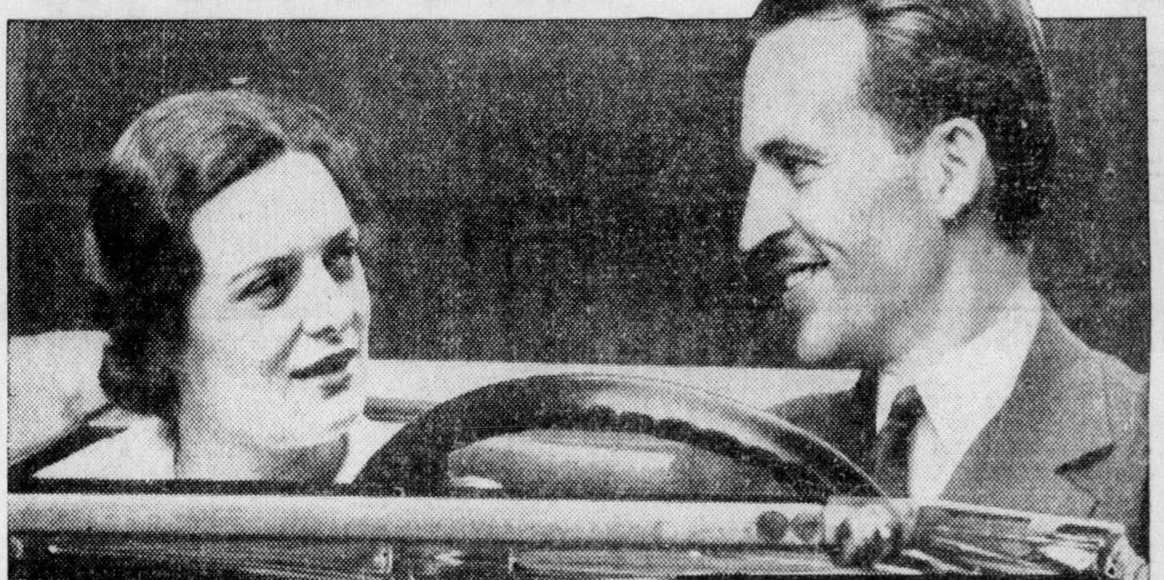
"I'd forgotten how swell it feels to ride on new tires all around"



NO QUESTION about it, it certainly feels great to have the sure-gripping, long-wearing, quick-stopping safety of new Goodyears on every wheel.

And for less than a single tire cost a few years ago, you can buy a whole set of Goodyear All-Weathers now!

So take advantage of present low prices while you can still get them.

You can buy the world's best-known safety tread, the Goodyear All-Weather, with grip in the center of the tread where you need it for safety—you can get the protection from blowouts provided by patented Goodyear Supertwist cord—at prices you may never see again.

It's smart buying to get set for the summer with new Goodyears all around—and the way prices are headed, if you buy now you stand a chance of getting all four tires for no more than you may later have to pay for three.

BROTHERS PLAN NET TIEUP

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

For the first time since the days of the old P. A. A. courts where the Cathedral of Learning now stands, Dr. John and Dr. Dave O'Loughlin, Winged Head stars, will pair together next week in quest of Western Pennsylvania men's doubles honors.

The former Pitt racqueters, ranked one and two, respectively, in the district singles lists of the past two years, should constitute a serious threat to all rival contenders for the dual crown.

Circumstances have conspired to keep the O'Loughlins apart as partners in West Penn action for the past seven seasons. Jaunts to the National Intercollegiate proved the main stumbling blocks until recently, after which the fruitful coalition of Dave and Dr. Billy McEllroy extended the span still further. This season, however, McEllroy is slated to go back to his old alliance with Collie Burgwin, of the Pittsburgh Golf Club.

With Dave at large, John has decided to dissolve his successful 1932 hook-up with B. F. Arkle, Wheeling ace and holder of the McCahill Cup, so that once more local fans will enjoy opportunity to behold one of the sport's most colorful brother acts on the competitive job.

Men's singles entries for the Western Pennsylvania classic close at 5 p. m. Thursday, two days prior to the actual start of hostilities. Chairman Frank S. Smith announces that the draw will be made that evening or early Friday. The women's singles and men's, women's, and mixed doubles lists will be open until Monday. Chairman Smith may be addressed in care of the Edward A. Woods Company in the Frick Building and may be telephoned at Atlantic 2800.

The annual Middle Atlantic men's singles title tourney gets under way at the Virginia Hot Springs Golf and Tennis Club tomorrow.

Mrs. Fabiani Dead, Believed Suicide

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—(INS.)—Mrs. Mercedes Fabiani, 24, estranged wife of Ray Fabiani, prominent wrestling promoter, was found dead today in her apartment of an overdose of sleeping powder.

Detectives expressed the opinion her death was suicide. The sleeping potion had been prescribed by a physician who was treating her for a nervous ailment.

Fabiani promoted wrestling and boxing shows in Philadelphia, Boston, Pittsburgh and other eastern cities.

AUTO RACER DIES

GIRL SHATTERS COURSE MARK

DES MOINES, Ia., June 13.—(AP.)—Miss Lucile Robinson, of Des Moines, set a new course record of 81 to grab medalist honors in the women's trans-Mississippi golf tournament yesterday.

Her score, one stroke over par and one under the women's record for the Wakonda course she set last week, was six strokes better than her nearest rival's, Mrs. Leon Solomon, of Memphis, Tenn.

Mrs. Charles Newbold, of Wichita, Kan., defending champion, finished 11 strokes behind the medalist, tied with Mrs. Dave Bonella, Ottumwa, Ia., and Mrs. Lillian Zech, Chicago, for fifth place.

COLLEGE GOLFERS VIE

PITT, CARNEGIE, DUKES, W. VA. IN TOURNEY

BULLETIN.

Pitt won the team championship with a score of 345 as golfers of Pitt, West Virginia, Duquesne and Carnegie Tech competed in the first annual tristate district intecollegiate tourney at the South Hills Country Club today. West Virginia was second with 347, Duquesne third with 380. Tech did not have a full team entered. Jack Hoblitzel, of West Virginia, was low with a 79. Art Sekay, of Pitt, shot an 80.

By TOM BIRKS

Twenty-four golfers representing Pitt, Tech, Duquesne and West Virginia are battling it out over the South Hills Country Club layout this morning in the first intercollegiate championship tourney of the tri-state district.

The four No. 1 men of the colleges started out at 10 o'clock and the other players left in foursomes at five-minute intervals. The four low scores of each school will determine the team championship, and the four players will clash in match play competition for the individual title.

The first round of match play is carded for this afternoon. Tomorrow morning and afternoon finds the quarter and semi-finals being disposed of. On Thursday the final round of 36 holes will be played.

The third series of women's team matches are booked for today. Section I, with Oakmont, the Field Club and Allegheny battling for the lead, swings into action at Butler and Section II plays at Shannopin.

Tomorrow, the third Pennsylvania state one-day handicap tournament will be staged over the links of the Pittsburgh Field Club. More than 100 applications for starting times already have been received.

The handicap committee has been deluged with requests for handicaps since the state list was printed in the Sunday issue of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Cards may be obtained by writing James A. Fownes, chairman of the Pennsylvania State Golf Handicap Committee, Goebel street.

CROWLEY HERE, OPTIMISTIC

James (Sleepy) Crowley, one of the famed "Four Horsemen" of Notre Dame football who now is head coach at Fordham University, made one of the principal addresses at the twenty-first annual banquet of the St. Mary's of the Mount Alumni at Webster Hall last night.

Crowley spent much of his brief visit in Pittsburgh with Joe Bach, line coach of Duquesne University who was a Crowley teammate on the Rockne Ramblers. Many members of the local chapter of the Notre Dame Alumni Association entertained the former star halfback during his stay here.

Crowley stated he was delighted with his new outfit at Fordham although he was disappointed in the Spring practice. The inclement weather, he said, made it difficult to get a real line on his grid candidates, many of whom are new players. The Fordham schedule is a tough one, but the head coach hopes the team will make a creditable showing.

Crowley, whose fine work as coach at Michigan State won for him the Fordham berth, left for Detroit at noon.

GRAPHIC GOLF

BALANCE IMPORTANT IN SWING

Adopting a stance that allows a good balance throughout the swing should be one of the fundamentals every enterprising golfer should search for.

In the illustration above, Bobby Jones is so balanced that he is enabled to apply considerable pressure on the downswing even though, at this point, his left heel has not yet returned to earth. When it does he will be in a still firmer position and ready to unleash the tremendous energy stored up in the cocked left wrist and the hitting power of the right hand.

The ordinary golfer oftentimes has such a precarious balance when swinging that he is impotent to exert any pressure. He attempts to hit hard without being in a position to bring the power of his arms and body into the shot. He should experiment with different foot positions until he feels that he is gaining that power of which he is capable and which enables him to lower the left heel, naturally on the down- [illegible] is gives him a steadying [illegible] and enables a positive hit.

FREEMAN WINS OVER 'KEED'

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Good Ol' Tommy Freeman, the eternally young whippersnapper from Hot Springs, Ark., fought another of his good fights at Hickey Park, Millvale, last night, and the Alabama Kid, young Negro southpaw middleweight, from Dover, O., finished second to him in a tough 10-round battle.

Freeman, former welterweight champion, simply outwalloped the Alabama in every round except the first and ninth, which were even. The Kid fought more than is his wont, but found the veteran too cagy and too tough. Freeman kept crowding his man around the ring at all times, and punching away with both fists. He outgamed him in slugging exchanges and held the upper hand throughout.

MOUTHS ARE CUT

The Kid's mouth was cut early and Freeman's in the ninth round, when his mouthpiece was knocked out, and both bled freely from the wounds.

They started out at a fast clip, both punching to the body. In the third round, Tommy shifted his attack to the head and thereafter mixed it up liberally. In the fifth, the Kid jolted him with a short left in close, but Tommy recovered quickly. Alabama rallied again in the seventh, and in the ninth he started off with a rush which drove Freeman to cover, but, when the storm had subsided, Tommy went back to work and they traded blows throughout the round, the best action of the fight, with Freeman going to his corner with the cut mouth as a souvenir. On top of this splurge, Alabama went on the defensive in the final round and covered and took no chances, permitting Tommy to breeze in with the victory.

GREEN SCORES UPSET

Harry Weekly, of Alliance, O., forced the fighting all of the way in the eight-round semi-final against Patsy Severo, of Meadville, but the latter received the unanimous decision at the finish. Patsy did the harder punching, but most of it was of the counter variety, after Weekly had jabbed and crossed with telling effect.

The sensation of the night developed in the first eight-rounder, in which Tiger Roy Smith, highly-touted Negro southpaw middleweight, of Rochester, N. Y., was technically knocked out by Anson Green, Homestead Negro, with five seconds to go in the last round. A right to the jaw dropped Smith for a count of three and he got up weak and went down again, this time for two. He was out when he arose and Referee Al Grayber stopped the bout, whereupon Smith sagged into the ropes and held on to keep from falling. Smith started off well, winning the early rounds, but Green came strong, and it was a close battle until the dramatic finish.

ANOTHER FOR JACOBY

Harry Jacoby, of Newark, N. J., scored his second technical knockout victory within five nights here when the referee stopped his bout with Jack Snyder, of Lawrenceville, after the latter had been floored twice for counts of nine with left hooks in the second round. Bill Nichy lost to Jacoby at the Arena last Thursday night.

Dick Ambrose, of Bloomfield, made an auspicious professional debut by beating Pete Fleming, Hot Springs welterweight stablemate of Freeman, in the six-round opener, scoring knockdowns in the first and third rounds.

East Liberty Clubs Hold Golf Tourney

Three East Liberty organizations, the Chamber of Commerce, Lions Club and the East Liberty Y. M. C. A., were holding their annual golf tournament at the Alcoma Country Club today.

Approximately 200 women golfers were competing in the visiting ladies' day competition at the Nemacolin Country Club.

Fight Results

At Hickey Park, Millvale—Tommy Freeman defeated Alabama Kid, 10 rounds; Patsy Severo defeated Harry Weekly, 8 rounds; Anson Green won by tecanical knockout over Tiger (Roy) Smith, 8 rounds; Harry Jacoby won by technical knockout over Jack Snyder, 2 rounds; Dick Ambrose defeated Pete Fleming, 6 rounds.

At Louisville—Henry Firpo defeated Ray Trimble, 10 rounds.

HAGEN, SARAZEN NEAR BREAK

NEW YORK, June 13.—(INS.)—On the eve of its departure for England, the American Ryder Cup team is threatened today by dissension, with Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen the principals and active subscribers. They're openly hostile now. What'll they be by the time they land at Southampton for the international matches with the British, only those six days at sea can hope to divulge. There's nothing like a few hours in the enforced intimacy of an ocean liner to chafe the morale, so to speak, and aggravate any grievance, whether real or fancied.

The Ryder Cup team's last workout on this side of the Atlantic sent Hagen and his mates against a picked squad of Metropolitan district amateurs at the Metropolis Club in White Plains today.

Hagen's team included Gene Sarazen, Ed Dudley, Paul Runyan, Craig Wood, Olin Dutra, Horton Smith, Densmore Shute and Leo Diegel, all pup players, and Johnny Farrell, who was to fill in for the tenth member of the team, Billy Burke.

Opposing them in five foursomes was an amateur side captained by Jess Sweetser. The cup team will sail on the Aquitania tomorrow night.

YAROSZ OUT AS WELTER

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Amateur bouts, St. Peter's A. A. open-air arena, North Side.

Al Roth vs. Petey Hayes and Pete Guiotta vs. Sammy Dorfman, 10 rounds each, New York.

Joe Banovic vs. Cliff Kelly, 10 rounds, Kansas City.

Joey Harrison vs. Jay Meeadon, 8 rounds, Garfield, N. J.; Babe Hunt vs. Lee Ramage, 10 rounds, Philadelphia, (postponed from last night).

It was four years ago yesterday that Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, made his first professional start in a four-round bout against Jack King, of Wampum, Pa., at Junction Park, New Brighton. A year and a day later, or three years ago today, he returned to the same arena to defeat Young Rudy in a main bout. Rudy had boxed Dick Ramies in the main event of his first show.

Today Yarosz looks back upon a record of 66 professional fights, with only one defeat, and makes the announcement that he is through for all time as a welterweight title contender. He recently announced he would box as a middleweight except in the event he could get a match with Jimmy McLarnin for the welterweight title or against Jackie Fields or Young Corbett, former champions.

Now, however, Teddy, who has been growing rapidly, finds he does not feel right at less than 156 pounds. He boxes Sammy Slaughter, the Terre Haute Negro puncher, in one of three feature 10-round bouts in the Cleveland Stadium, Thursday night. Meanwhile, plans are moving ahead for a match with Vince Dundee here, possibly over the 15-round route, with the State Athletic Commission being asked to recognize it as being for the now vacant middleweight championship.

Matchmaker Lew Raymond, who has the inside track for this bout, will try to arrange it for Forbes Field, which has not been used for boxing for years. John Hernon, Hickey Park promoter, may be his partner in the venture.

Between Rounds

The Tony Herrera-Lew Raymond windup battle is out at Hickey Park, Millvale, next Monday night, Ray Alvis, manager of Herrera, having turned down Raymond as a substitute for Lew Massey. As a result, Raymond may be brought on with his stablemate, Jack Portney, for a double-windup against Billy Holt and Tiger Joe Randall.

Amateur bouts will feature the annual fish fry of Islam Grotto at Turner Grove, West View, next Saturday afternoon.

The first of the series of outdoor amateur boxing shows under the auspices of the St. Peter's A. A., for the benefit of the needy in the St. Peter's arena, North Side, will be staged tonight. The card: John Burke vs. Buddy Williams, Johnny Saville vs. Frank Salek, Jimmy Lugar vs. Jimmy Ferry, Vince Browning vs. Tom Green, Frank Wingo vs. Joe Backo, Art McGivern vs. Cowboy DeLuca and Eddie Katkien vs. Eddie Roberts. The first bout will go on at 9 o'clock.

Max Baer and Jack Dempsey will arrive in town on Thursday morning for their exhibition in the North Braddock Bowl that night and will be heard over WCAE with Louis L. Kaufman at 12:15 p. m. Interest in the coming of the conqueror of Max Schmeling is intense and indications point to the largest crowd that has witnessed a boxing show here this year, even exceeding that which attended the Schmeling-Dempsey exhibition at Motor Square Garden recently.

CHICAGO.—For failing to heed the instructions of the referee in his bout with Tuffy Griffiths here, King Levinsky has been suspended for 30 days in Illinois.

LONDON.—Two British fighters retained their titles in 15-round bouts here last night. Jackie Brown defended his claim to the world flyweight crown against Valentin Angelmann, of France, and Johnny King won over Bobby Leitham, of Canada, in a contest for the British Isles bantamweight laurels.

NEW YORK.—James F. Johnston, owner of Repaid, one of the Kentucky Derby favorites this year, died yesterday after a long illness. He was 65.

CINCINNATI.—Donie Bush, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, who has been seriously ill, was able to attend yesterday's game and said he would resume active handling of the club on Saturday.

LONG BRANCH, Canada.—Upset Lad and Phil R ran a dead heat in a race at a mile and one-sixteenth yesterday. It was the first deadlock here since 1926. Upset lad is a son of Upset, the only horse that ever defeated Man o' War.

PITTSFIELD, Mass.—(AP.)—Edward Connolly, of Brooklyn, catcher for the Galveston club of the Texas League, was married at St. Joseph's Church today to Miss Dorothea Martin, a school teacher.

Shoppers Are Getting Busy; Stocks Light

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK merchants report a most gratifying pickup in sales.

Department stores on Saturday were crowded. Buying has veereed away from the cheapest grades of merchandise. It is also noteworthy that demand is by no means confined to sheer necessities; semi-luxuries and luxuries are moving faster than in three years; even jewelry shows reviving life.

B. C. Forbes

While it doubtless is true that there has been some speculative contracting for raw materials and staple merchandise, it certainly is not true that retailers' stocks are super-abundant. Selections, as a rule, are extremely limited. Shoppers frequently cannot find what they want, but are told that the desired goods can be procured quickly.

Already a good many lines have been marked up. This is natural, inevitable, seeing that cotton costs almost twice what it did a year ago, that wool is up over 60 per cent, silk up almost 60 per cent, leather (hides) up 200 per cent, while practically all agricultural commodities are also distinctly higher.

Manufacturers and producers are becoming chary about accepting big orders for distant delivery at current quotations. Not a few prices have represented less than production costs. With all raw materials rising, it is logical that processors should avoid the risk of having to cover their raw material requirements at higher prices.

Skepticism is expressed here and there concerning the permanency of the marked expansion in demand. Many feel that the rebound is too vigorous to last. They reason that not a little of the buying has been inspired by expectation of inflation and that, should even a modest reaction set in, the consequences might be disturbing.

To guard against this, it is urged that every governmental body expedite the inauguration of extraordinary activities already authorized, and that the reopening of closed banks be speeded up.

THAT EXTENSIVE buying is still under way cannot be doubted. This column continues to receive cheerful news from almost every corner of the continent. Samples:

President Claire L. Barnes, of Houdaille-Hershey Corporation, states:

"Our sales have been running 20 per cent ahead of last year. I feel that this country is on a steady upgrade and that business will be much better next six months than it was during the first six months of this year."

Addressograph - Multigraph announces:

"Our sales for May, both with respect to machines and new business volume, were the best since November, 1932. America is coming out of the recent economic readjustment period faster than most business men realize."

President Richard M. Greenwood, of Heywood Wakefield Company (furniture), reports such increase in orders that full production has been instituted at Gardner, Mass., and that the wages of a thousand workers have been increased 5 per cent. He says:

"We feel that the tide has turned and the improvement will be sustained."

Chairman Ernest T. Weir, of National Steel, which will double its dividend distribution on June 30, states:

"The increase in net earnings this quarter amply justifies sharing them with our stockholders."

Chairman L. B. Manning, of American Airways, states that May established a new record for air express carried, a gain of 101 per cent over a year ago. The five months' gain has averaged 150 per cent. Stinson Aircraft is doubling production of certain products and reports "more orders on hand for private planes than at any time in the company's history."

Sales Manager G. E. Luke, of Parker Rust-Proof Company, announces May sales 120 per cent above a year ago. Beer has helped.

Westinghouse last month received more refrigerator orders than in any previous month.

Cheerful facts and figures come from these automobile companies: Chevrolet, Dodge, Continental, Pontiac, Buick, Studebaker, Graham-Paige, Hudson, Oldsmobile, Plymouth, White Motors.

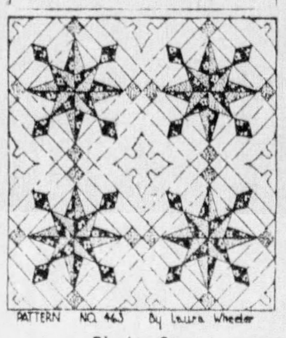
PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN



Blazing Star

The star as a decorative motif has probably lent itself to more quilt patterns than any other single motif. The Blazing Star is a popular old pattern. In this, the star has been developed quite differently than in the usual star pattern. A plastic effect is achieved by making the points of the star of two materials. A simple pattern to do, the grace of the star is added to by the diamond patches that accent the points, and by the squares that link the stars together.

The pattern comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, quilting motif, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for a pattern for this design to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth Avenue, New York City.

STOCKS JUMP PROFIT-TAKING BARRIER

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP.)—Financial markets ebbed and flowed in international currents today, but the trend apparently was still upward despite some uncertainties both at home and abroad.

Stocks breasted a wave of early profit-taking and came up in fairly good condition. Strength of the rails, in particular, heartened other categories that were inclined to hesitate. The American dollar showed a tendency to rally in European exchange markets. Grains were a trifle unsettled at one time, and cotton eased, but these, too, displayed resistance. Bonds, generally, were rather narrow, but some of the speculative groups stepped up.

A run-in of the shorts in Union Pacific, somewhat similar to the one in American Telephone yesterday, sent this carrier up around 6 points to a new high. Delaware and Hudson jumped about 4 points, other transportation issues up 1 to 2 included Lackawanna, Santa Fe and New York Central. Aircraft stocks also 'rew a following with United and Aviation Corporation up about a point each.

Reflecting general business improvement, several banks declared regular dividends. Preliminary estimates of New York Central Railroad revenues for May indicated that an April deficit of $1,800,000 had been cut to some $500,000. The road had a loss of $4,000,000 in May last year. Low earnings of the lines, it was said, were running well ahead of the previous month.

Interest in financial circles continued to be divided between Washington and London, with most observers admitting the futility of attempting to prognosticate happenings in either center. Some disappointment was expressed over the delay in adjournment of Congress, but the postponement, it was generally believed, would have little effect on the administration's economic program.

There was widespread discussion regarding the payment or non-payment by Great Britain of the war debt installment falling due Thursday. Leading banking circles have held the opinion that a default, either in whole or in part, was a distinct possibility and it was suggested that most markets might pay little attention to the final decision in this matter.

The question of "what price the dollar" is holding the serious attention of Wall street. Foreign banking experts stress the importance of stabilization as the most vital question before the present London conference. Only when the dollar, pound and franc are fixed in some sort of permanent relationship, it is argued, can the foreign trade situation work back toward normal.

WHEAT FALLS ON SELLING

CHICAGO, June 13.—Sellers predominated in the grain pits early today, and prices ran down hill. News from the World Economic Conference at London and in regard to war debts was construed as bearish. Opening at ½-1c decline, both wheat and corn continued to fall.

Later, buying on the part of houses with eastern connections accompanied a ralley in wheat. There was also much general purchasing on resting orders to acquire ownership at various set limits, especially when offerings became scare. Cables were also at hand saying European markets showed more readiness to respon to unfavorable crop forecasts in the United States. Corn and oats largely followed the course of wheat.

Provisions were easy, paralleling the action of hog values.

CHEAP DOLLAR HOLDS PERIL, SAYS HANEY

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, June 13.—Another week of expanding business and rising commodity prices has passed. While there is good reason to doubt the fundamental soundness of much that is going on, we can at least be glad that we have had a demonstration that business is alive and ready to go.

Some of us have maintained all along that all business needed was a chance, and that the intelligent self-interest of American business men would be an ample self starter. I think it unfortunate that the chance should have come in the shape of inflation. I believe that a sounder, if slower, expansion would have begun if exactly the opposite tactics had been used and the dollar had been made safer, instead of being debased.

But be that as it may, no one can now deny that if you show business men a chance to make money, they will do the rest.

What the government has done is to debase our currency, thus causing an inflationary rise in prices and one which seems likely to go on indefinitely. This policy, it supplements by proposals concerning wages, hours, and restricted production, which are likely to increase costs.

So business men have hastened to buy materials and merchandise to forestall these developments.

Naturally, there is some danger that such a move may be too precipitate and sharp. There are unknown and uncertain factors. But aside from the possibility that some new maladjustments may have occurred, it does not seem that production in general has yet been increased unduly. In fact, it may be surprising to some to note that the industrial activity in general is probably just about where it was at the bottom of the 1921 depression.

Looked at in that way, the current boom is not much to get excited about. It emphasizes the extremely low levels to which we had fallen a year ago, and again in March this year.

Steel production was up very sharply in May. Yet it was only about the same as in July, 1931, and November, 1921.

Unfilled steel orders gained last month, despite increased production. Yet they were about 200,000 tons below a year ago, a little over half as large as in 1931, and about 35 per cent of May, 1921.

These levels hardly seem dangerous.

There are some indications of speeding up to anticipate higher prices rather than consumer requirements. In some cases this is due merely to the thought that the dollar will continue to depreciate. In others, it is anticipated that the restrictions and taxes of the industrial control and farm relief measures will raise costs.

The reason for caution here lies in the fact that indications as to the basis for consumption do not seem to have yet warranted such sharp gains in production. Department store sales are still below a year ago. The payrolls of New York state factories are 5 per cent below last year, and probably about 13,000,000 persons are unemployed.

Incidentally, too, merchandise carloadings and bank clearings outside New York, have not yet caught up to a year ago.

Another cautionary point is suggested by the extreme weakness of the dollar in foreign exchange. The fall of our dollar to a record low level means a "flight from the dollar." Capital is leaving the country.

Evidently some people with money are not speculative in New York, but are buying commodities and securities abroad, and in other ways seeking to avoid dollar depreciation. Of course, this is not a healthy symptom.

But the end of the move is not in sight.

Unionization of Mine Labor Probable In Future

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

UNIONIZATION OF COAL miners in Western Pennsylvania looms as a possibility in the near future.

Organizers of the United Mine Workers of America are making a drive to bring all the workers in this district under union control. The drive has been responsible for labor troubles at many mines in the Pittsburgh area.

While the exact effect of the industrial control bill on labor organizations is uncertain at present, the provisions for collective bargaining between employes and employers lead many to the belief that the influence of unions will be greatly increased.

* * *

Wage Increase Made To Impede Unions

THE ACTION OF the Pittsburgh Coal Company, largest operator in this district, in increasing wages 10 per cent a short time ago is interpreted as a move to block organization efforts by convincing miners that the union will not be necessary to them.

Many coal operators are trying to check the efforts of the United Mine Workers by encouraging the formation of company unions. Under this system separate organizations would be formed at each mine to represent the employes. These organizations would have no affiliation with any national body such as the United Mine Workers of America.

The Pittsburgh Coal Company, which precipitated the break with the union in 1925 when it broke its wage agreement, is bitterly opposed to any form of union domination in this district. Its fight to break the union in Western Pennsylvania proved to be a costly affair and the company's final success after a three-year struggle makes it unwilling to yield any ground at present.

The steel companies, which own a large number of the mines in this district, also are opposed to unionization of miners, largely because of a fear that it might spread to the mills where open shop conditions have prevailed for many years.

* * *

Not All Operators Oppose Mine Workers

NOT ALL THE operators, however, are violently opposed to the union idea. The long series of wage cuts of recent years have been responsible for many of the chaotic conditions surrounding the industry. Price cutting has been largely at the expense of labor and the southern fields have managed to keep a jump ahead of the local operators in the business of whittling both wages and prices.

The operators who do not oppose the union would welcome any arrangement which would establish a uniform wage scale throughout the industry. In such a development they see Pittsburgh's best chance to regain some of its lost coal markets, since wages in the southern fields are considerably lower than those in this district.

The industrial control bill is viewed as helpful by most operators here since its effect probably will be to stabilize wages. The fact that the United Mine Workers might become the instrument for arranging this stabilization is viewed as a danger by some operators and as a matter of indifference to others.

AUDACIOUS GIRL REVEALS SECRETS OF SOUTHERN SEAS

CHAPTER XXIV.

One day, a mile out of Madang, Jim and I came upon the charred ruins of a great plantation house, an ill-fated ghostly place, superbly set to overlook a chasm-like valley that rose steeply to the dense foot-hills of the Finisterres. The ruins must once have been an impressive dwelling, for their still remained a series of broad concrete steps ornamented with two stone lions. Here, too bougainvillea ran rot; ribiscus, poinciana, and frangipani had spread everywhere. We coaxed our horses through the wilderness of flowers to the brink of the steep incline, and looked silently for a few minutes into the inscrutable mountains, where lies the feathered and flowering beauty that belongs to New Guinea alone, in whose veins lie probable treasures of gems and ore, whose mists veil people the world has left untouched.

Then wheeling, pleased because we liked very much each other's society, we pursued our ride. There are such delightful things to encounter along the trails out there—a drift of passionate sweetness from hidden bush or tree, a sudden turning of the trail that takes you out of the sun into the dankly cool shadow of a verdant jungle pass, and one time the red flash of a paradise bird.

There is an abandoned goblin forest of rubber plantation where fantastic, twisted limbs send down roots to the ground, a fearful place to be lost in at night. Through this we occasionally rode to a place where a lone Chinese trader had carved himself a clearing out of the jungle, and lived by bartering valueless bright trinkets, colored dyes, and tobacco for sun-dried copra, ivory nuts, and, as Jim said, sometimes nuggets of gold.

FRESH COCOANUTS

Jim was on good terms with the fat Celestial. At his iron-roofed shack we would usually pause long enough for his native house-boy, whose wool was plumed with paradise feathers, to shinny up a cocoanut palm and bring for each of us a young nut, a koolau. Twisting a strong vine around his feet, the savage would propel himself to the head of the palm, 60 feet above us, and drop the two great yellow koolaus; then, like a monkey he would descend and with one clean gash of his long knife clean the outer shell away from the hole that our lips might touch only the cool, soft fiber of the inner shell. The chill, sweet water inside was passing good for a thirsty traveler. If I wished, he would cleave the koolau in two and deftly make me a spoon from a segment of shell so that I could eat of the flesh. And then we would turn back.

Jim was an odd man and likable. He was Australian born; he was 34, and in those years he had packed a life-time of experience and adventures. He had been to a university; he had been a packaroo, soldier, gold miner, horsebreaker, explorer, recruiter; at one time in his career he had even been a dancing teacher. And kind! He was one of the kindest men in the world. He had a way with horses that was magic. Most of the horses that he had at Madang were unbroken, and two of them nobody except Jim — not even Brearly—could approach. He never lost his coolness or gentleness with them. I have watched him approach a horse, halter in hand, while the animal stood, head up, nerves quivering, suspicious, yet reassured by something in the calm voice speaking to him. Yes, Jim was A wizard with the horses.

BEAUTIFUL BIRDS

Only once did I see a paradise bird in New Guinea. As I have said, it was on one of those rides into the foot-hills with Jim. It was a vivid, glorious flash of scarlet, with trailing tail-feathers. It darted across our vision and was gone. The birds of paradise flourish on the mainland of New Guinea, but their home is among the hills well inland from the coast.

Others around Madang had been more fortunate in seeing birds than I. Beyond the clearing, in the quiet of the foot-hills, occasionally one comes upon the more common variety —the sunset paradise—with plumage of beautiful orange and brown coloring or cardinal red. The rarer varieties are in the mountains; most inaccessible of all is the blue paradise. I have heard gold miners tell of the wonderful blue paradise in the gold country around Salamaua. I saw a blue paradise pelt in the museum at Rabaul. I marvelled that such a thing of beauty could be. Its back was of the richness and texture of black velvet, of a fur thickness rather than feather, and the shoulder ruffs were edged with royal blue. Some of the tail plumes were four feet long, and were electric blue. It was a lovely, royal, pathetic thing, that pelt.

TRAFFIC FORBIDDEN

Although the paradise bird is on the increase in New Guinea, it is especially forbidden to traffic in them in the British-controlled area. Of course there are paradise bootleggers; it is as easy to procure the more ordinary variety of plumes, even in Rabaul, as it is to get Scotch in Brooklyn. The fine is heavy, however, and may be accompanied by imprisonment. Nevertheless, there is considerable smuggling of pelts over the Dutch border, where paradise plumes are still a prime export.

I had been educated in the belief that gathering paradise plumes was a most inhuman pursuit. I had a notion that the birds were firmly held while the plumage was plucked from their quivering flesh, and then were thrown back into their nests to die—mother birds, young birds, and all. If what I gathered in New Guinea is true (information, I mean, not feathers) this was sensational prohibition propaganda. The gathering of paradise plumes can hardly endanger the existence of the species, because it is only the male bird whose feathers are valuable, and he must be about seven years old before his plumage has reached the zenith of its beauty; in the meantime he has reproduced his kind from five to six times. Nor are the feathers plucked from the tortured body; the bird is killed by a very small bullet, so as not to damage the pelt, and the skin is taken intact.

Australia is adamant about the owning and wearing of paradise feathers. Any one who has these plumes must be able to prove that they were in his possession before the prohibition law went into effect.

Sydney harbor must be a graveyard of paradise feathers, cast overboard by smuggling persons who lost their courage at the last moment. Paradise feathers are the chief problem of Sydney customs officers. There are current in Rabaul many amusing stories about the traffic. The wife of a D. O. going down on furlough lost her nerve after the boat had docked at Sydney, and shoved the plumes out of the port, where they dropped at the very feet of a customs officer.

PLUMES STOLEN

The chief collector of customs at Rabaul had a hard one to live down. By great strategy and diligence he had intercepted a cleverly disguised shipment of paradise plumes as they were about to be sneaked out of the capital. He had theoretically confiscated them by locking them up in the strong room of the customs office. Not long after, much to his chagrin, he discovered that the strong room had been broken into, and the plumes removed so cleverly that no trace whatever of the culprits was left. The C. C. of C. swore some not very pretty Orstrylian swears, and every one in Rabaul enjoyed the little game of hide-and-seek tremendously, for sins are lightly forgiven in Rabaul, save by those they adversely affect.

A week went by with no trace of the purloined paradise feathers. Then one morning there was a shout in the customs office, for a "clark" had come upon a coat of the chief collector's hanging in an obscure corner, from the lining of which protruded the endmost tail-feather of a forbidden bird. Other clerks crowded close to investigate; in each pocket was stuffed a plume, while two others snuggled within the lining. The purloiner of plumes was figuratively thumbing his nose at the chief collector and providing Rabaul with a good laugh for a long time to come. The rest of the plumes never were reclaimed.

POPE PAUL III SANCTIONING THE SOCIETY OF JESUS (1534)

Parallel to the rapidly spreading Protestantism, a strong counter-movement within the Catholic Church arose, expressed in societies. One society was the "Order of Jesus," founded by Ignatius de Loyola. Activities of the Jesuits as teachers and missionaries are significant in the development of modern humanity.

A SESSION OF THE COUNCIL OF TRENT

The council of Trent was another counter agency to Protestantism and was established by Pope Paul III. Invitations to the regular council meetings were extended to Protestant leaders, but efforts were in vain in bringing them back to the Church. The council lasted from 1545 to 1565. PRINCIPLE OF THE LINOTYPE (Science)

By depressing one key, D, a connected rod, C, acts on an escapement, B, which lets a matrix (having engraved on it the letter corresponding to that on the key; see insert) slide down from a magazine, A, into one of the channels, E. A traveling belt, F, carries the matrices into assembling block, G. Spacers, I, by lever, J, can be released from a box, H. After a line is composed, it is transferred to the face of a vertical mould wheel, K. A pump acting on molten metal in a gas heated furnace, M, causes the casting of a slug showing embossed on it the letters of the composed line. After that, the matrices are carried by a vibrating arm, R, to the distributor and released, each to its individual chamber. The machine works on matrices of three lines simultaneously; one being assembled, the second cast, the third distributed. (Science).

AN ICE CREAM FREEZER (Foods)

Ice cream is the frozen product of cream, milk, butter, water with sugar, flavors and harmless colors—with or without a stabilizer (gelatin). It must contain not less than 8% butterfat (Penna. State requirement). Here a side view of a horizontal, motor driven freezer is shown.

This shows a freezer's working principle. The discs, A, revolving in the cylinder, which is cooled by circulating brine (an ice and salt solution) and contains the ice cream mixture. B is a scraper; C, a screw that forces the ice cream along the cylinder, and D, a screw that delivers it through the spout. (Foods).

A REFRIGERATING SYSTEM SUPPLYING COOLED BRINE TO AN ICE CREAM FREEZER

Liquid ammonia passes from the receiver, R, through an expansion valve, X, and into evaporating coils, E, cooling the refrigerator (for storage) and the brine in the tank, T. The ammonia is changed to gas and enters a compressor, C, passing through an oil trap, S, and the double-walled condensing coils, W, (cooled by water), where it is liquefied and returned to the receiver, R. F, is the freezer into which pump P forces the cold brine from the tank T. (Fisk: The Book of Ice Cream). (Foods).

STAR CLUSTERS (Science)

The star cluster (a mass of stars) shown is in the constellation Hercules and contains about 100,000 stars. (After Ritchey). About 90 star clusters, called globular after their approximately spherical shape, are known. Their distance from the earth varies from 23,000 to 220,000 light years. (Fath: Astronomy).

The Leviathan Sails On

Well, they've washed up the old Leviathan. Which indicates The Bug ain't much good at launching anything.

We were on her trial trip 10 years ago when she rushed around the island of Bermuda and back again. It was a non-stop flight for the purpose of seeing whether the Leviathan and newspapermen could take it. We could. And did.

Six days at sea. Nothing to look at. Went around Bermuda in the dark. Landed back in New York and when our admiring relatives asked us where we had been we didn't know. We hadn't been anywhere.

On board was the immortal Ring Lardner looking as gloomy as a felt insole in a rubber boot.

Kin Hubbard, creator of Abe Martin; Frank Ward O'Malley,

Claire Briggs, Rube Goldberg, George McManus. All humorists. And the saddest guys you ever met outside of a clip joint.

We remember we turned Republican especially for that trip.

And the Democratic papers panned it and called the Gulf Stream picnic an orgy.

Little did they know that we were all spies for future Postmaster Jim Farley.

It was the mildest and quietest journey since the covered wagon rolled through fields of clover grass in Iowa.

Before that the Leviathan took the doughboys over and the Leviathan took them back. It didn't take us anywhere and the concensus of opinion was against the return journey.

Five years ago we contemplated a trip to England and consulted the Leviathan agents. They wanted us to pay.

We were sorry about that. They had spoiled us on the first trip. We weren't used to it and canceled the entire outing.

That's what becomes of letting a child have its own way.

We're sorry to see them junk up the old boat. She was our share of the World War.

No longer will she sail the seven seas.

She's sailing the eighth sea of red ink.

An Evil Statute

The Shooting of a Fisherman for Violating the Blue Law Should Help to Effect Its Repeal

An unemployed man, the father of a family of children, went fishing near Philadelphia on Sunday. He injured no one, but he was violating the Blue Law. A game warden saw him and called on him to surrender. As the fisherman did not obey, the warden shot him, though not fatally.

The incident should strengthen the demand for the repeal of the Blue Law, with its ridiculous taboos.

The Legislature heeded the call for the relaxation of the law in respect to fishing to the extent of authorizing Sunday fishing in the Delaware River. But Gov. Pinchot vetoed the bill on the ground that Sunday fishing was contrary to custom in Pennsylvania—an insufficient reason for his action.

Fishing should be allowed on Sunday not only in the Delaware but in all Pennsylvania streams. Fishing is one of the most inoffensive of pastimes. Izaak Walton called it "the contemplative man's recreation." It disturbs nobody.

People should be encouraged to go fishing on Sunday, the only free day that many workers have.

Miller Confirmed

The Senate's Ratification of the Pittsburgh Man's Appointment to the I. C. C. Is Gratifying.

Pittsburghers generally will share the satisfaction voiced by railroad and coal officials over the Senate's ratification of the appointment of Carroll Miller as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Assurance is now had that there is at least one member of the Commission with understanding of conditions in Pennsylvania, and so equipped to solve equitably our traffic problems.

Pennsylvania has never before had representation on the Commission. To that may be attributed the unsatisfactory character of some of the Commission's decisions in rate controversies involving competition between the Pittsburgh District and other sections.

The Grand Army Reunion

Pittsburgh is Proud to Entertain Pennsylvania's Veterans of the Civil War

The Sun-Telegraph salutes Pennsylvania's old soldiers of the Civil War who are gathering here today for the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic. We prize the privilege of entertaining these veterans.

Unhappily their numbers have been greatly depleted, but the program shows that their patriotic ardor has not diminished. Much that is inspiring to good citizenship will be found in their exercises.

We welcome also the five affiliated bodies who are meeting with the G. A. R. They will carry on the good work of the brave men who saved the Union in the sixties.

Pittsburgh's New Bank

The Opening of the Pitt National Signalizes the Dawn of a New Era

The opening of the new Pitt National Bank is cause for congratulation, not only because it releases $7,500,000 of deposits that were tied up in the closed Monongahela National and Diamond National, but also because it furnishes further tangible evidence of an improvement in business. It is inconceivable that capital would be invested in the new venture unless the outlook were very encouraging.

We have entered upon a new banking era. Pittsburgh's banks passed through the recent crisis more creditably than those in some of the other cities of comparable size. Moreover, bankers have learned lessons from the late unpleasant experience which will serve them in good stead in coping with difficulties that may arise hereafter. The Pitt National will profit from all this.

The new bank is reported to rest on a firm foundation, and should be able to weather storms. It gives promise of becoming a worthy member of the Pittsburgh group of carefully managed financial institutions.

Relief Demands Decline

But There Is Still Need of Generous Giving to Save the Destitute from Misery.

The number of applicants for poor relief in Allegheny County is falling off. The Allegheny County Emergency Association reports it has 500 fewer families on its relief list now than a week ago.

But it is not to be supposed that destitution is near the vanishing point. On the contrary the Emergency Association is still being called upon to take care of 74,626 families.

The Salvation Army, which renders such excellent service in caring for the poor and friendless, is having a hard time in responding to the demands for its help.

The Army recently conducted a campaign to raise $98,250 by popular subscription to carry on its work during the ensuing year. It succeeded in raising only $37,500.

The Salvation Army's service is indispensable. It would be tragic if it should be dropped or curtailed because of lack of public support.

Supervised Swimming

The Municipal Authorities Should Open the Pools Early, And Keep Them Open Until Autumn.

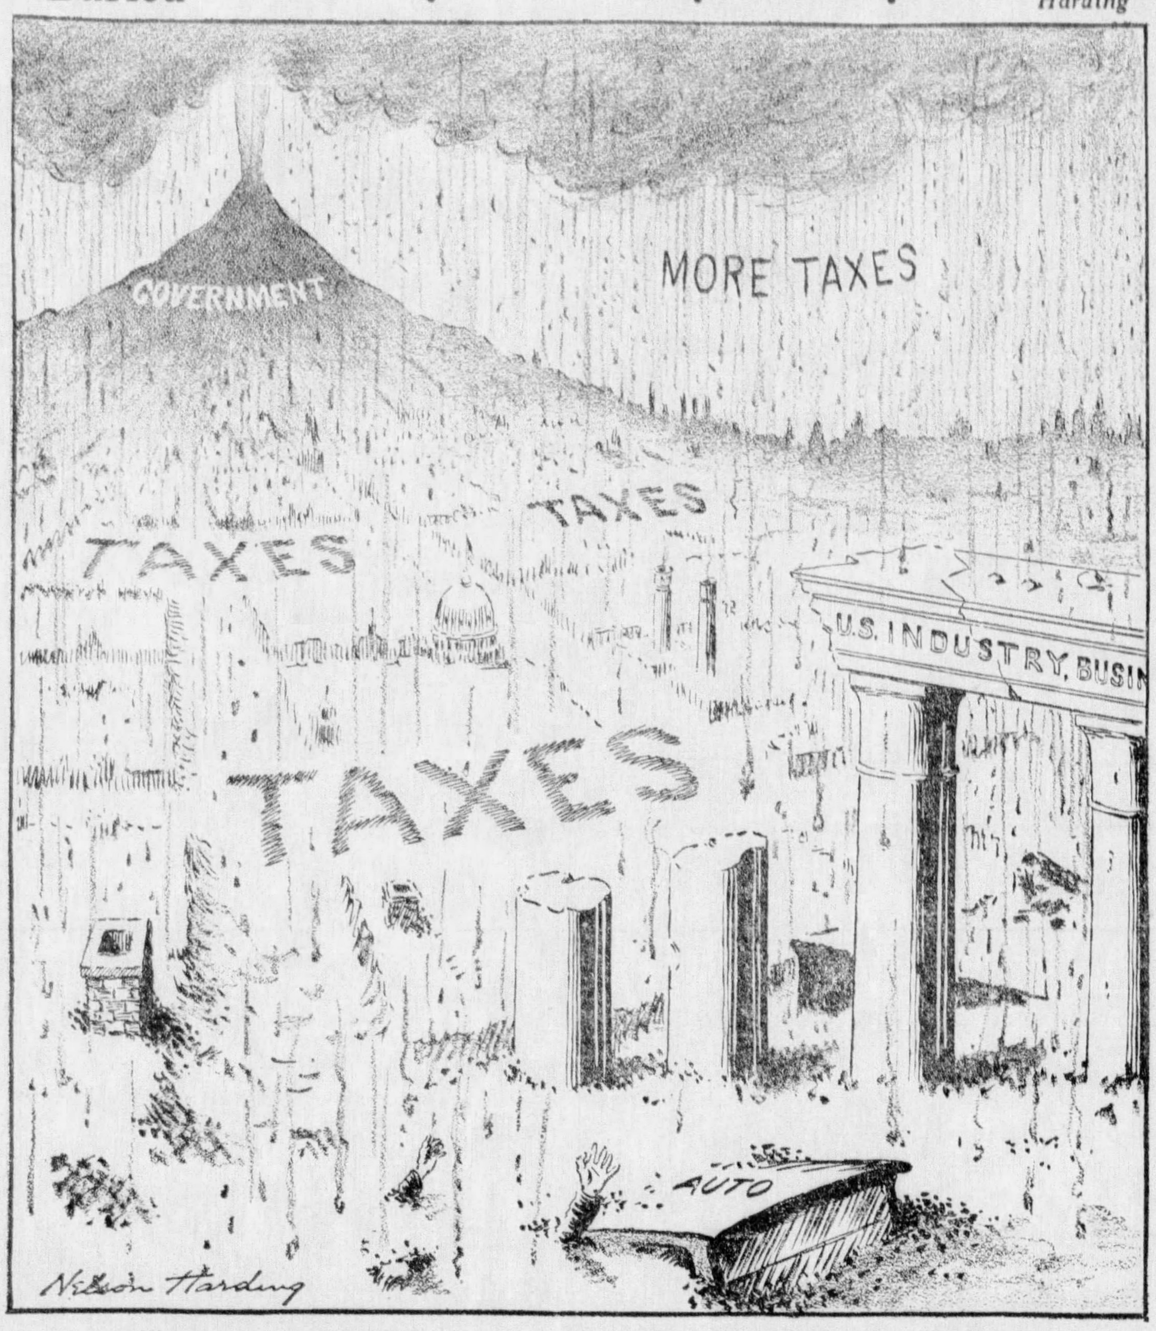
With drownings in Allegheny County this month already close to the record number of 20 last June, the municipal authorities have at last awakened to the desirability of opening the muncipal swimming pools. It seems, however, to have required a near-riot at Lake Elizabeth to arouse the city administration to the fact that the people were not content to wait until the official opening date of July 1 to go swimming.

The same situation arises year after year. For purposes of economy the administration delays opening the municipal swimming pools until long after hot weather has set in. For the same reason it has been in the habit of closing them long before hot weather has ended. It is to be hoped that mistake will be avoided this year.

Supervised swimming in muncipal pools is necessary to reduce the rivers' toll of drowning victims.

Buried

By Nelson Harding



We have our own Vesuvius,
A grim volcano, dropping
Its heavy pall upon the land;
Eruptions never stopping.

Will towns and cities, buried deep;
Some day be excavated?
Not while that crater's downpourings
Continue unabated.

Love and Learn

No matter what a woman leaves off or puts on in the name of Fashion, she never looks quite as back-to-Darwin as the average man in a bathing suit.

* * *

Most girls seem to be looking for a masterful, daring, caveman lover, who can be turned into a meek, bill-paying, 6 o'clock husband.

* * *

Somehow, the more women read and learn about sex-appeal and the sex problem, the less they seem to know about how to hold a man's love.

A man doesn't have to give his wife a washing machine as an anniversary present, in order to insult her—he can do it much more effectively by giving her a reducing machine.

* * *

A woman can calmly watch the hair receding from her husband's forehead from year to year, without feeling any older; but, when her favorite movie actor begins to take on girth and to have that "settled" look, she knows that she is getting middle-aged.

* * *

So diversified are the divorce laws in the United States that a woman who crosses the continent with her second husband doesn't know, from moment to moment, whether she's a wife, a grass-widow or a bigamist.

Recovering from love: Six days of heartache, six weeks of disillusionment—and six months getting over your inferiority complex.

* * *

The modern husband has cause for thankfulness. All the energy that the old-fashioned wife used to expend in remodeling her husband and toning down his bad habits, the modern woman puts into remodeling her face and banting down her figure.

* * *

Infatuation is a temporary state of being in love. Love is the extreme sentence—and, once in it, you're in "for life."

* * *

A man's chief objection to marriage is that it puts the "ties" in responsibiliti-ties.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 13.—Many Manhattan celebrities cling to fixed standards of dress. Fannie Hurst, sheathed in a flame of red, is as permanent in the sartorial galaxy as Amelia Earhart's evening gown of white, Julia Hoyt is invariably collared in black fur. And Dorothy Hall furred in white.

Perhaps the most daring coiffure is exploited by Peggy Fears, a tornado toss of shoulder hair with twin-taffy streaks. Claire Booth Brokaw is rarely orchidless and Geraldine Farrar without a touch of jade. A long colored kerchief hangs from one of Lenore Ulric's bracelets.

Irene Bordini and Norma Terris feature Gay 90 bangs and Mrs. Frank Storr's emeralds are as much part of the Metropolitan opera as Gatti-Casazzi. Clara Bell Walsh's favorite color is tan, and May Allison Quirk and Ona Munson are fond of violet hues. Too, Miss Frances Perkins' tricorne hat!

The most primly dressed is the tailor clad Anne Morgan, and the topsy turviest Michael Strange. Adela Rogers St. John remains loyal to California outdoor influence, usually in tweeds. Then, of course, there's Lady Furness with her double circlet of black "mourning pearls."

* * *

Ladies are no longer feverish to be classed as raving beauties with plentious "It." Instead they strive to fit the vastly over-worked "glamorous." Doubtless this new desire has been implanted by the popularity of Katharine Cornell on the stage and Katherine Hepburn on the screen. Each has a broad face of eburnean paleness with extraordinary high cheek bones, faces portrait painters cherish, but unexciting to revue producers.

* * *

Speaking of Miss Hepburn, another debutante is on her first step to stardom. She is Elizabeth Young, who has shown marked talent in dramatics on the New York stage and is now in Hollywood under contract. Her triumph has been a marvelous expression of pluck. Several years ago while vacationing on a Montana ranch she was in an auto smashup and left twisted and unconscious along a roadside. Her back was broken. For 10 months she was in a cast, much of the time hung in a perpendicular position. During this tedium she mastered French and Italian and studied dramatic expression. She made a slight bit in a play with Judith Anderson outstanding. And the movie producers grabbed her. What looked the end of things for her became, as it frequently does, the beginning of an exciting career.

There is variety of human interest among grave-stone lunchers in Trinity grave yard these warm days. Stenographers who spread their repasts on weather worn slabs seem unaffected by the gloomy surroundings. Their chirp suggests the aviary and one pert creature was reading Havelock Ellis on Sex instead of perhaps Grey's Elegy. Interesting, too, that nearly all magazines seen were devoted to motion pictures.

* * *

In days of riding to Park Row in the subway I often catalogued books passengers were reading. As librarians long ago discovered, people you never suspect read Scott, Coleridge, Shelley and Keats. It once comforted me to sit next to Theodore Shonts, bent over a thrilling detective tale. It so happened, too, I saw the square-derbied Mayor Gaynor chuckling at Epictetus and reported it to my city editor, William Wirt Mills. He in turn reported to a news association. And such is the ding-long of the press, every paper in town was soon evoking Gaynor to Epictetus quotations for each twist in municipal affairs.

Noel Coward, before shoving off for a leisurely battleship cruise home, pip-pipped that an Englishman laughs at a joke thrice—when he hears it, when it's explained and when he understands. The American laughs but once—and that's merely to be polite, for he has always heard it before.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

"WON'T YOU," says she, "WRITE ABOUT THE DANGER OF HUMAN CRUELTY?" It isn't our cruelty that is most dangerous, Lady.

It's our ignorance—OUR DETERMINED, COMPLACENT IGNORANCE.

We don't plan to hurt the other fellow. We wouldn't vote to have him hurt, and we're truly distressed when we hear that he is hurt. But it stops right there.

For the simple truth is, we don't want our life messed up and our comfort disturbed by the under dog's need; and so we protect ourselves against this hazard by remaining ignorant.

WILFULLY IGNORANT.

ARROGANTLY IGNORANT.

And we resist, tooth 'n' toe nail, anyone who tries to penetrate that ignorance with a few plain facts.

Which isn't so dumb as it sounds.

For if we once face the truth we must do something about it—or be branded as the hypocrites and Selfish Meanies which we usually are.

But if we keep insisting that It Isn't So, and if we meet all attempts to prove that it is so with stony-eyed denials and righteous indignation, then who dare cast even a spit-ball at our Great, Warm, Loving, Human Hearts?

Remember the old adage: "When ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise" Ignorance is always bliss, if it pampers our own laziness, selfishness and conceit; and it's always folly to be wise if thereby we're forced to raise the other fellow's wages or remedy the conditions that have hurt him.

How do Respectable People live in this world of injustices and still square things with their consciences? That's how they do it—by refusing to admit that it is a world of injustices, and by putting you in the dog house because you do.

Recently this writer gave a series of talks on the conditions of women and children working in sweat shops. These talks were given before Women's Clubs and P. T. A. Associations.

The women in the audiences were obviously Nice People—the friendly, well-fed, sufficiently intelligent wives, mothers and daughters of comfortable American homes. Not one of them would have been deliberately cruel to a cockroach. Yet it was plain that, after the first gushy lamentations, the plight of the sweat-shop workers left them cold.

Oh, of course it was Simply Dreadful!

But, after all, what could they do about it?

Did they then frankly confess that they were just a Big Bunch of Selfish Egotists who didn't care a hoot whether other weary wives and mothers broke their hearts, or other little children were starved and crippled as long as They and Theirs were sitting pretty?

What a fantastic idea! Of course they didn't. To the contrary, they registered every sort of Proper Horror and Regret. But, while doing so, they promptly proceeded to prove exactly why they couldn't and shouldn't do anything about it.

In the first place, even if some of the statements were true, it was no use getting all worked up about People Like That. For those sweatshop people were all Foreigners. And of course Foreigners don't feel the same about things as We Americans Do.

And in the third place, when people got that way it was Probably Their Own Fault. They didn't save when they could. And even if you gave them money, look how they spent it. On movies and cheap jewelry and trash like that.

And, in the fourth place, it was outrageous to upset Nice Women by telling them about things like that. Heaven knows, they were already doing their duty as Good Wives and Mothers and that was enough. Why should they be riled up by such horrors when they'd come to spend a pleasant afternoon.

So, on and on. Do the arguments sound familiar? They should.

FOR HOW OFTEN HAVE YOU USED THEM YOURSELF, OR HEARD THEM USED, DURING THIS DEPRESSION?

The Human Side of the News

The Strange Career of "Scotty From Death Valley"—The Mystery of His Wealth Explained—A Mansion in the Desert

By EDWIN C. HILL

"SCOTTY from Death Valley"—he was a picture never to be forgotten by the gentlemen of the press as we gathered to meet him in the old Waldorf a quarter of a century ago. A broad, square fellow, he reminded one of Tom Sharkey dressed up in a gray flannel shirt, with a red scarf, and a big black sombrero atop his large head. His high-heeled boots gave him a length to which his medium size did not entitle him. But withal, we knew he was a wild man from the West when he bellowed: "Bring a gallon of whisky!" and when he mocked the tenderfeet who insisted on a little water on the side.

That he had flashed upon the country like a comet is more than figurative language. He had been nothing but a local figure in the mining camps of the hot sands of California's Death Valley until the day in 1905 that he strode up to the Santa Fe offices in Los Angeles and called for a special nonstop train to Chicago. The station master stood aghast, but Scotty planked down the $5,000 called for, and off he went at a murderous clip for Chicago in a four-coach train, with Mrs. Scott and his mongrel yellow dog, which sported a thousand-dollar collar and ate from a silver bucket.

That train reached Chicago in 44 hours and 54 minutes, and I believe the time still stands as a record. When it pulled into La Salle Street every window in the four coaches had been smashed by the terrific pounding. Mrs. Scott was black and blue from the buffeting, and Scotty had tossed hundreds of silver dollars to the staring yokels who had gathered along the right of way.

* * *

Champion Mystery For Two Decades

FROM that time and for two decades to come he remained the champion mystery man of the U. S. A. He was known as a Kentuckian who had drifted to California with a Wild West show, and it was known that his wife was a New York Girl, but whence came his fabulous wealth nobody knew. People said he had found a gold mine in Death Valley assaying $88.000 to the ton. Scotty never denied it, and the legend became accepted fact.

Only in the last two years did the world learn that Walter Scott's gold mine was a gentleman named Albert M. Johnson, multi-millionaire of Chicago—and the government has now set aside the Scott-Johnson diggings in Death Valley as a national preserve.

Scott's story is a strange, bizarre one, and yet it does not begin to compare with that of his patron. Back again we go to the past, the night of December 31, 1899. A horrible train wreck has taken place outside of Chicago. Albert Johnson lies trapped in the wreckage, crazed by the torture of a broken back, and his father dead nearby him. They pulled the young man from the mass of twisted and molten iron. The doctors said it would have been more merciful if he had perished; but he had the will to live, and live he did, to amass great wealth in the insurance business. All the while he craved health and struggled for it much harder than he did for millions.

Walter Scott came into his life in the tow of a promotor who wanted backing for Scotty's gold quests in Death Valley. The incongruity of the situation flashed upon the slim, city-bred invalid. Here was a man bursting with health who sought only gold. Here was he bursting with gold and seeking only health.

* * *

Two Million Dollar Mansion Built

HE LISTENED idly while Scotty talked about gold, but he was all attention when that sturdy young adventurer told of the solitude of the desert, the isolation, the dry climate, the protecting mountains. Johnson wanted not that gold, but that quiet, that solitude, that care-free life in the open. Death Valley was the place, Scott was the companion he would need.

They made their bargain. Scotty had his joke on the world and his fling. Johnson had long stays in Death Valley, and, as his health was restored he built there, quietly and gradually, a $2,000,000 mansion 56 miles from the railroad, with swimming pool, pipe organ and everything else in approved Hollywood fashion—for Scotty and himself and their friends to enjoy, and for the Indians to gape at.

That mansion couldn't be kept a secret forever. Johnson is 60 now, spare and gray, with a photographic resemblance to Henry Ford. Thirty-odd years ago they said he would never walk again. Today he can ride a horse a full 24 hours if occasion demands. Scotty in his middle 50s remains the quaint, bluff figure of his youth.

But according to report they are "tired" of squatting on the land and they ask to buy 1,420 acres at $1.25 an acre and to set it aside for public use. In recommending the taking over of Death Valley, Secretary Wilbur told Ex-President Hoover that it contains 500 species of plants not to be found elsewhere.

So Death Valley becomes just another nook in this prosaic old planet of ours, no longer a place apart for two men who have wrenched from life much more than it sought to allot them.

'BEAUTIFIED' BOYS

By Winifred Black

Emily is going to the beauty shop today.

She goes to the beauty shop once a week, does little Emily, unless of course she has the toothache or the earache or the flu or something.

I wen't to the beauty shop last week myself and there sat little Emily as big as life, being shampooed and finger-waved—and when it was done she was going to have a facial—if you please.

And the queerest part of it all was that three of little Emily's friends were being facialed and shampooed and marcelled and one of them was having a permanent wave.

And not a child among them was over 12 years of age!

"Oh, yes," said the manager of the beauty shop, "we have dozens of children coming in here for beauty treatments. We do their hands, manicure their nails, give them skin lotions and there are three or four little girls who have their eyebrows plucked and their eyebrows darkened.

"Why, we have little boys, too—we give them permanent waves. They look awfully well, too—they really do? Their mothers are just crazy about them.

"Most of the boys hate it, but their mothers make them go through with it and after a while the kids begin to like the fussing and beautifying process.

"What do I think of it? Well, of course, it's my business and it builds up a new trade all the time, so I can't complain.

"My own little boy? Oh, I wouldn't think of such a thing. I couldn't—even if I wanted to—he'd run away from home and stay away if I even dared to mention it."

I can't get over it—can you?

And they say it's getting to be quite a common thing in all the big cities.

I wouldn't believe it if I hadn't been to the beauty shop myself and seen it with my own eyes.

Little bits of children being "beautified"...save the mark.

As if there was anything in the world as beautiful as youth unadorned, unspoiled.

Poor little Emily. What sort of a life is she going to live—when she begins "beautifying" before she is 12 years old?

Hair, complexion, eyes, beautiful hands, these are the things she's thinking of. And what do you think—little Emily's mother works for a living. Works hard, from early morning until nine or ten at night.

She has neither money enough or time enough to go to a beauty shop herself, but she's taking money to send little daughter there. I suppose she wants to give little daughter all the things she can't possibly have herself—I wonder if that is sensible or even kind.

Is it a good idea to teach a little girl that she ought to have what her mother cannot afford to have?

Is it wise to educate a poor girl to think she has to be manicured and shampooed and massaged—to be happy?

I wonder.

And oh, what do you suppose one of those poor little beautified youngsters would give to run in the wind and let their hair grow just for once? And how about a whole glorious day "going barefoot?"

Poor things, my heart aches for them and their pitiful little, artificial make-believe childhood.
